

Huntingdon Journal.

NEWS ABOUT HOME.

Pic Nic.—We had the pleasure of attending a picnic over the Broad Top to Hopewell, Bedford county, on Saturday last. It was gotten up by the whole-souled members of the "Excelsior Brass Band," and was one of the pleasantest and best managed affairs of the kind it has ever been our luck to attend.

We had almost forgot to mention the excellent hotel in Hopewell, kept by Mr. Smith.—It is one of the best managed hotels in this part of the State, and we recommend it to the public.

As we have been informed that a new Locomotive engine is to be started in this place, as soon as the necessary funds can be raised. A prominent Democrat informs us that $400 have been subscribed by one individual.

A terrible accident occurred last week in Woodcock valley, about ten miles from this place. The neighbors of Mr. Grubb were engaged in raising his barn, and were putting up the last stick of timber, when by some accident it fell, the end of which striking Mr. Wm. Norris in the face, knocked him down and injured him in a most shocking manner.

On account of the rain, preaching last Sabbath afternoon was held in the new bridge. Quite a large crowd of people were present, and the remarks of Revs. McClean and Shonff were listened to with marked attention.

The shipments of coal from the Broad Top Mines, for the week ending Thursday, June 4th, were 2112 tons, for the week, 31,625 tons.

Can't be beat.—The girls who managed the Hopewell picnic. Every one of them is worthy a "prince of good fellows."

Good at a puff.—The young lady who smoked our pipe. It was worse than the smoke stack of the "Meteor."

More Flowers.—Our thanks to Mollie for that handsome bouquet.

For the Huntingdon Journal:—"Out from your holes ye collings creep, And wag your tails about."

As the editor of the Globe, together with the competent scribblers who write his dirty editorials seem to manifest a disposition to continue this paper war, I have no other alternative but to load up the "pop gun" and give them another stray shot; not that I have any disposition to "skelp and skand such dogs as these."

And hear them squeal!—but I consider it my right and duty to defend my character, actions and motives, whenever assailed by envy, slander and malevolence. The Globe makes an attack on me in the last issue, with a sort of Jackass-hyanianism, which would be terrific if it were not so ludicrous, and which was intended no doubt to annihilate me.

But I have not received it, and will promptly make the acknowledgment, before the necessary apology. But whilst not ashamed to acknowledge my error when wrong, I am not afraid to defend myself when falsely, libelously, and maliciously attacked; that the editor of the Globe has done so, I assert, and no man has more richly deserved a rebuke at my hands, and no man has received it more promptly.

He may rant and vilify and abuse; he may call me a "self-conceited, arrogant pedagogue"—and there was a time when the "idle scribbles" of this same "arrogant pedagogue" were very acceptable to the aforesaid editor, and by no means discredit to the columns of the Globe. But have any of my charges or assertions ever been met or answered, except by the argument alledged? Let us see. In the last issue he accuses me with hypocrisy, quoting Scripture as readily though not quite so accurately as an illustrious friend of his did of old, on a certain occasion, and to about as much purpose, to prove that I am not a Christian.—Now I do not know that I ever asserted that I was one, nor do I think it likely that I would assert for a fact, a matter which admits of such serious doubts with myself; yet, nevertheless, I claim to have enough Christianity to prevent me from slandering and vilifying my neighbor, without any pretext whatever; and if he will read that Book which is the foundation of the Christian's hope, he will find that "all liars" are there denounced and condemned alike, in far stronger terms than I have used. He also claims to be the author of a certain epistle, gentlemanly and respectable effort at witicism in the shape of an advertisement; I do not know, however, that his claims have been fully substantiated; in point of vulgarity, blackguardism and cowardice, it really resembles him, but that part of it which has evidently drawn most largely on the imaginative faculties, and which seems to have been written with the most spirit is more readily attributable to the eavesdropping propensities of some one of his petty tools, who, when his "fever is up" and his vision clouded, sees strange sights and hears strange sounds, and who might very readily at such a time have mistaken his own images reflected in a glass for that of the animal, alluded to; the resemblance being so strong that it would have required no very great stretch of the imagination; however, if the editor asserts that he is the bona fide author, he of course is entitled to the credit; but I very much fear that the effort on the part of his mental faculties has been too strong for him to survive it.

