

"All we need to add a dozen books to that library," said a rich, manly voice.

"On condition that when in Belmont, you'll occasionally read from them in the sanctuary I intend to fit up immediately for little pet and I," replied the hearty tones of the farmer, grasping the hand of the other.

"Indeed I will, if Miss Mary will allow me," said the remaining hand was extended to the happy child.

Ellen flitted desperately with George Carleton the remainder of the evening, but in vain sought a glance of reproach from the minister, who had no eyes, nor senses indeed for anybody but the farmer and Mary. Mrs. Stenlowe was in despair.

The next day Mr. Kingman sought the farmer at his work. After various subjects had been touched upon, he said kindly and with welcome, touching brotherly interest—

"That is a sweet little girl of yours."

"What, Ellen? Yes. Though not very little; weighs one hundred and fifty, I think."

Miss Stenlowe is very beautiful, but I was referring to Mary, said the young man, a little embarrassed. The farmer knew it very well.

"Ah, Mary, my Mary!" The father's voice was full of tenderness and pride.

"You should give her every educational advantage; she has genius, my dear sir."

"I know it, but didn't quite lately. I don't know, it seems to me, I, too, have joined in the prevailing injustice."

"Never. You and the child are too much alike. You must long if but dimly, have been conscious of her intellectual endowments."

"I wish I could think thus kindly of myself. But sir, your advice shall be taken. Yet this winter I have planned a deal of happiness with her in her little schoolroom."

"Have it, then, by all means. She can study there, and in the spring enter a first class school."

What more the daring young minister said, not Mary, nor her mother, nor Ellen knew, until three years after, when, at the festivities consequent upon her leaving school with high honors, he asked the blessing, and now very beautiful girl, to be his wife. She could not refuse so congenial an alliance.

"I must be one year with father at home, before I marry you," looking tenderly at the good man.

"You shall my love," was the answer.

I always knew that poor, dear, ill-used child would turn out well. Nobody that went to the house treated her decently but me," said Mrs. Stenlowe, the day after the wedding.

"When?" exclaimed George, bursting into a laugh, "mother, it won't be so expensive for to visit Mrs. Kingman in New York," and he added a facetious wink to his laugh.

The Unlucky Dancer now presides over a home radiant with every gift to make her happiness complete. The dearest and most petted of all her visitors is the good farmer father.

The spoiled beauty, after in vain seeking an alliance equal to her sister, and becoming passée in search, has finally married a tradesman of small means and capacities, rather than die an old maid.

Huntingdon Journal.

Wm. Brewster,
Editor and Proprietor.

Wednesday Morning, April 6, 1859.

Last week we were shown a specimen of Huntingdon county gold. The piece shown was smelted from ore got not many miles from Mill Creek, and is really gold of a tolerable pure quality. The precise location of the mine is only known by one man, who has sent a quantity of the ore to Philadelphia to have it tested, and it has proven to be gold with a slight admixture of alloy. A short time ago he brought home forty pounds of the ore and from it he smelted eight ounces of "the pure stuff."

The mountains are literally covered with people prospecting for the precious treasure. Why not find gold in the mountains of this region as well as "Pike's Peak?" we are on the same parallel of longitude that the gold is found in Virginia.

Dutcher has removed his Silver, Smith and Jewelry shop to the room recently occupied by Levi Westbrook as a shoe store, where he will be found hereafter.—Mr. Dutcher is by far the best workman in the county, and will make moderate charges. Give him a call.

Fire Protection.

On Monday evening last, a large number of our fellow-citizens met in the Court House, to witness the presentation of a banner to the Excelsior Brass Band, by officers composing the staff of Major Gen. John C. Watson. The presentation speech was made by Col. F. Lane, and was an eloquent effort. The speaker paid a high compliment to the musical talent displayed by the members of the band, dwelt at some length upon the eventful scenes through which the "Star Spangled Banner," had passed, and concluded in a brilliant peroration, which elicited spontaneous applause from the audience. J. Sewell Stewart, Esq. on behalf of the band, received the beautiful flag, in a brief but inimitable speech. It was an effort worthy the speaker, and the marked applause with which it was greeted by the appreciative assembly evidenced its eloquence. After several pieces of music had been played, the officers, members of the Band, and invited guests adjourned to the Franklin House, and partook of a most excellent oyster supper. As we had the honor of being present, we can testify to the admirable manner in which it was gotten up.

The flag is a very beautiful one, and is composed of the finest silk.

