In a rural district, among one of the plainest and simplest people of Pennsylvania, apart from the bustle and evils of a thoroughlare, or large town, convenient of access from all sides, with a community noted for its temperance and morali-ty, and possessing a healthy and univally beau-tiful situation, this Village presents advantages for Literary Institutions, which strike the eye of every visitor. Each one possesses new and com-modions buildings, and a full corps of uschers-They are under entirely separate governmentand instruction, being situated about a quarter of a mile apart, and having nothing in common ex-cept that the use of the Academy Apparatus is given to the Semiary. The course of instruction is thorough and ex-tensive, embracing the branches usually taught in such Institutions. These Schools offer two principal inducements; first, the most extensive and complete Philosophical and Chemical Appar-atus in this section of the State, to which Profes sor PENLAL has made the valunble addition of his choice collection of Astronomical and Mathe-matical Instruments, incling in the Astronom-ical elescope; second, the cheapness of the terns. Wishing to render their Institutions, as fir as they concluse the state of the states, are S50,000 per session, while at other similar Institu-tion, the prices vary from $55,00 to $50,000 per session. The whole number of papils at both schools, for the past year, was upwaris of 100. Expeciel Classes for tenchers.
