CONSUMPTION.

Indian Specific,

FOR the prevention and cure of Coughs, Colds, Asthmas, Consumptions, Spitting Blood, and diseases of the Breast and Lungs, prepared by Doct. CLARKSON FREEMAN, of the city of Lancaster.

BILL OF DIRECTION.

Accompanying each bottle of the Specific, pointing out in a conspicuous manner, all the symptoms in the different stages of these distressing diseases; also particular directions respecting diet and regimen, and how patients are to conduct through every stage until health is restored—for vain and useless would be the prescriptions of the ablest physicians, accompanied by the most powerful and useful medicines, if the directions are not faithfully adhered to. The public are informed that the depositions of 287 persons have been taken, before proper authorities in the city of Lancaster, all completely cured in the most desperate cases of consumption, some of which are detailed in the bills accompanying each bottle. The price of each bottle of Indian Specific is $1, and each envelope of the genuine Specific is signed by Dr. Clarkson Freeman, and the initials, C. F. on the seal of each bottle. None can be genuine without his signature, a base composition having been attempted to be imposed on the public by a counterfeit imitation of this extraordinary article. DR. HULL'S RECENTLY IMPROVED TRUSS.

THE distinguished surgeons and medical faculty of the cities generally, and elsewhere, have come to the conclusion, that this Truss, in its present improved state, is the only instrument surgically adapted to the disease of rupture, and the only one that patients can rely upon for the safe retention of the bowels and the final cure of the disease. In confirmation of which the following names of distinguished medical gentlemen of New York city, with many others, have expressed a decided preference for this instrument, are respectfully added: Valentine Mott, M. D. George Bushe, M. D. A. A. Stevens, M. D. David Hosack, M. D. John B. Beck, M. D. Samuel Ackerly, M. D. Cyrus Perkins, M. D. David M. Reese, M. D. John Stearns, M. D. Wm. Anderson, M. D. Also, the following extract of a late certificate of Dr. Mott, of New York: "For the last twelve months, the curative powers of Dr. Hull's Truss have been tested under my own observation with the most gratifying success in cases of great difficulty, in which the mutilated imitation Trusses so common in our market, had only aggravated the disease. Dr. Hull is an experienced surgeon, who has displayed not a little surgical skill and mechanical ingenuity in bringing this improved instrument to its present state of perfection, rendering it, I know, the best I ever saw for securing, comforting and curing the ruptured patient and is in my opinion, the only instrument of the kind that is entitled to patronage of the profession, and the confidence of the people. VALENTINE MOTT, M. D. Park Place, Feb. 20, 1834. Letters Patent of the United States have been granted to Dr. Hull for 14 years from the last improvement, dated July 5th, 1833. THE GARLAND.

"With sweetest flowers enrich'd,
From various gardens cull'd with care."
From the Athenaeum and Visitor. THE LAND WE LOVE. The land we love is free—old tar— The land we love is free— From Behrong's straits— To Ocean's gates— The chieftain's of the sea. There's not a power on earth, That dares defame, Columbia's name, The place of Freedom's birth. It was oppression's scourge—old tar— It was oppression's scourge, By tyrants laid— On Freedom's head, That did this nation urge, To strike in Freedom's cause—old tar, To strike in Freedom's cause, With flag unfurled, To dare the world, To violate her laws. Nor shall the Frenchman now—old tar— Nor shall the Frenchman now, Seek to enslave— The free, the brave— We boys will show them how To fight for home and friends—old tar, To fight for home and friends, With flag on high— Will on or die— And there the matter ends.

THE REPOSITORY.

A DOCTOR'S MINDS PIE.

Jalap, Cathartic, Elixir, Sog in her liquor I'll drop, If 'tis your pleasure I'll mix her All the contents of my shop. Dr. Botus.

Some twenty years since, a certain Doctor of physic resided in one of the interior towns in New Hampshire. The doctor was a very shrewd penetrating man, with a deep and almost unerring insight into the human breast—a consummate knowledge of his profession, united with great skill—and withal, possessing the happy faculty of directing contingencies so as to result in his own individual advantage. Now all this, however paradoxical it may seem, was partially concealed under the guise of buffoonery and wit. By delicate fact and in peculiar combination of circumstances, he had contrived to monopolize, (I believe this is the word,) the whole course of practice within a district of several miles, sustaining the reputation of one of the first physicians in the country, (which in deed he was,) and throwing a number of quacks around him completely into the shade. As a matter of course, these became inimical towards him, which finally broke out into open hostilities. Things were thus situated, when one day, this worthy mounted his Rosinade, and set forth on a "visit" to a patient, and after riding a short distance he met a practitioner, Dr. Slop, from a neighboring village. "Good mornin', Dr. Physic." "Ahl good mornin' good mornin' Dr. Slop." "D'ye hear any thing new, Doctor?" "Why nothing 'special." A silence ensued. "Well Dr. Physic, that was a tremendous case that you cured the other day—Johnson's you know. Couldn't spare some of your skill as well as not, could ye? People tell strange stories about ye—and where do ye think Doctor Burton says all your virtues lies?" "Most probably in my saddle bags." "No sir, in your breeches." "In my breeches!" "Yes sir." "Are you serious?" "Am." Some explanation is here necessary.—Dr. Physic not being a proud man, wore a pair of buckskin pantaloons he had used perhaps a dozen years. In compounding a pill, he would roll it upon them, to give it a globular form and after phlebotomizing, he would wipe his lancet upon them; in short using them for all manner of purposes, they thus became in time, completely saturated with all sorts of medicines, from simple "Epsom salts" to the most complicated mixtures in "Pharmacopoeia." Hence the idea that the Doctor's healing powers lay therein, was by no means so very shallow. Doctor Physic was astonished, and musing a moment observed: "Well sir I won't deny but Dr. Burton tells the truth—and if such be the case, I pledge my word that every particle of talent and power in the healing art, which I possess, shall be distributed among any number of individuals, physicians of course, you may name. Please designate them." Dr. Slop recounted the names of six or seven individuals. "Well, please be at my house, the 15th day of the present month, and the matter shall be settled." "Agreed."

At the time appointed they were there in all seven, besides the worthy Doctor Physic himself. Most country physicians are epicures. There is something in their vocation which conduces to create a relish for "the good things of life," in as much as all quacks are pretty sure to eschew their own medicines, and cleave unto the more substantial supporters of life, avoiding the case of that man who was well—wished to be better—took physic, and died. At the hour of noon, the guests of the worthy doctor, seated themselves at the dinner table. Prithoe, reader, if thou art a Yankee, didn't ever witness the good cheer of our country nabobs the delicacies which adorn the table of a wealthy farmer? If thou hast a description of the one in question, would be obligatory, but verily my stomach yearns in contemplation of it—that huge surfeit of
