

FARMER'S COLUMN.

He that by the plough would thrive, Himself must either hold or drive.

A FARMER'S SONG.

We envy not the princely man; In city or in town, Who wonders whether pumpkin vines Run up the hill or down;

We are the favored ones of earth, We breathe pure air each morn; We sow—we reap the golden grain— We gather in the corn;

We toil—we live on what we earn— And more than this we do, We hear of starving millions round, And gladly feed them, too.

The lawyer lives on princely fees, He drags a weary life, He never knows a peaceful hour— His atmosphere is strife.

The doctor plods through storm and cold, Plods at his patient's will, When dead and gone, he plods again To get his lengthy bill.

The printer, (bless his noble soul) He grasps the mighty earth, And stamps it on our welcome sheet, To cheer the farmer's hearth.

We sing the honor of the plow, And honor of the press— Two noble instruments of toil, With each a power to bless.

The bone, the nerve of this fast age, True wealth of human kind— One tills the ever generous earth, The other tills the mind.

Grass for Pasture. Timothy alone, or timothy, red top, and blue grass, will make a permanent meadow, which will produce heavy crops of good hay for many years, if well-treated.

So orchard grass alone, or orchard grass and red clover, will make a good permanent meadow, with reference to the product of which no reasonable man will have cause to complain, unless he feeds it off too close the first year, and suffers it to be abused subsequently.

Yet in one section of our State, we find land laid down to blue grass; in another section, to timothy; in a third, to orchard grass and red clover combined.

Rarely do we find more than two or three grasses growing in one same pasture; yet not less than one hundred species have been described by botanists as growing spontaneously in the great Mississippi Valley.

In England, as many as twenty-two species of grass have been found growing upon a square foot of ancestral pasture, that had been grazed unremittingly for many generations.

And English pastures wear well, producing food for a long period, from very early in the spring to very late in the fall. Why? Simply because instead of being confined to one or two grasses that start about the same time, as is the American custom, they seed down the lands intended to remain for a series of years in pasture with all the varieties that will grow upon them, and thus secure a regular succession of succulent and nutritious food the season through.

REMEDY FOR SQUASH-BUG.—Take a quantity of poppy leaves, stalks, buds, &c., or any part of the poppy, and steep in water, either cold or hot; and if the poppies are not to be had, take a small quantity of opium and dissolve it in water.

This liquid, applied with an exceedingly fine sprinkler to the vines once or perhaps twice, will cause the bugs to leave never to return. Where they go to I do not know, neither do I care. It will not kill the bugs, for they know better than to take anything of an opiate nature. Try it, and it will be found that there is no 'humbug' in it.

The same liquid, applied with a squirt-gun to apple trees, effectually prevents the ravages of the apple tree worm. An ounce of opium would probably be sufficient for a large orchard.—G. W. Durant in Country Gentleman.

FRUITS.—Thin out the fruits of all such kinds as are bearing too abundantly. The quality will be much improved. Shake the tree occasionally that the punctured fruit may fall off, and have it carefully picked up.

Grapes.—Stop the shoots before the bunches of grapes, and train wood for next year's bearing, pinching it off at the proper length. Strawberry beds should be freely watered.

Melons.—Keep these clean and draw the earth up to the seed leaves in working. Buoys.—Herewith, says a writer in the Germantown Telegraph, is my plan for keeping bugs from my cucumber and melon beds. It is simply to cover the ground under the vines, two or three inches deep, with fine sand. This plan has been successful with me for eight years.

Make hay while the sun shines.

SUFFERING HUMANITY READ THIS!

The undersigned takes this Method of informing the public generally that there is no medicine now offered to the public that is equal to DU VALL'S GALVANIC OIL in relieving suffering humanity.

I was an observer of its effects in a friend of mine, who suffered almost everything from a neuralgic affection which resisted the best medical treatment in Centre county. We applied freely of Galvanic Oil to the painful part, and gave some inwardly, and in 20 minutes the patient was asleep, and when awakened was free from pain, and continued so.—This is a positive fact which I am willing to make good at any time. A case of Palsy was cured in nearly the same length of time. J. H. HAHN, Centre Hill, Aug. 18 1858.—ly.

HUNTINGDON WARM SPRINGS.

The Warm Springs at the base of Warrior-Ridge, five miles north of Huntingdon, overlooking Standing Stone Creek, and environed by romantic hills and woodlands, have been leased by the former proprietor of the Leamer House.

The extensive Hotel buildings, bath houses, &c., erected at great expense by General A. P. Wilson, have been completed—and the groves have been beautifully laid out and adorned.

The Hotel parlors and chambers airy and comfortably furnished, and the prospect, from the verandahs for beauty, cannot be excelled.

For half a century, these Springs have been celebrated for their medicinal qualities, and the great nature of the waters in rheumatic and chronic affections. The temperature of the water being 69 1/2 degrees, renders the bathing delightful and invigorating. In the surrounding woods and mountains, game abound, and the finest fish are caught in Stone Creek. Persons in pursuit of health or pleasure, will find this a most delightful and healthful retreat; and its proximity to the Pennsylvania Railroad, and the cheapness of the rates charged guests, give it a decided advantage over any other watering place in the State.

The Proprietor has had years of experience in the business and no pains or trouble will be spared to make guests comfortable.
