Live and Dead Weight of Cattle.

We extract from the Rochester Wool Grower and Stock Register, the following article on the live and dead weight of cattle, which will be found interesting to our farmer readers in the country, who raise cattle for this, and other markets.

Salesmen commonly calculate that the dead weight is one-half of what the animal weighs when alive; but the butcher knows that the produce is greater; it often approaches to three-fifths; and by an extensive stock bailliff of the late Mr. Curwen, it was found that the dead weight amounted to fifty-five per cent. of the live. But the amount differs strangely as may be seen by the following statement of Mr. Ferguson, of Woodhill, C. W.:

Table with 4 columns: Live Weight, Dead Weight, Tallow, and St. lbs. Rows include Aberdeen ox, Short horned ox, do: heifer, do: steer, and British Husbandry.

The subject of live and dead weight of cattle being one that deeply interests farmers, we again call attention to the subject, in the hope that it may awaken inquiry, as to the question what should be the rule of paying the farmer for the best beef he may have grown? It costs him quite as much to grow hide and tallow, as it does muscle or flesh, and we should like to know, why he should not be paid for so doing?—Ed. Amer. Farmer.

In continuation of this subject, we make the following extracts from Coleman's Massachusetts Report:

"In New York, only four quarters are made by the slaughterer, and the hide and tallow, are not weighed or reckoned in the price: facts which are to be remembered in making comparisons of prices in the different markets."

"The following are some examples of live and dead weight of New England cattle, killed at home, and after being driven from the Connecticut river to Brighton, the Boston beef market, a distance of 75 or 80 miles:

Example 1—One ox live weight in market, 2,393 lbs; quarters weighed 418 lbs, 415 lbs, 324 lbs; hide, 150 lbs; tallow, 175 lbs. lbs.—1,811. Difference, 582 lbs.

Example 2—Two oxen of A. S. killed at home, weighed as follows: Live—one 1,979 lbs. Killed 1,400 lbs. " 1,910 " " 1,341 "

About 29.4lbs loss on a hundred of the live weight.

Example 3—An ox owned by A. S., conveyed to Brighton on a sled, weighed at home about 2,630 lbs; the precise number of pounds not recollected. On being slaughtered, weight as follows:—quarters, 480 lbs, 479 lbs, 349 lbs; tallow, 250 lbs. Total 2,120 lbs. Loss 510 lbs.

Example 4—Ox belonging to R. D., when he left Connecticut river, weighed 2,435 lbs. Weight at Brighton when dressed, 1,588 lbs. Loss of weight, 867 lbs. This is a little more than one-third, and is a remarkable result.

Example 5—An ox weighing on Connecticut river 2,250 lbs, weighed in market, 1,472—Loss 778 lbs.

Kind of Fruit Indigestible.

The fact cannot be too strongly impressed upon the public. It applies to all fruit without exception, and includes also the pellicle or skin of kernel and nuts of all kinds. The edible part of fruit is particularly delicate, and liable to rapid decomposition if exposed to the atmosphere; it is therefore, a provision of nature to place a strong and impervious coating over it, as a protection against accident, and to prevent insect enemies from destroying the seed within. The skin of all the plum tribe is wonderfully strong, compared with its substance, and resists the action of water and other solvents in a remarkable manner. If not thoroughly macerated before taken into the stomach, the rind of plum is rarely, if ever, dissolved by the gastric juice. In some cases pieces of it adhere to the coats of the stomach the same as wet paper clings to the body, causing sickness and other inconvenience. Dried raisins and currants are particularly included in these remarks, showing the best reasons for placing the fruit upon the chopping-board with the seed in making a pudding of them; for if a dried currant passes into the stomach whole, it is never digested at all. When horses eat oats or beans that have not been through a crushing mill, much of this food is swallowed whole, and, in this state, being perfectly indigestible, the husk or pellicle resisting the solvents of the stomach, there is so much lost to nutrition. Birds being destitute of teeth, are provided with the apparatus for grinding their seed, namely, with the gizzard, through which the seed passes, and is crushed prior to digestion. The peels of apples and pears should always be cast away. Oranges we need not mention, as this is always done. Orleans, green gages, damsons, and plums should be carefully skinned, if eaten raw; and if put into tarts they should be crushed before cooking. Nuts are as indigestible as we could desire, if the brown skin were not removed or blanched, as almonds are generally treated. Peaches should be denuded of their skins before they are eaten. If any person wishes to know how to eat one, let him watch a monkey at the operation.

An old bachelor having been laughed at by a party of pretty girls, told them—"you are small potatoes." "We may be small potatoes," said one of them, "but we are sweet ones!"

HEADLEY'S NEW WORK.

JUST PUBLISHED, Lives of Winfield Scott and Andrew Jackson, by J. T. Headley. 1 vol. 12mo., with Portraits. Uniform with "Napoleon and his Marshals." $1.25.

