I can recollect, as follows: Fort Mellon, Jessup was aware that a number of the lickasucky Indians were hovering about the emigraing camp, (which was'7 miles from Tampa) with the this day it was deliberated in secret council by Ger. m Jessup and a few of the higher officers at Tampa, whether they should break the truce by seizing the Indians, or whether they should permit the Indians to break it. The latter was determined on, the General saying that the whites should not be the first to set to depart. On the night of the 2d and 3d, towards day-
