Blaize! with your serried columns, I will not bend the knee! The shackle ne'er again shall bind The arm which now is free; I've mail'd it with the thunder When the tempest mutter'd low, And when it fails, ye well may dread, The lightning of its blow. I've scared ye in the city, I've sclaped ye on the plain: -Go, count your chosen where they fell Beneath my leaden rain-I scorn your proffer'd treaty,

The pale face I defy; Revenge is stamp'd upon my spear, And "blood" my battle cry. Some strike for hope of booty, Some to defend their all-I battle for the joy I have,

To see the white man fall: I love among the wounded, To hear his dying moan, And catch, while chanting at his side, The music of his groan. Ye've trailed me thro' the forest.

Ye've track'd me o'er the stream, And struggling through the everglade, Your bristling bayonets gleam; -But I stand as should the warrior, With his rifle and his spear: The scalp of vengeance still is read

And warns ye-"Come not here." Think ye to find my homestead! I gave it to the fire: My tawny household do ye seek? I am a childless sire. But should ye crave life's nourishment.

Enough I have and good: I live on hate-'tis all my bread, Yet light is not my food. I loathe ye with my bosom-I scorn ye with mine eye-And I'll taunt ye with my latest breath,

And fight ye till I die. I ne'er will ask ye quarter, And I ne'er will be your slave: But I'll swim the sea of slaughter, Till I sink beneath its wave.

"It will be remembered that many of the Semi-noles killed their children; they being considered an cumbrance to the war.

THE NEWS-GATHERER.

The subjoined paragraphs are all taken from No. 1, Vol. 3, of the New-Yorker, one of the best weekly papers published in this country.

Hon. Alexander Stevenson, Ambassador at the Court of St. James, has publicly and positively contradicted an assertion that he was the author of certain attacks on the ${f U}$ nited States Bank in the London papers and also of a political letter from London, first published in the Washington Globe. The dominant party have also elected more than three fourths of the Members of the more popular branch of the Legislature.

VIRGINIA .- The Legislature of this State has very judiciously changed the times of holding elections in that State, so that the polls will be held in the several cities and counties on the fourth Thursday of April, instead of transpiring irregularly throughout the month, as circumstances or caprice may dictate. Dominion. The House of Delegates has at length decided, after a debate of two months' duration to increase the Bank capital of the State very materially. MARYLAND -The Legislature of this State adjourned last week, after passing an act reforming the State Constitution, and thereby more nearly approximating an equal representation. This reform will give the friends of the National Administration nearly twice their present strength in the next Legislature.

Hon. Andrew Stevenson .- The Globe of Wednesday raps our Minister to London over the knuckles for the tenor of his recent denial of any intermeddling with the Bank question or other controverted topics since he went abroad. The Globe seems to consider Mr. Stevenson's disclaimer derogatory to Hon. Richard Rush, who is also in London as a special agent for the Government, and who, it is distinctly stated, was the auther of the letter denouncing the Pennsylvania charter of the U. S.