Scott and Jackson are here placed together as the two military men who have made the deepest impressions on their country since the title of Washington. They both achieved a brilliant reputation in the war of 1812, and by the battles of Chippewa, Niagara, New Orleans, etc., gave their country a reputation at home and abroad, and though differing widely in some characteristics, they were very similar in others. The author has not only sketched the biography of each, but has given a faithful and graphic description of the brilliant battles in which they were engaged. The biography of Winfield Scott, which constitutes the greater part of the volume, is full and authentic, the materials for it having been derived from public documents and from many officers who had served under Scott. It presents to the reader a panoramic view of the brilliant campaign of Mexico, embracing the storming and capture of Vera Cruz, the battles of Cerro Gordo, Churubusco, Contreras, Molino del Rey, Chapultepec, storming of Mexico, Triumphal Entry, with description of the scenery, personal incidents, etc. The author has fully sustained the reputation acquired by "Napoleon and his Marshals," and other works, of which over 200,000 volumes have been sold.

FRANK FREEMAN'S BARBER-SHOP. A Tale for the South and North, by Rev. B. R. Hill. Author of "Something for Everybody," "New Purchases," &c. 1 vol. 12mo. 75c.

This work, while it advocates the cause of the African, would do justice to the South. It would awaken sympathy, but not excite wrath, nor turn pity for the Negro into vengeance against the White, not incite to treason under pretence of love and freedom. It would have love do the work of hate. It will be marked with the characteristics of the author, so well known to the public by his previous works, of whom it was said in the publication of "The New Purchase," that "He was master of many styles, and had stepped to the highest round of the ladder at once." The work is no defence of slavery; but it would be a balance-wheel, not to stop, but to concentrate, equalize, and direct other motions. It treats the utopian of the North to the Lex talionis. The writer witnessed much that he describes, and real persons are introduced under new names, so that the work, while it will possess the interest of fiction, is not only true to life, but in many of its scenes and characters is true to fact.

Will be Published in October. CHARLES SCRIBNER, 36 Park Row and 145 Nassau St. N. Y. N. B.—Either of these works will be forwarded by mail (prepaid) to the address of any party sending the prices annexed. Nov. 11, '52—1m.

BRITISH PERIODICAL LITERATURE.

Publication of the LONDON QUARTERLY, THE EDINBURGH, THE NORTH BRITISH, AND THE WESTMINSTER REVIEWS, AND BLACKWOOD'S EDINBURGH MAGAZINE.

These periodicals are the critical fountains of the British scholastic and literary world. By their standard, they aid readers in the selection of the most valuable books; and by the epitomes which they present, often obviate the necessity of consulting works too voluminous for general examination. They fill a place which American magazines cannot supply; for they discuss topics relating more strictly to the affairs, political, religious, scientific, and literary, of the continent of Europe. They are connected by the best talent of Great Britain and are engaged with the most important questions which interest or agitate the civilized world. Whoever subscribes to them all, may read the ablest representatives of the principal parties into which the people of Great Britain are divided.

TERMS.—PAYMENT TO BE MADE IN ADVANCE. For any one of the four Reviews, $3 00. For any two do. 5 00. For any three do. 7 00. For all four of the Reviews, 8 00. For Blackwood's Magazine, 3 00. For Blackwood and three Reviews, 10 00. For Blackwood and the four Reviews, 10 00.

Shirleysburg Female Seminary.

The winter term, of the second year, of this Institution will commence on Tuesday the 2d day of November.

The location is unsurpassed in salubrity of climate and beauty of scenery—and a sufficient trial has shown that a flourishing institution can be maintained here, notwithstanding the previous rivalry competition on the subject of education throughout this entire region of country.

Additional improvements are in progress which will afford accommodation for a few more boarding scholars. The services of a very accomplished teacher of instrumental and vocal music, and of the French language, have been secured.

The year is divided into two sessions of twenty two weeks each. Eleven weeks constituting a quarter. No deduction made except in case of protracted sickness. TERMS.—Boarding and lodging, per week, $1.50. Tuition $4.00 and $5.00. Instrumental music, French, &c., extra.

The examination of the pupils will commence on Thursday 30th day of September, at 10 o'clock, A. M., and continue two days. The parents and friends of the institution are respectfully invited to attend. Rev. J. CAMPBELL, A. M., Principal. September 2, 1852—2m.

Aughwick Collegiate School, SHIRLEYSBURG.

This School will commence at Shirleysburg on the last Wednesday of September. Instruction will be given in the usual academic studies, and in any branches of a collegiate education that may be required. The healthful and retired situation of the village, its beautiful scenery and the convenience of access by the railroad renders this place one of the most desirable points for the establishment of an Academy in the State.

The neighborhood of the flourishing Female Seminary, under the charge of the Rev. James Campbell, offers an inducement to parents who desire to send their children from home, together. The very auspicious commencement that has been made, the friendly zeal of the citizens for its success, and the wealth and intelligence of the surrounding country, give assurance that the design of rendering this institution permanent will be sustained.

TERMS.— Tuition per session of 22 weeks, $10 to $12.— Boarding can be had in the village at $1.25 to $1.75 per week, according to accommodations. No deduction for absence except in case of protracted illness. Tuition fee payable in advance. The Principal will expect the application of each student to his studies, the employment of his time and his general deportment throughout the session to be subject to his supervision. H. J. CAMPBELL, A. B., Principal. September 2, '52—2m.