"Speaking of a certain assertion of the Globe he says—"It bears a lie on its face."—Most certainly I said so and proved it too; asking no other evidence than the documents referred to. It certainly is the last resort of subterfuge to refer to the proceedings of a Convention held almost three years ago in order to prove that I am not an oligarch.

Any school-boy is familiar enough in this enlightened age, with the rules of grammar, to detect this error. A man must truly be hard run for arguments when compelled to resort to such false reasoning as this.

The hired blackguard who writes over the signature of "Clive," still continues to belch forth his bestial spleen from his place of concealment, well knowing that he dare not meet me like a man. I had thought that perhaps there might have been a spark of manhood left, and that I had said enough to torture the reptile from its den, but like all other cowards and villains he prefers concealment, the more securely to slander and vilify his neighbors; perhaps it is as safe, for like some other blackguards I might find out to his cost that such a course is not always pursued with impunity. Does he suppose that he can persuade an intelligent community to believe that any School Director in this county could be so mean, low, abject and grovelling as he has proven himself to be?

Or does he think that I can condescend to answer a vulgar, lying and cowardly abuse? Why no consideration would ever induce me to even read on my vile, and loathsome thing.—He says I call him a coward—so I do; and a liar also, and am able to prove it if he dare meet me. He knows that his name is a stench in the nostrils of every honest man, and therefore he withholds it. I prefer leaving him as I might find out to his cost that such a course is not always pursued with impunity.

He says I call him a coward—so I do; and a liar also, and am able to prove it if he dare meet me. He knows that his name is a stench in the nostrils of every honest man, and therefore he withholds it. I prefer leaving him as I might find out to his cost that such a course is not always pursued with impunity.

He says I call him a coward—so I do; and a liar also, and am able to prove it if he dare meet me. He knows that his name is a stench in the nostrils of every honest man, and therefore he withholds it. I prefer leaving him as I might find out to his cost that such a course is not always pursued with impunity.

He says I call him a coward—so I do; and a liar also, and am able to prove it if he dare meet me. He knows that his name is a stench in the nostrils of every honest man, and therefore he withholds it. I prefer leaving him as I might find out to his cost that such a course is not always pursued with impunity.

He says I call him a coward—so I do; and a liar also, and am able to prove it if he dare meet me. He knows that his name is a stench in the nostrils of every honest man, and therefore he withholds it. I prefer leaving him as I might find out to his cost that such a course is not always pursued with impunity.

He says I call him a coward—so I do; and a liar also, and am able to prove it if he dare meet me. He knows that his name is a stench in the nostrils of every honest man, and therefore he withholds it. I prefer leaving him as I might find out to his cost that such a course is not always pursued with impunity.

He says I call him a coward—so I do; and a liar also, and am able to prove it if he dare meet me. He knows that his name is a stench in the nostrils of every honest man, and therefore he withholds it. I prefer leaving him as I might find out to his cost that such a course is not always pursued with impunity.

He says I call him a coward—so I do; and a liar also, and am able to prove it if he dare meet me. He knows that his name is a stench in the nostrils of every honest man, and therefore he withholds it. I prefer leaving him as I might find out to his cost that such a course is not always pursued with impunity.

He says I call him a coward—so I do; and a liar also, and am able to prove it if he dare meet me. He knows that his name is a stench in the nostrils of every honest man, and therefore he withholds it. I prefer leaving him as I might find out to his cost that such a course is not always pursued with impunity.

He says I call him a coward—so I do; and a liar also, and am able to prove it if he dare meet me. He knows that his name is a stench in the nostrils of every honest man, and therefore he withholds it. I prefer leaving him as I might find out to his cost that such a course is not always pursued with impunity.