Notice.—Young men desirous of traveling in a pleasant business, with a good recommendation, can have an opportunity of doing so by applying at this office after Thursday next, for one week.

PENMANSHIP.

The author of a new system of penmanship is expected in town on Thursday next to commence a class in the public school room at 7 o'clock in the evening. His agent called on us, judging from the specimens, terms, and conditions, we would say to all who are not able to write with ease, and rapidly, a good hand give him a trial as he goes on the principle of no cure no pay.

The election for Borough officers took place on Monday, and resulted as follows:

Burgess.—William Rothrock
Town Council.—David Dunn, David Black, Peter Swoope, L. Bergins
Supervisors.—John White, W. K. Rahm.

Constable.—Wm. H. King.

We call particular attention to the advertisement of Evans & Co. in this week's issue of our paper. The GIFT BOOK ESTABLISHMENT OF D. W. EVANS & Co. at 677 Broadway, New York City, is the oldest, most extensive, and respectable in the country; and the proprietors, from the commencement of their business career, have borne a high reputation for integrity and impartiality, in the conduct of their peculiar system of trade, gaining the support of the press, and the commendations of all who have had dealings with them. It is a noticeable fact, that they circulate the large and best classified catalogue of books in the country; guarantee satisfaction to their patrons, and insure the safe transmission of books, so that the purchaser suffers no risk in sending his money to them, which is not done by any other Gift Book House.

Messrs. Evans & Co. are systematizing their business, by locating agents in every town throughout the country; in pursuance of this object, the undersigned has been duly authorized to act as agent for this place and vicinity, to receive orders, and attend to the general interests of their patrons.

All who desire books in any department of literature, can rely on having their orders punctually and faithfully filled, at the usual prices, with the addition of some useful and valuable gift. Catalogues can be obtained gratis on application to the agent, or by addressing D. W. Evans & Co., 677 Broadway, New York City.

WM. BREWSTER.

have just received their new supply of Spring goods, call and see them. Their advertisement came in too late, but will appear in our next.

PASSING AWAY.—The venerable buildings in our town are rapidly passing away, to give place to new structures more modern in their style of architecture.

The old dilapidated building on Hill St. a little West of Mrs. Orbin's is now being torn down to be replaced by a more splendid edifice by Mr. John Read.

The taste displayed by our citizens in building of late years is highly commendable.

KANSAS ELECTION.—THE DOYS.

LEAVENWORTH, Tuesday, March 29 1859.

At the election here yesterday, there was but slight opposition to the Constitutional question, which was carried by a small but decided majority.

A nolle prosequi was entered in the case of Charlie Doy, and he has been released from custody, and is now in this city.

Dr. Doy, the father, has been held to bail in five thousand dollars for trial at the next Term of the Court.

At the M. E. Conference recently held in Philadelphia, the following action was taken in regard to slavery.

The Slavery Committee's Report was taken up, and the question embraced in the second resolution, of the time of the manumission of the slaves owned by travelling preachers of the Methodist Church, provoked a long and animated debate, which was participated in by the Rev. Messrs. Kenny, Cooper, Barton, Colclazier, McCarther and others. The time of manumission was finally fixed at the age of 21 for both male and female slaves. The report was then adopted.

COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT.—It has been decided by the Supreme Court of our State, that the State Superintendent of our Public Schools has the right to remove a County Superintendent, if guilty of neglect to duty, incompetency, or immorality. The case was brought up from the Common Pleas of Schuylkill county, and the judgment of that court affirmed.

STILL MISSING.—No clue has yet been ascertained to the whereabouts of Mr. Yeager of Easton, whose recent mysterious disappearance we noticed in the TELEGRAPH. His wife offers a reward of $500 for the recovery of his body, whether living or dead. The excitement continues at Easton, and a public meeting was held the other day to adopt measures for a thorough investigation of the affair.

Pike's Peak.

A steamboat, filled with gold-seekers bound to Pike's Peak and the region round about, was sunk, on Monday night, in the Ohio, by a collision, and a score or two of the passengers were drowned. Thus ends the golden dream of one party of enthusiasts. Hundreds of others will probably perish by disease or accident, and all will suffer more or less from fatigue, privation and exposure. But it is with such trials as these, that waste places are filled up and commonwealths are formed. A great sacrifice must be offered to the good Fortune, before his favor is vouchsafed to his votaries.

