

NEWSPAPERS.—Every thing under Heaven increases in price except newspapers. Beef and pork, flour and butter, sugar, tea and coffee, salt, fish and onions, dry goods and wet groceries, fuel and rent, buck wheat and wash woman, are all advanced in price. But newspapers, that most indispensable and no getting-along without article—the sum and substance of man's existence, remains in statu quo. And yet there is no one thing, not even steamboats, that keep up with them in the march of improvement. They are constantly improving in size, appearance, and talent—but as to price, the only improvement there is upon the cheaper system, and goes to benefit the reader. We have seen a man charge two and a half dollars for an article, the construction of which probably occupied half a day, and at the same moment grumble at a printer's charge of two dollars for a year's paper, which when bound up would make a volume of news, of incident and of moral, interesting, and instructive miscellany, that no book seller would dispose of for less than twenty times the amount.

"It is said there are 400,000 feathers upon the wing of a silk worm moth, and that any one doubting the truth of the statement, can easily satisfy himself by counting them!"

The curious we guess, had as well say it is so and cry quite, without counting.

DR. J. CARPENTER, BOTANIC PHYSICIAN,

RESPECTFULLY invites those who are troubled with Rheumatic pains, either chronic or inflammatory, to give him a call, having had very good success in curing Rheumatism; and having within the short space of time that he has been here had upwards of forty cases of Rheumatism under treatment, and having given relief in every case, and failed in but five or six cases of performing a complete cure—and some of these were through neglect on their part; and others to the long standing of the disease, so that no perfect cure could be expected. He would, therefore, invite those afflicted with Rheumatic pains to give him a call, and satisfy themselves. Not desiring those who are unacquainted with him to rely on his statement, but to come into his neighborhood and enquire of those who know, and satisfy themselves before they employ him.

Dr. Carpenter still continues to reside at his former residence in Liberty township, two miles North of Emmittsburg, and two miles from Rhodes Mill, on Middle-creek.

LITERARY PUBLICATIONS, &c.
THE IRIS.

A Miscellany of Morals, Literature, Science and the Arts.
EDITED BY
Jas. Cooper & Wm. M. Reynolds.

THE PRESS, beyond a doubt, is the grand lever which now moves the intellectual world. Among civilized nations, public opinion bows so submissively to no other power; even despots reverence its voice, and demagogues tremble at its frown.

Of course, it may be an instrument either of good or of evil—an Ithuriel's spear of truth, or a sorcerer's delusive wand. The obstinate defender of exploded doctrines and the wild propagandist of the latest theory alike make this their weapon of attack and defence; and by its means may the friend of truth most successfully ferret error and disseminate the pure principles of right reason.

In one of these ways, we may rest assured, it will be employed; for never can it be fettered or silenced, and thus will the world continue to read and be ruled by its reasonings. In the present state of society, books, periodicals, magazines and newspapers may be reckoned among the necessities of life, for which the appetite and demand are becoming alike universal. Is it not, then, incalculably important that a proper direction be given to this feeling, so that it may be productive of all the benefits which it promises!

We have long believed that the weekly newspaper might assume a character somewhat different from that which it has usually had—that it might be made to come more home to the bosom and business of men—that its interest might be deepened—its moral tone elevated—its usefulness extended far beyond its present limits.

Desirous of contributing somewhat to the furtherance of such an object, we propose publishing a weekly journal under the above title. The IRIS will endeavor to keep constantly in view and steadfastly advocate the objects to which it is professionally devoted. Regarding virtus as the surest source of individual happiness and national prosperity, we shall endeavor to illustrate its principles and enforce its precepts. Laboring for "the many," we shall offer to the people the Key of knowledge, that they may thus keep in their own hands that power which will otherwise ere long glide from them into the hands of "a few." Looking at all useful labor as not only the true foundation of wealth, but also honorable—discoveries and improvements in the arts, agriculture and kindred subjects, will claim a due share of our attention.

