

Ireland--Good Symptoms.

The linen manufacture is about being established on an extensive scale in Galway, and a better race of landlords will improve and pacify the country whether there be legislation or not. Eccle Signum.
A BELFAST LANDLORD IN TIPPERARY.—The Tipperary Vendictor and Limerick Reporter has an interesting account of an entertainment given to the tenants on the lands of Clonboe, Derryloagher, and Tober, near the town of Templemore, in the County of Tipperary, by their landlord Mr. Graham, hat manufacturer Bridge Street, Belfast. The lands in question formed part of the estates of the Earl of Carrick, and were purchased; last spring, in the Encumbered Estates Court, by Mr. Graham. On this occasion having gone to meet his tenantry, Mr. Graham entertained them at an elegant repast at the residence of his agent, Mr. Dudley Byrne, to which eighty six persons sat down. On the removal of the cloth, toasts succeeded, and Mr. Graham was honored with a bumper and "nine times nine," and a similar compliment was conferred on Mrs. Graham. Dancing succeeded, and was kept up with spirit, as usual; in that region of high spirits and light heels, till after four o'clock in the morning, when the company separated after three hearty cheers for the host. The "Irish Party," now disclaiming those who have taken office, will only be the more resolute against the government that has gained them, considering, as men say, that those who seduced them are as bad as themselves. This will keep the government on their sharps on the one side, while Disraeli and the Tories will "flap" them on the other. But the new purchasers of estates, encouraging the farmers, being mostly of a class that can sympathize better with them than the "high and dry" scions of the aristocracy, who knows more of the sinks of Paris, or the hells of Baden or the styes of Naples than of the Tipperary or Mayo peasantry and their privations, will spread content and peace through Ireland. EBLANESIS.

A Coquette's Account of Herself.

I am, you must know, a young woman whose whole dependence is on my person and accomplishment; and as I would willingly be married to a man of fortune, description of both may be necessary. In the first place, I have a sweet figure, charming teeth, the finest eyes in the world, my face has a good deal of wholesome flesh and blood about it, and I fancy myself with a constitution little favorable to the Physician.—Then as for accomplishments, I can sing all the songs in Norma, like a Laborer or Truffi, have a natural taste for extravagance and pleasure, and am passionately fond of running in debt. I am in a strict sense of the word, a bewitching girl, and happily calculated to break a husband's heart. If any gentleman therefore, has the least inclination to be made miserable and a beggar, he can by no means apply to any person more devoted to his service. But then I expect settlements pretty considerable. For making a man unhappy, I could not think of less than two thousand a year, though fifteen hundred might possibly be accepted from a commoner. You may perhaps, laugh at hearing me make a man miserable as an argument in my favor; but you do not remember that the universal custom is, the more fashionable it must be considered; and that making each other wretched is one of the accomplishments among a certain people of distinction. Not but that I can preserve appearances tolerably well; I could say my life, to my husband, at the same time I was winking at another man in the company; and call him a dear creature! at the very time I thought him the greatest brute in the universe.

YANKEE DUNNING.

Non-paying subscribers are thus talked to by an American editor: Wagons cannot run without wheels—boats without steam—or a newspaper carried on without funds, no more than a dog can wag his tail when he has none.—Our subscribers are all good, but what does a man's goodness do when it don't do you any good? We have no doubt that every one thinks that all have paid except him, and that we are clever fellows, and this is a small matter, and will make no difference. It would not, if it were confined to a dozen or a hundred cases, but when the slow fever seizes too many, the complaint is altogether too general. As the bullfrog said, "It's fun to you but it's death to us!"

MR. EDITOR:

I was one of the many of our citizens who were attracted by the "Grand Exhibition" of our neighbor Charles S. Black, Esq., and I of course attended the opening exhibition. I am also one of the few who understand the value of a good newspaper: Being therefore "hooked up" in the facts, and the price of the press, and anxious to impart substantial knowledge to the uneducated, I have taken this method of saying to you, "If you would have your Sales well cared for, call at Black's, and examine his stock of Ladies, and Gentlemen's, shoes and boots, he warrants the work not rip; and stitches without charge if it does." Neighbors try him. PEDESTRIAN

Birmingham Female Seminary.

The liberal patronage which this School has received in the past, encourages the proprietor and friends of female education, to expect by proper exertion to make it both a permanent and important Institution; and no pains will be spared to sustain its growing reputation.

Among other considerations which inspire hope as to its future success, the location is not unimportant. Three years actual experiment has developed a more philosophical, if not a truer reason for the existence of Birmingham than many which have been assigned—that it is the situation for a female Seminary, surrounded as it is by most romantic scenery—retired—healthful—easy of access and in itself a place where one might almost grow wise in the study of Nature alone un-mocked by the works of Art.

The school year is divided into two Sessions of twenty-two weeks each; the summer term commencing the last Tuesday in April, the winter term the last Tuesday in October.

Charges to date from time of entering, and no deductions made for absence except in case of sickness. Tuition $4.00 and $5.00 per quarter—boarding $1.50 per week.