The number of emigrants, adventurers, pilgrims, or whatever they may be called, is enormous this spring. Every steamboat and railroad train bound to the West is filled with them, and vehicles and animals of all kinds are brought into the service. A private letter, dated St. Joseph, Mo., March 25th, is before us, which says:

"Our city is a perfect jam, crowded with Pike's Peakers. Some are going with hand carts, some with wheelbarrows, and some with knapsacks. Two Expresses leave every week filled with passengers. The ex trains have not yet started. The railroad cars bring in daily from two hundred to five hundred people."

All other places on the route present the same extraordinary spectacle, and it is believed by some that the wilderness of Western Kansas will contain, before the summer is over, at least one hundred thousand inhabitants. This may be the case, unless the promise of the richness of the mines should be unfulfilled. Of this there is some danger; for occasional reports reach us of returning miners, broken in health, spirits and fortune, who report the gold mines a humbug. Some have spent the winter in the most praised region, and have left disgusted. There must be a large per centage of such failures and disappointments in a migrating population, and Pike's Peak, with its contiguous gold-bearing country, may not altogether satisfy the expectations of any. Still many active and energetic people will be transferred to a good country, and even if the gold fails, will become permanent settlers. Thus population and civilization will be thrust further westward, to meet the returning waves from the Pacific States, and thus the whole Union will be benefited.

NARROW ESCAPE.—A few days ago at the high bridge near Catawissa, the passenger car was caught by a gust of wind and lifted from the track, landing on the end of the bridge. The motion of the car pulled the bell rope and stopped the engine, so that no lives were lost. It was an instant of fearful peril, with a providential deliverance.

A Democratic Convention was called to assemble at Lynchburg, Va., last week, to nominate a candidate for Commissioner of Public Works. Of the fifty counties interested only fifteen were represented in the convention and no nomination was made. The nominee of the Democrats for this office was defeated at the last election, and in the present dispirited condition of the party it seems they don't think it worth while to even make a nomination. Straws show which way the wind blows.

THE UNITED STATES AND ENGLAND having failed to come to any definite understanding regarding the right of search or visit—our government declining to yield any point, and the English government refusing to submit any new plan—the French have stepped in and submitted a propos to the English government, which our government has adopted, and which will probably settle the vexed question. It has not yet been made public.

A FISH STORY.—It is stated that on the arrival of the steamship Roanoke, at Port mouth, Va., an enormous rock fish was found entangled in the wheel, which required the exertion of three men to capture; after getting it in on the deck of the ship it was measured and exhibited a length of four feet, and weighed fifty-four pounds.

HOLF FORT.—The President of the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago, and Pennsylvania Central Roads, have agreed to issue excursion tickets to ministers and others, who attend the meeting of the Pittsburg M. E. Annual Conference, will meet in the South Common Church, Allegheny, on the 27th of April.

Answer to the question in last issue. Eight cats.

MATRIMONIAL BROKERAGE in the metropolis; being true Narratives of strange adventures in New York, and startling facts in city life. By a reporter of the New York City. 1 Vol., 12mo., cloth, illustrated. Price $1.00.

This remarkable book adds a strange but authentic chapter to the history of the city of New York and exposes one of its most corrupt and dangerous institutions, bringing to light some strange doings of the notorious Mrs. Cunningham.

Published by Thatcher & Hutchinson, 523 Broadway, New York.

PROF. WOOD'S HAIR DYE is ruining the Hair Dye trade. People will not use dyes when a natural restoration to the original color of the hair can be produced by natural remedies. Dyes are artificial agents, and dangerous in their application but Wood's Hair Tonic is a healthy stimulant, and causes a healthy growth. A growth of gray hair on a young person's head is unnatural, and to apply a coloring color is changed, to be sure, but not through the roots of the hair. Ladies, do you see that graying plant in the window yonder how yellow and faded it looks? It is alive and growing; yet where is the beautiful rich, dark green that belongs to it? Come. You can color those leaves by an external application of chemicals, but they will not remain colored. Do you desire to do it naturally? Make a solution of guano water, apply to the roots, and the plant will take it up into the system, and then you will see a rich green permanent hue. Professor Wood's Hair Tonic works on the same principle. The roots of the hair drink up that application, and high health and beauty result.

CAUTION.—Beware of worthless imitations as several are already in the market called by different names. Use none unless the words (Professor Wood's Hair Restorer, Depot St. Louis, Mo., and New York, are blown in the bottle. Sold by all Druggists and Patent Medicine dealers, also by all Fancy and Toilet Goods dealers in the United States and Canada.

I would caution all persons against trusting him in any account, as I will not be responsible for any debts incurred by him.
