blasts are resounding from the courte to the circumstrence of the old world, here, on our bleat native soil, the "land of the free and home of the brave," heaven's rich blessing, peace, is seen and felt, and prosperity gladdens the hearts of all.

We have every reason to believe, that abundance will crown the coming winter. There will be at the least calculation, one half as much more grain, offered for sale this year than last. This being the fact, the prices must, as a consequence accompanying an over-stocked market, come down, and that very fast. This will become evident to every thinking and reading market, come down, and that very fast. This will become evident to every thinking and reading man, when he considers the jumenee crops which have been raised in the west and states, all of which, testify to the correct next of the reported yields. We will make a few quotations, from them, and leave our readers to make what comments they please. Herbs of John Shith, Attravitor.—The coolest thing that we have encountered this but the season, is a notice in a Philadelphia cotemporary, advertising for the heirs of John Smith, it is stated that one John Smith, who was born 1697, and died in 1896, which would make the said John 199 years of age at the time of his death, left a sang little fortune of $2,500,000, for which heirs are now wanted. It is said that a meeting of the Smiths, interested in this future, is arranged to come off in August, at a point near Philadelphia. It is believed that, except the Persian army under Xerxes, the world has not seen as large an assembly as the call upon the Smiths will bring together. The question of supplying such a multitude is already beginning to excite serious apprehensions. Our Philadelphia cotemporary does well, however, in warning the Smiths not to be too sanguine of making their fortunes at the proposed convention. It is estimated that if all the Smiths attend, and the two and a half millions are divided equally among them, each individual will receive alpost half a dollar.

Stranny.—August is here with its cloudy sans, its murky atmosphere, dead heats and its hedious dog days. But there is consolation in the fact that it will soon be over, and then farewell for a season, sweltering days and sleepless nights. Welcome, thrice welcome the day and hour, when dandy-dom will once more reign trimplant,—when starch will do its daty, and shirt collars face the brazen cheek,—when only perspiration will no more interfere with rouged checks, blue traced veins and pencilled eye-tows,—when faney colored kids and many colored hose will once again bedget the dainty hands and spindle shanks of fashion's butter flies, who can endure the winter's cold, but rot the summer's heat. In pity for them, and the sufferings throe mendone the winter's cold, but rot the summer's heat. In pity for them, and the sufferings thore an endure the winter's

He proposes to rest for a season from his labors, but he will find it difficult long to resist the solicitations which will reach him from every side for a renewal of his efforts in this, his adopted country.

rest A correspondent witting from Industriality, says:

"Our wheat crop is being harvested, and the prespect is, that we will have an abundant crop. Corn looks well in general; potatoes plenty—in fact everything that grows from the ground will be very abundant. Hence a good time is coming in our Commercial matters.—Politics are mixed up, but by and by will be all the purer. Our Prohibitory law works like a charin."