Whilst we aim at combining the useful with the agreeable, we hope to avoid the danger of dullness, on the one hand, and that of pandering to the corrupt taste, on the other.

Studiously abstaining from party politics, we shall think it our duty to discuss important points of policy. We shall also attempt to give an impartial account of domestic as well as of foreign affairs.

With this brief exposition of their views and plans, the Editors throw themselves upon the indulgence of a discriminating public, pledging themselves, if they meet with encouragement, to render the work worthy of patronage.

TERMS.
I. THE IRIS will be published weekly, on a half-sheet of imperial size, on paper of good quality, and in a handsome style, for one dollar and a half per annum—one half payable in advance, the remainder at the expiration of six months.—If payment be not made within the year, two dollars will be charged.
II. Any number of persons forwarding five Dollars shall be entitled to four copies.
III. Any person becoming responsible for five subscribers upon the ordinary terms, shall receive a sixth copy for himself.
IV. No subscription discontinued, but at the option of the Editors, until all arrears are paid.
The first Number will be issued on the first Saturday in January, 1837.

NATIONAL ENQUIRER
AND
Constitutional Advocate of Universal Liberty.
Edited and Published by Benjamin Lundy.

THIS work has recently been established with the view of advocating the cause of Universal Emancipation. The Editor, having devoted more than eighteen years of his life to this important subject, and having, nearly the whole of this period, superintended the editorial department of another publication of similar character and views, conceives it to be unnecessary, at present, to give an exposition of his particular sentiments in relation to it. Yet it may be improper to state explicitly, that the principal aim and leading object of the work will be the IMMEDIATE and TOTAL ABOLITION OF SLAVERY IN AMERICA, by the most efficient moral, judicious and Constitutional means.

The time was—and well indeed it is remembered—when but a solitary voice (except its own occasional echo) was heard throughout the land, in favor of a restoration of the "inalienable rights," and redress for the innumerable wrongs, of the American bondman. It was a dreary night of hopeless, soul-depressing toil and care! But within the period above mentioned, a marked and visible change has been effected; a wonderful impetus has been given to the progress of the holy cause; and the brightest cheering rays of hope and confidence in success, are beaming around us. It is true that much yet remains to be done, in order to guard against and ward off the awful, impending calamity, which has long threatened the peace and safety of our country. A severe contest is yet to be waged with the demon of oppression, ere the vengeful arm of Justice shall be stayed, and the power of moral truth established, and the renovation of our social system effected. We must, therefore, buckle on the armor of righteous persevering energy—renew our zeal and activity in the vineyard of labor—plead with more earnestness the cause of the suffering and the enslaved—engage with more fervor in supplication, at the Throne of Almighty Power, for the successful termination of our arduous, yet glorious undertaking.

With such views as are here expressed, the editor of this work has assumed the station which he now occupies. He long since entered with alacrity this great arena of moral warfare, and yields to none, in the disposition to sustain the principles which he has for many years reduced, practice.

"In Slavery's" field advancing his firm foot, He plants it on the line that Justice draws, And will prevail or perish in her cause." The co-operation of all who are friendly to the object of the work is desired, and their patronage is generally solicited. Every exertion will be made to render it instructive and entertaining, while the appropriate motto will be ever recollected—"Fiat Justitia Ruat Cælum."

Terms of Publication.—The National Enquirer is published every Saturday, at No. 223 Arch Street, Philadelphia. The price of subscription is Two DOLLARS PER ANNUM, payable half yearly, in advance. Twenty six Numbers will constitute a Volume. Any person who will procure subscriptions, and forward the money for the same, as aforesaid, will be entitled to six copies of a volume complete, for every Five Dollars advanced. The Advocates of Emancipation, generally, are requested to use their influence, and lend their assistance in obtaining patronage, and in circulating the work.

Letters and communications must be forwarded to the editor, free of expense, or they will not be attended to. This regulation is absolutely necessary, to prevent imposition from the opponents of our cause.
