Essentials to Productive Farming.

The following fifteen essentials to pro-ductive furning are from the pen of the editor of the American Farmer which is we believe the oldest Agricultural paper in the United States. in the United States. I. Good emplements of husbandry, and plenty of them; which should always be

2. Deep plowing and thorough pulveri-tation of the soil, by the free use of the zation of the soil, by the free use of the drag or roller. 3. An application of line, marl, or ash-es, where calcerous matter or potash may not be present in the soil. 4. A systematic husbanding of every substance on a farm capable of being con-verted-into-manure, a systematic protection of such substances from loss by evapora-tion or waste of any kind, and careful ap-plication of the same to the lands in eul-ture.

14. To keep no more stock than can well be kept, but to be sure to keep as many as the farm can keep in good condi-tion, as it is wise policy to feed us much as possible of the crops grown on the farm, and thus return to it that which has been obstracted from it abstracted from it.

abstracted from it. 15. To provide a good orehard and gar-den, the one to be filled with choice fruit of all kinds—the other with vegetables of different sorts carly and late, so that the table may at all times be seasonably sup-plied, and the surplus contribute to in-crease the wealth of the proprietor.

Generals Lincoln, Greene, Wayne, Heath and Gates, Major Shaw, and other distinguished revolutionary heroes. These letters, though they have lain among the rubbish of the attic, in the old family mansionhouse, for half a century, are generally in a very good state of preservation, and perfectly legible; and may yet prove of essentialvalue to the biographer and historian. These interesting relies have fallen into the hands of persons who appreciate their value—the only remaining daughter and grand-children of Gen. Knox. We may add, that besides the mass of letters alluded to above, many other interesting documents were discovered among Gen. Knox's old papers; for example, what appears to have been the original drift of the articles of capitulation of Cornwallis at Yorktown, containing the original-signatures of Cornwallis, as commander of the Band forces, and Thomas Symonds, as commander of the Bind forces, in York Rrivr.—Travler.

The Board appointed last session to examine into the accounts of Col. Fre-mont, for expenses incurred in the public service in California, upon his own respon-sibility, will, it is said, report in favor of payment.

A Paying Singing Book. A Paying Singing Book. It will be seen that the publishers of the Carmina Sacra', announce in their ad-vertisement of that work, that over THREE BUNDERD THOUSAND COTES HAVE BEEN SOLD. If we mistake not, the "CAUMINA SACRA' was first published some nine years since; so its average annual sale has been about THIRTY POLT THOUSAND COTES! Now, let us see what the profits have been. After considerable diguing,' we have come to the conclusion, that a clear profit of thirty-five cents is made on each keyn in perfect ordar.