He says I call him a coward—so I do; and a liar also, and am able to prove it if he dare meet me. He knows that his name is a stench in the nostrils of every honest man, and therefore he withholds it. I prefer leaving him as I might find out to his cost that such a course is not always pursued with impunity.

He says I call him a coward—so I do; and a liar also, and am able to prove it if he dare meet me. He knows that his name is a stench in the nostrils of every honest man, and therefore he withholds it. I prefer leaving him as I might find out to his cost that such a course is not always pursued with impunity.

He says I call him a coward—so I do; and a liar also, and am able to prove it if he dare meet me. He knows that his name is a stench in the nostrils of every honest man, and therefore he withholds it. I prefer leaving him as I might find out to his cost that such a course is not always pursued with impunity.

He says I call him a coward—so I do; and a liar also, and am able to prove it if he dare meet me. He knows that his name is a stench in the nostrils of every honest man, and therefore he withholds it. I prefer leaving him as I might find out to his cost that such a course is not always pursued with impunity.

He says I call him a coward—so I do; and a liar also, and am able to prove it if he dare meet me. He knows that his name is a stench in the nostrils of every honest man, and therefore he withholds it. I prefer leaving him as I might find out to his cost that such a course is not always pursued with impunity.

He says I call him a coward—so I do; and a liar also, and am able to prove it if he dare meet me. He knows that his name is a stench in the nostrils of every honest man, and therefore he withholds it. I prefer leaving him as I might find out to his cost that such a course is not always pursued with impunity.

He says I call him a coward—so I do; and a liar also, and am able to prove it if he dare meet me. He knows that his name is a stench in the nostrils of every honest man, and therefore he withholds it. I prefer leaving him as I might find out to his cost that such a course is not always pursued with impunity.

He says I call him a coward—so I do; and a liar also, and am able to prove it if he dare meet me. He knows that his name is a stench in the nostrils of every honest man, and therefore he withholds it. I prefer leaving him as I might find out to his cost that such a course is not always pursued with impunity.

He says I call him a coward—so I do; and a liar also, and am able to prove it if he dare meet me. He knows that his name is a stench in the nostrils of every honest man, and therefore he withholds it. I prefer leaving him as I might find out to his cost that such a course is not always pursued with impunity.

He says I call him a coward—so I do; and a liar also, and am able to prove it if he dare meet me. He knows that his name is a stench in the nostrils of every honest man, and therefore he withholds it. I prefer leaving him as I might find out to his cost that such a course is not always pursued with impunity.

He says I call him a coward—so I do; and a liar also, and am able to prove it if he dare meet me. He knows that his name is a stench in the nostrils of every honest man, and therefore he withholds it. I prefer leaving him as I might find out to his cost that such a course is not always pursued with impunity.

He says I call him a coward—so I do; and a liar also, and am able to prove it if he dare meet me. He knows that his name is a stench in the nostrils of every honest man, and therefore he withholds it. I prefer leaving him as I might find out to his cost that such a course is not always pursued with impunity.

He says I call him a coward—so I do; and a liar also, and am able to prove it if he dare meet me. He knows that his name is a stench in the nostrils of every honest man, and therefore he withholds it. I prefer leaving him as I might find out to his cost that such a course is not always pursued with impunity.

He says I call him a coward—so I do; and a liar also, and am able to prove it if he dare meet me. He knows that his name is a stench in the nostrils of every honest man, and therefore he withholds it. I prefer leaving him as I might find out to his cost that such a course is not always pursued with impunity.

He says I call him a coward—so I do; and a liar also, and am able to prove it if he dare meet me. He knows that his name is a stench in the nostrils of every honest man, and therefore he withholds it. I prefer leaving him as I might find out to his cost that such a course is not always pursued with impunity.

He says I call him a coward—so I do; and a liar also, and am able to prove it if he dare meet me. He knows that his name is a stench in the nostrils of every honest man, and therefore he withholds it. I prefer leaving him as I might find out to his cost that such a course is not always pursued with impunity.

