

Wreck of the Steamer Yankee Blade. Loss of Thirty Lives—Hobbs and Marler by the Firemen.

Purser Vought, late of the Yankee Blade, furnishes the following report: STAMBUK ULOHAI, at SEA, Oct. 8.

The Independent Steamship Yankee Blade, Henry Randall, Commander, sailed from San Francisco, Sept. 30th, at 4 P. M., with 800 passengers and $153,000 in specie.

At 11 o'clock the steamer was overtaken by a large iceberg, which she struck on the starboard beam. Oct. 1st, at 3 P. M., being encompassed in a dense fog, steering S. E. by S.

At 10 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

While the ship was on the rocks, the water, which in less than 25 minutes sunk below the pinnacles, did so so fast that it was impossible to get the boats away.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

Wreck of the Steamer Yankee Blade.

Loss of Thirty Lives—Hobbs and Marler by the Firemen.

Purser Vought, late of the Yankee Blade, furnishes the following report: STAMBUK ULOHAI, at SEA, Oct. 8.

The Independent Steamship Yankee Blade, Henry Randall, Commander, sailed from San Francisco, Sept. 30th, at 4 P. M., with 800 passengers and $153,000 in specie.

At 11 o'clock the steamer was overtaken by a large iceberg, which she struck on the starboard beam. Oct. 1st, at 3 P. M., being encompassed in a dense fog, steering S. E. by S.

At 10 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

While the ship was on the rocks, the water, which in less than 25 minutes sunk below the pinnacles, did so so fast that it was impossible to get the boats away.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

Wreck of the Steamer Yankee Blade.

Loss of Thirty Lives—Hobbs and Marler by the Firemen.

Purser Vought, late of the Yankee Blade, furnishes the following report: STAMBUK ULOHAI, at SEA, Oct. 8.

The Independent Steamship Yankee Blade, Henry Randall, Commander, sailed from San Francisco, Sept. 30th, at 4 P. M., with 800 passengers and $153,000 in specie.

At 11 o'clock the steamer was overtaken by a large iceberg, which she struck on the starboard beam. Oct. 1st, at 3 P. M., being encompassed in a dense fog, steering S. E. by S.

At 10 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

While the ship was on the rocks, the water, which in less than 25 minutes sunk below the pinnacles, did so so fast that it was impossible to get the boats away.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

Wreck of the Steamer Yankee Blade.

Loss of Thirty Lives—Hobbs and Marler by the Firemen.

Purser Vought, late of the Yankee Blade, furnishes the following report: STAMBUK ULOHAI, at SEA, Oct. 8.

The Independent Steamship Yankee Blade, Henry Randall, Commander, sailed from San Francisco, Sept. 30th, at 4 P. M., with 800 passengers and $153,000 in specie.

At 11 o'clock the steamer was overtaken by a large iceberg, which she struck on the starboard beam. Oct. 1st, at 3 P. M., being encompassed in a dense fog, steering S. E. by S.

At 10 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

While the ship was on the rocks, the water, which in less than 25 minutes sunk below the pinnacles, did so so fast that it was impossible to get the boats away.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

Wreck of the Steamer Yankee Blade.

Loss of Thirty Lives—Hobbs and Marler by the Firemen.

Purser Vought, late of the Yankee Blade, furnishes the following report: STAMBUK ULOHAI, at SEA, Oct. 8.

The Independent Steamship Yankee Blade, Henry Randall, Commander, sailed from San Francisco, Sept. 30th, at 4 P. M., with 800 passengers and $153,000 in specie.

At 11 o'clock the steamer was overtaken by a large iceberg, which she struck on the starboard beam. Oct. 1st, at 3 P. M., being encompassed in a dense fog, steering S. E. by S.

At 10 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

While the ship was on the rocks, the water, which in less than 25 minutes sunk below the pinnacles, did so so fast that it was impossible to get the boats away.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

Wreck of the Steamer Yankee Blade.

Loss of Thirty Lives—Hobbs and Marler by the Firemen.

Purser Vought, late of the Yankee Blade, furnishes the following report: STAMBUK ULOHAI, at SEA, Oct. 8.

The Independent Steamship Yankee Blade, Henry Randall, Commander, sailed from San Francisco, Sept. 30th, at 4 P. M., with 800 passengers and $153,000 in specie.

At 11 o'clock the steamer was overtaken by a large iceberg, which she struck on the starboard beam. Oct. 1st, at 3 P. M., being encompassed in a dense fog, steering S. E. by S.

At 10 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

While the ship was on the rocks, the water, which in less than 25 minutes sunk below the pinnacles, did so so fast that it was impossible to get the boats away.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

Wreck of the Steamer Yankee Blade.

Loss of Thirty Lives—Hobbs and Marler by the Firemen.

Purser Vought, late of the Yankee Blade, furnishes the following report: STAMBUK ULOHAI, at SEA, Oct. 8.

The Independent Steamship Yankee Blade, Henry Randall, Commander, sailed from San Francisco, Sept. 30th, at 4 P. M., with 800 passengers and $153,000 in specie.

