If the stomach is diseased we take medicine directly into the stomach. If the human mer directly into the store actions the ap-plication of this principle to the treatment of the very set of disease. Inhalation is the ap-plication of this principle to the treatment of the langs, for it gives us direct access to those intricate air cells and tubes which lie out of meed incerty other means of administering medicines. The reason that Consumption, and other diseases of the lungs, have heretoffore re-sisted all treatment has heen because they had user be administered to be local, and yet, they were so administered that they should not articipat the foul ulcers within the lungs were un-molested. Inhalation fungs the medicine in diadwintage of any visuat action. Its appli-vation is simple, that it can be employed by the distate tomach, or interfere in the least de-great with the strength, confort, or business of the following dis cases; ether when compil-