He says I call him a coward—so I do; and a liar also, and am able to prove it if he dare meet me. He knows that his name is a stench in the nostrils of every honest man, and therefore he withholds it. I prefer leaving him as I might find out to his cost that such a course is not always pursued with impunity.

He says I call him a coward—so I do; and a liar also, and am able to prove it if he dare meet me. He knows that his name is a stench in the nostrils of every honest man, and therefore he withholds it. I prefer leaving him as I might find out to his cost that such a course is not always pursued with impunity.

He says I call him a coward—so I do; and a liar also, and am able to prove it if he dare meet me. He knows that his name is a stench in the nostrils of every honest man, and therefore he withholds it. I prefer leaving him as I might find out to his cost that such a course is not always pursued with impunity.

He says I call him a coward—so I do; and a liar also, and am able to prove it if he dare meet me. He knows that his name is a stench in the nostrils of every honest man, and therefore he withholds it. I prefer leaving him as I might find out to his cost that such a course is not always pursued with impunity.

He says I call him a coward—so I do; and a liar also, and am able to prove it if he dare meet me. He knows that his name is a stench in the nostrils of every honest man, and therefore he withholds it. I prefer leaving him as I might find out to his cost that such a course is not always pursued with impunity.

He says I call him a coward—so I do; and a liar also, and am able to prove it if he dare meet me. He knows that his name is a stench in the nostrils of every honest man, and therefore he withholds it. I prefer leaving him as I might find out to his cost that such a course is not always pursued with impunity.

He says I call him a coward—so I do; and a liar also, and am able to prove it if he dare meet me. He knows that his name is a stench in the nostrils of every honest man, and therefore he withholds it. I prefer leaving him as I might find out to his cost that such a course is not always pursued with impunity.

He says I call him a coward—so I do; and a liar also, and am able to prove it if he dare meet me. He knows that his name is a stench in the nostrils of every honest man, and therefore he withholds it. I prefer leaving him as I might find out to his cost that such a course is not always pursued with impunity.

He says I call him a coward—so I do; and a liar also, and am able to prove it if he dare meet me. He knows that his name is a stench in the nostrils of every honest man, and therefore he withholds it. I prefer leaving him as I might find out to his cost that such a course is not always pursued with impunity.

He says I call him a coward—so I do; and a liar also, and am able to prove it if he dare meet me. He knows that his name is a stench in the nostrils of every honest man, and therefore he withholds it. I prefer leaving him as I might find out to his cost that such a course is not always pursued with impunity.

He says I call him a coward—so I do; and a liar also, and am able to prove it if he dare meet me. He knows that his name is a stench in the nostrils of every honest man, and therefore he withholds it. I prefer leaving him as I might find out to his cost that such a course is not always pursued with impunity.

He says I call him a coward—so I do; and a liar also, and am able to prove it if he dare meet me. He knows that his name is a stench in the nostrils of every honest man, and therefore he withholds it. I prefer leaving him as I might find out to his cost that such a course is not always pursued with impunity.

He says I call him a coward—so I do; and a liar also, and am able to prove it if he dare meet me. He knows that his name is a stench in the nostrils of every honest man, and therefore he withholds it. I prefer leaving him as I might find out to his cost that such a course is not always pursued with impunity.

He says I call him a coward—so I do; and a liar also, and am able to prove it if he dare meet me. He knows that his name is a stench in the nostrils of every honest man, and therefore he withholds it. I prefer leaving him as I might find out to his cost that such a course is not always pursued with impunity.

He says I call him a coward—so I do; and a liar also, and am able to prove it if he dare meet me. He knows that his name is a stench in the nostrils of every honest man, and therefore he withholds it. I prefer leaving him as I might find out to his cost that such a course is not always pursued with impunity.

LIST OF RETAILERS.

CLASSIFICATION OF MERCHANTS IN HUNTINGDON COUNTY, by the Appraiser of Merchandise Taxes, for the year commencing the 1st day of May, 1857.

Alexandria Borough & Porter Township.

