

Cause of the St. Louis Riots.

The St. Louis Intelligencer gives the following rational and gratifying account of the causes and character of the late riot in that city. It is a cause of sincere congratulation to learn that respectable men and respectable parties are not justly charged with that outrage:

The recent disturbances were mainly the work of those rowdy boys, who infest all large cities; and of the crowds of men who filled the streets, very few took any part in the fight, whether as agents or abettors of this disturbance. The injury to property was confined altogether to drinking-houses, most of them resorts of the lowest character, and at no time was any serious apprehension left that the houses of private citizens or the churches of any religious body would be attacked. The reports of a design upon the College, St. Xavier's Church and St. Patrick's, were wholly unfounded, no disposition of the kind was at any time manifested by any portion of the mob; no suggestion of the sort was heard from any of the combatants during any of the different street engagements, not even where the mob was assembled in full force in the immediate neighborhood of Catholic institutions was any such suggestions made. We have turned to all the sources of information at our command in vain for any evidence of hostility on the part of the rioters to Catholics or any other religious body as such. The whole disturbance wears every mark of having been an aimless, meaningless and wholly unpremeditated series of attacks upon all drinking-houses of a certain class, by a mob of ruffians who had pursued their opponents into an Irish dogger, and having gutted it, found the sport so much to their mind that they determined to finish the "few more of the same sort" still left. The riot has been a serious one in one of its aspects only. The loss of life has been great; the injury done persons and property is considerable; but it must not be permitted that the impression should go abroad that St. Louis, too, has become the theatre of anti-Catholic or Native mobs. It would do a gross injustice to the Native party to charge this disturbance in any way upon them. It was a purely accidental outbreak; and, as we have said before, no Native nor anti-Catholic feeling lay at the bottom of it at all. Some of the Irish, who seemed to think the Roman Catholic Religion incarnate in them, were determined apparently, that the step from attacking Irish doggeries to burning the temples of Catholic worship was the most natural in the world; but they were, we believe, alone in the opinion; and, had it not been for their very noisy and injudicious expression of these fears, the question of religion and the word Church need never have been heard in connection with this mob.

An Imposter.

The Denton (Md.) Journal gives an account of one John Howard, an Englishman, who had recently been flourishing in that vicinity for some time past as a teacher of the male school and preached in the M. E. church. It is discovered that he was actually under matrimony!

Engagement to at least two ladies. This aroused suspicion that something was wrong, when inquiry was made, resulting most unfavorably to his fair pretension. His letters of recommendation, of which he had a good supply, in some cases turned out to be palpable forgeries, and finally, he was forced to leave the place. In reply to letters written to Richmond Va., it appears he married in the town of South Groton, Mass., last year, under the name of James Cooper; subsequently he went with his wife to Richmond, Va., and by the exhibition of certificates of standing in the M. E. Conference, under the name of J. W. Cooper, was about to obtain charge of Clay Street Chapel, Peoria, Illinois, to whom all applications for Agencies must be addressed. Be sure you get it with the letters H. G. before Farrell's, thus —H. G. FARRELL'S— and his signature on the wrapper, all others are counterfeit.

The most extraordinary discovery in the World is the Great Arabian Remedy for Man and Beast.

H. G. FARRELL'S

CELEBRATED ARABIAN LINIMENT.

This celebrated medicine, skilfully composed as it is of the most healing balsams and penetrating oils, can never fail to cure almost every affliction that could be alleviated by an external remedy. Its superiority over all other Liniments is proven by the miraculous cures it performs, and by the great and constantly increasing demand.

There has been sold within the past year more than THREE MILLIONS OF BOTTLES, and there can be but few persons found who do not know upon it the highest praise for the rare virtues it possesses. No thing, perhaps, since the creation of the world has been so successful as an external remedy for all nervous diseases, as this wonderful curative.

When applied, it instantaneously diffuses itself through the whole system, soothing the irritated nerves, allaying the most intense pain, and creating a most delightful sensation. Read the following remarkable cure, which can attest to it hundreds who were fully acquainted with the whole circumstance:

CHRONIC ENLARGEMENT OF THE TONSILS.

My daughter, when six months old, was taken with a swelling in the tonsils, which grew larger and larger, till when six years old she had great difficulty in swallowing her food. Every night watch was kept, fearing she would suffocate. The best doctors attended her, but could give no relief. I took her to the most eminent doctors in the East; they said there was no help for her but to outrun it. With a sad heart I returned home with her, when she became so much worse that the doctors had to call in again; they decided that the tonsils must be cut off, as the only means of giving relief. My wife would not consent to this, and she determined to try your Liniment, which gave relief the very first application, and by a continued use she entirely recovered. She is now ten years old and fleshly and healthy as could be desired. Your Liniment is also the best in use for sprains, bruises, cuts, burns, headache, etc., and it will remove the most severe pain in a few minutes. It also cured a bad cold in my son in a few days.

Look out for Counterfeits!

The public are cautioned against another counterfeit, which has lately made its appearance, called W. B. Farrell's Arabian Liniment, the most dangerous of all the counterfeits, because it has the name of Farrell, many will buy it in good faith, without the knowledge that a counterfeit exists, and they will perhaps only discover their error when the spurious mixture has wrought its evil effects.

The genuine article is manufactured only by H. G. Farrell, sole inventor and proprietor, and wholesale druggist, No. 17 Main street, Peoria, Illinois, to whom all applications for Agencies must be addressed.

Be sure you get it with the letters H. G. before Farrell's, thus —H. G. FARRELL'S— and his signature on the wrapper, all others are counterfeit.

MUSICAL CONVENTION.

THERE will be a Musical Convention held in Huntingdon, commencing on the 1st Tues. of September, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and continuing until Friday evening. There will be Sessions each day and night, at which instructions will be given in the art of singing, and the performance of sacred music, and by a number of instrumental performers. These exercises will be preparatory to a Grand Concert, to take place at the close on Friday evening.

A considerable expense will be incurred in bringing gentlemen and ladies from abroad, who are expected to take a leading part in the exercises; and in procuring books, it will be necessary to charge the members of the Convention, (the price will be specified in the course of the next week,) a ticket to which will admit also to the Concert—separate tickets to which will be issued, at no more than 25 cents. DIED,

On Friday the 11th inst., in Altoona, Miss DELIA BIRCHELL, in the 19th year of her age, from a short illness of two weeks.

Miss B. was formerly a student of Cassville Seminary, and from our intimate association with her, we feel free to speak of her many virtues. She embraced religion when very young, and attached herself to the Methodist Church. Though modest and self-distrustful in her profession of religion, her dying testimony affords abundant satisfaction that her piety was genuine.

Her amiable and Christian-like deportment secured to her the confidence and esteem of all her friends. As a student, she was popular and beloved; as a friend, zealous and true; as a daughter, dutiful and affectionate.

Her last sufferings, we are informed, were borne with patience, while she expressed a confidence in God, her saviour. Although we are thus called to mourn the early death of our beloved friend, yet we sincerely trust that our loss is her infinite gain. For surely:

"Her quiet immovable breath."

Will be heaved by affliction no more."
