At Reading, in the Keystone State, The thing has had a trial; And that the "Salamander" burot Is settled past denial.*

The Salamander was a pet, On which its owners boasted ; And wagered it would stand the flam. Where HERRING would be roasted.

They placed it in a furnace hot, And then with malice cruel Piled up the hickory and the oak, And fired up the fuel.

The HERRING like a warrior stood,

Clothed in a coat of mail; The flames assailed it right and left, But could not start a scale.

The Salamander by its side, Cleau to the ribs was toasted; And when its inwards were consumed, The HERRING was not roasted.

Then let the reptile spread its tale, -A tale of lies and slander;