George C. Bocher, 13 10 00

Henry C. Walker, 13 10 00

Charles Porter, 13 10 00

William Moore, 14 7 00

Samuel Hatfield, 14 7 00

Joseph Green & Co., 14 7 00

John R. Gregory, 14 7 00

Barrow Township.

Samuel W. Myton, 14 7 00

John C. Couch, 14 7 00

James C. Walker, 14 7 00

Stewart Foster, 14 7 00

Geo. W. Johnston & Co., 14 7 00

Silas A. Cresswell, 14 7 00

Brady Township.

Kessler & Co., 11 15 00

Irin, Green & Co., 13 10 00

Cass top, & Cassville borough.

Peter M. Bare, 14 7 00

Evaus & Brother, 14 7 00

James Henderson, 14 7 00

Joseph P. Heaton, 14 7 00

Clay Township.

Richard Ashman & Co., 13 10 00

John Long & Co., 13 10 00

Cronwell Township.

Thomas E. Orblison, 13 10 00

David Etnier, 13 10 00

George Sipes, 14 7 00

Issett, Wigton & Co., 13 10 00

Dublin Township.

Blair & Robinson, 13 10 00

Andrew Wilson, 14 7 00

James Cree, Jr., 14 7 00

Hunt & Swan, 14 7 00

Franklin Township.

J. Wareham Matern, 13 10 00

Samuel Matern, 14 7 00

Shorb, Stewart & Co., 13 10 00

Samuel Gardner, 14 7 00

G. & H. Shoenberger, 11 15 00

Huntingdon Borough.

Fisher & McMurtrie, 12 12 50

W. B. Saxton, 12 12 50

Alexandria Borough.

Nathaniel Watkins, 8 20 00

John H. Holmes, 8 20 00

Morris townshipp.

Samuel Beagle, 8 20 00

Townshipp.

Thomas McGillian, 8 20 00

An appeal will be held by the undersigned at any time up to the 15th day of July, at the Commissioners' Office.

Notice is hereby given, that all Licenses not lifted previous to, or during the August Court, will be left in the hands of a Justice of the Peace for collection.

May 27, 1857.

HERRING'S PATENT CHAMPION FIRE & BURGLAR-PROOF SAFES.

WITH HALL'S PATENT POWDER LOCKS.

FARRELS & HERRING, Mfrs., 34 WALNUT ST., BELOW SECOND, PHILADELPHIA.

THE GREAT INTEREST MANIFESTED

by the public to procure more certain security for their valuable papers, such as Bonds, Mortgages, Deeds, Notes and Books of Accounts, than the ordinary Safes heretofore in use afforded, induced the Patentees to devote a large portion of their time for the last fourteen years, in making discoveries and improvements for this object, the result of which is the unrivalled Herring's Patent World's Fair Premium Fire Proof Safes.

Universally acknowledged as the CHAMPION SAFE OF THE WORLD. Having been awarded Medals at both the Worlds Fair, London, 1851, and Crystal Palace, N. Y., 1853, as superior to all other Safes, and being especially entitled to that appellation, and secured with Hall's Patent Powder-Proof Locks—which were also awarded separate Medals, (as above)—forms the most perfect Fire & Burglar Proof Safes ever offered to the public.

Nearly 300 Herring's Safes have been tested during the past 14 years, and more than 16,000 have been sold and are now in actual use.

Also on hand or manufactured to order, all kinds of Jewellers' Chests, Iron Bank Chests and Vaults, Vault Doors, Money Chests for Brokers, Jewelers, Railroads, private families, &c., for Plate, Diamonds, and other valuables. May 20, 1857.

TO INVALIDS.

Dr. Hardman, Analytical Physician.

Physician for Diseases of the Lungs, Throat and Heart—Formerly Physician to the CINCINNATI MARINE HOSPITAL, also to the CINCINNATI RETREAT, &c.

Author of "Letters to Invalids," IS COMING. See following Card.

June & July Appointments.