At 11 o'clock the steamer was overtaken by a large iceberg, which she struck on the starboard beam. Oct. 1st, at 3 P. M., being encompassed in a dense fog, steering S. E. by S.

At 10 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

While the ship was on the rocks, the water, which in less than 25 minutes sunk below the pinnacles, did so so fast that it was impossible to get the boats away.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

Wednesday, November 15, 1854.

WILLIAM BREWSTER, Editor. CIRCULATION 1000.

V. B. PALMER, the American Newspaper Agent, is the ONLY AUTHORIZED AGENT for the HUNTINGDON JOURNAL, who are authorized to receive and remit for money paid on subscription, and to take the names of new subscribers at our published prices.

Agents for the Journal. The following persons have appointed Agents for the HUNTINGDON JOURNAL, who are authorized to receive and remit for money paid on subscription, and to take the names of new subscribers at our published prices.

WANTED. A few leads of WOOD at the Journal Office.

New Advertisements. Mr. JAMES DYSART, offers 190 acres of limestone land for sale, situated in Franklin township, Huntingdon county.

Some of our subscribers whose year has terminated, and who do not wish to take the Journal for a longer time, return the paper without mentioning the post office from which they send it; and a few days ago one was returned with the subscribers name torn off, and no post mark to tell whence it came.

Hereafter we will not take any Journal from the Post Office that has been returned, if a subscriber should wish to discontinue his paper, he must inform us by letter, so that we will be able to tell whose paper to discontinue. No unpaid letter will be lifted.

We have received the United States Magazine for October, and it is one of the most interesting and valuable of the kind published at the low rate of one dollar per annum.

The engraving is an equestrian Statue of Peter the Great, in Admiralty square, St. Petersburg; Balpin's great Paris Mantilla. Sewing Machine Manufacturer. It also contains the portrait of Gen. Belisarius, Christopher Columbus, and Sebastian Cabot, with their biographies; as well as a large portion of literature, &c. Published by J. M. Emerson & Co., 1, 3, 5 and 7, Spruce St., New York.

Farewell Sermon. The Rev. LOWMAN P. HAWES, late pastor of the Presbyterian Congregation, preached his farewell sermon in the Methodist Church in this place, on last Sunday night. It was a truly solemn and impressive discourse, founded on 1st Thess. 5, 19—"Quench not the Spirit."

This epiphany of Quench not the Spirit. The officers and members of the Methodist Church deserve praise for the care and attention with which they provided additional seats for the accommodation of those in attendance.

Huntingdon Guards. By invitation the Huntingdon Guards repaired to Altoona on Friday last week, for the purpose of having a general parade. The hospitality of the Altoonians, was very kindly shown, by giving the companies an excellent free dinner. It is said they had a pleasant time of it.

The Holders of Jones' Gift Tickets. Will be glad to learn that this great enterprise has at last been consummated. The committee have distributed the gifts by means of uniform envelopes, containing orders for the prizes.—These envelopes have been thoroughly mingled together, and numbered by the Committee.—Every person holding tickets is requested to send them in immediately, accompanied by a full sized pre-paid envelope, containing their address in full, in which will be forwarded their "drawn envelope," detailing their prize and the means of getting it. Letters should be addressed as formerly, to "The Committee of Jones' Gift Enterprise, New York," pre-paid invariably!

Now is the exciting moment—who has got the $40,000 Pantosque? The $25,000 farm? The $12,000 houses? The Carriage, Pianos, &c., &c.? Who has made a fortune? And who has drawn a book? Is the exciting question. Keep cool, friends—all must not expect to be the lucky ones—send in your tickets—and a few days will determine.

There is still remaining unsold in the hands of the "Committee," a few hundred tickets, which, with their corresponding "drawn envelopes," will be sold to any persons applying immediately, at the following rates: eleven tickets for $10, twenty-five for $20, fifty for $40! and so on in proportion. Here is a rare chance for investment, and immediate return. If any money is received after these "drawn envelopes" are all sold, it will be refunded with a present of the book of California Adventures. Who shall be the lucky one? Who gets the farm?

Leavenworth is already talked of as the future capital of Kansas.

Wreck of the Steamer Yankee Blade.

Loss of Thirty Lives—Hobbs and Marler by the Firemen.

Purser Vought, late of the Yankee Blade, furnishes the following report: STAMBUK ULOHAI, at SEA, Oct. 8.

The Independent Steamship Yankee Blade, Henry Randall, Commander, sailed from San Francisco, Sept. 30th, at 4 P. M., with 800 passengers and $153,000 in specie.

At 11 o'clock the steamer was overtaken by a large iceberg, which she struck on the starboard beam. Oct. 1st, at 3 P. M., being encompassed in a dense fog, steering S. E. by S.

At 10 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

While the ship was on the rocks, the water, which in less than 25 minutes sunk below the pinnacles, did so so fast that it was impossible to get the boats away.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up upwards of 60 feet.

At 11 o'clock the iceberg was sighted, and we struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguilla, about 15 miles above Point Conception, on which the ship ran up