We cannot taste a kiss, And sure we cannot view it, , But is there not a bliss Communicated through it?

I am well convinced there is, A certain something in it-For though a simple kiss, We wisely strive to win it.

Yet there's something in a kiss-If nothing else would prove it, It might be proved alone by this-All honest people love it.

MEMORY.

When backward through departed years, On memory's wing we stray, How oft we find but founts of tears Along the wested way! The heart will vainly seek the light That rested there before, And sadly turn to mourn the blight Of all it loved of yore!

We watch for footsteps that have come To breathe the twilight vow, We listen for the silver tone Of voices-silent now! We gaze on old familiar things, And marvel that they bear No gladness to our spirit's wings, Like what of old was there !

WHAT I LIKE TO SEE. I like to see young men visit coffee houses, and spend 25 or 50 cents a day for bitters, it shows a disposition to encourage trade. I like to see men when they are at Church er other places, spit on the floor and walls, it looks 'neat but not gaudy.' I like to see young men and girls staring at each other in church, it shows a disposition to obey the command, 'let us love one another.' I like to see young ladies when they go to Chuch, freely and openly discourse the topics of the day, it shows that they are uncompromising opponents of 'gag laws.'

I like to see a young man or lady propose card playing with their religious companions, it shows that they have respect for feelings, by doing as they would be done by. I like to see parents permit their sons to run about the streets until ten or eleven o'clock at night, it shows they are great lovers of liberty and freedom." Ilike to see gentlemen when they come into a printing office leave the door open, it shows that they have regard for health by admitting a 'free circulation of air.' I like to see a man spend twenty-five of fifty dollars a year for liquor, and then say he is not able to take a newspaper, it shows that he has a great regard for the mental acquirements of himself and his children. I like to see a man subscribe for a newspaper and never pay for it, it shows a disposition to patronise the printer.