Dr. Hardman, Physician for disease of the Lungs, (formerly Physician to Cincinnati Marine Hospital) will be in attendance at the following places:

Huntingdon, Jackson's Hotel Wednesday July 1st

Lewisston, National Hotel July 2d

Millin, Patterson House July 3d

Hollabriggs June 30.

Altoona June 29

Johnstown June 27

Indiana June 26

Greensburg June 25

Pittsburgh June 24 & 25

Dr. Hardman's Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma, Laryngitis and all diseases of the throat and lungs, by medical Inhalation. Lately used in the Bronchitis Hospital, London.

The great point in the treatment of all human maladies is to get the disease in the direct manner. All medicines administered by their action upon the organ requiring relief. This is the important fact upon which Inhalation is based. If the stomach is diseased we take medicine directly into the stomach. If the lungs are diseased, breathe or inhale medicated vapors directly into the lungs. Medicines are the antidotes to disease and should be applied to the very seat of disease. Inhalation is the application of this principle to the treatment of the lungs, by breathing or inhaling those intricate air cells and tubes which lie out of reach of every other means of administering medicines. The reason that Consumption, and other diseases of the lungs, have heretofore resisted all treatment has been because they have never been approached in a direct manner by medicine. They were intended to act upon the lungs and yet were applied to the stomach.— Their action was intended to be local, and yet they were so administered that they should not act constitutionally, expending immediate and principal action upon the unoffending stomach, whilst the foul ulcers within the lungs were unmolested. Inhalation brings the medicine in direct contact with the diseased portion, the disadvantage of any violent action. Its application is simple, that it can be employed by the youngest infant or feeble invalid. It does not derange the stomach, or interfere in the least degree with the strength, comfort, or business of the patient.

OTHER DISEASES TREATED.—In relation to the following diseases, either when complicated with lung affections existing alone, I also invite consultation. I usually find them promptly cured.

Prolapsus and all other forms of Female complaints, Irregularities and Weakness.

Palpitation and all other forms of Heart Disease, Liver Complaints, Dyspepsia, and all other diseases of the stomach and bowels, &c.

All diseases of the eye and ear. Neuralgia, Epilepsy and all forms of nervous disease.— No charge for consultation.

S. D. HARDMAN, M. D.

JACKSON'S HOTEL, HUNTINGDON, PA.

On Allegheny Street, between Pa. R. R. & H. & B. T. R. R. Depots. WM. B. ZEIGLER, Proprietor.

LAST NOTICE

ALL persons knowing themselves indebted either by note or book account to H. C. Walker, will save costs by paying the same to, or making arrangements for the future payment of, before the 15th day of June next. All persons having claims against said Walker will present them properly authenticated.

D. HOUTZ, Assignee for Creditors of H. C. Walker. Alexandria, May 13, 1857.

S. L. GLASGOW, ATTORNEY AT LAW.

Will attend to all professional business entrusted to his care in the several Courts of Huntingdon county. Deeds, Leases and Articles of Agreement, written at the shortest notice and on the most reasonable terms. Shireburg, April 22, 1857.

UPPER TRADE AHEAD.

If you want cheap goods just go to Galinger's New Store, near the Juniata Bridge, West Huntingdon. He has a full assortment. May 20, 1857.

MISCELLANEOUS ADVERTISEMENTS.

FRESH ARRIVAL! Of Spring and Summer Goods AT THE METROPOLITAN.

J. & W. SAXTON, have just received from the east a splendid assortment of goods, such as

DRY-GOODS, GROCERIES, HARDWARE, QUEENSWARE, HATS AND CAPS, BOOTS AND SHOES, CARPET, OIL CLOTH, WOOD AND WILLOW WARE,

And in fact everything necessary to please the most fastidious. Such as FINE DRY GOODS, PRINTS, TWEEDS, SUMMER COTTONS, CLOTHS, COLLARS, CASSIMERE BONNETS, TRIMMINGS, &c. every

Variety of HOSIERY, MITTS, UNDER-SLEEVES, GLOVES, HOOPS FOR SKIRTS, &c. &c. &c. &c.

<