Birbarishs of Slavery, THE CAPTURED NEGROES IN THE "ECHO."

Their Sufferings and Emacia-ted Condition...Fearingsto-ry by a Visitor.

The Charleston Mercury of the 2d inst. from "A South Carolinian G. T. D.

Mr. Editor - Your very interesting acpount of these people almost renders further description unnecessary. But a some of the recent contributions to your paper presented a picture altogether bright, I would be glad to show both of those in health, or comparatively so I found about 250 of which rome 50 were females. There were about 50 others (I do not pretend to exactness in figures) in the sick wards, in various stages of disease. You have already shown that the negroes are from almost under the Equator-latitude 5 30 S. longitude 12 20 E. In the few books to which I have had access since I saw them. I have not found them described. Bowen's explorations were in Central Africa-Livingstone's in the southern part. Barth volumes, as far as he has gone, are descriptive of North and Central Africa-sc that I am somewhat at a loss for referenges. The negroes are of various ages from thirty years to a few months, or even w.eks-some, I should judge, having been born on the passage. It is won-derful how either mother or infant survived such an event.

It has already been stated that they belong to various tribes. This is soon upparent from the difference of shades from their being congregated in separate groups, and the evident inability to converse generally with each other. I ob served nothing like general concert of thought or action between them, except in the chanting and clapping of hands. In these all, under the leadership of one man, the largest among them, united.

It has also been noticed that these Africans are far below the size common to the same age of negroes among vs. This is understood to refer to height; for, emaciated, as most of them are, no one not better skilled in human auatomy than I am, could conjecture what their weight, in health, would be. Among the whole number, it struck me that the man above referred to may have been five feet eight ibches high—a few more may reach five feet six; but besides these, there did not seem to be any of the men who were over five feet two or three inches. Some few, half a dozen, perhaps, of the men, and a few more women, seemed in good health and condition. It is supposed that these exceptions of the former were of such as were not stowed away in the hold, but were employed in working about the slaver., The women, for some unexplained reason, were undoubtedly in better condition than the men. You have already stated that the latter were wholly nude. and the former nearly so. One of the m st singular of the exhibitions I saw activised by a pair of cotton gloves tall our streets yesterdry. It was a novel most her only covering. There was was that of a woman whose hands were scarcely any comcliness among them; and the only one whose appearance agreeably attracted attention was the se-styled Princess, whose tattooing certainly gave evidence of great dexterity and skill in the

I have no pretensions to science, and must leave the ethnological questions to the learned, who, I trust, are engaged in their investigations. But to even the gasual observer, the difference of tribes i quite evident. I was surprised that few or none exhibited the very thick lips and flat noses which we are accustomed to see in the African. The hair would doubtless be kinked, but, in accordance with the usage of slavers, it has been shaved, probably at the time of sailing from Africa. Our communications with them were made in part by signs, which they understood readily, and in part through an interpreter. This man was one of the slaver's crew, who did not profass knowledge of the negro dialect; but the principal negro had a smattering knowledge of Portuguese, from having worked on ships, &c., on the coast, and in this language he conversed with the interpreter. It was evident they under stood each other, for upon our party ask ing the sailor to show us the Congo tribe the negro brought three men, who took their places before us, and I distinctly heard him say "Congo." I was struck with their teeth; some were even as usual. One tribe had the two central upper fore teeth out out in a semi-circle: while in another, the front teeth were sharpened to a point. Many of the negroes, especially with the aid of an old flannel shirt or trowsers, looked as familiar as household or plantation slaves. In many such the feature and expression reminded us of familiar faces at home.

The result of the whole visit was in tense sympathy for them and indignation the horrors of the "middle passage," but the half cannot be told as one view of entery, dropsy and ophthalmia—sall, I be the Vice of Quanism, Mastarbation or Selflieve, the productions of contact, want of ventilation and want of exercise are the gans, by the Consulting Surgeon, which will prevailing diseases. But even where these were not visible, the spectacle was for postage.

these were not visible, the spectacle was for postage.

Askeleton taken down from Address, for Report or treatment, Dr. Address, for Report or treatment, Dr. GEORGE R. GALHOUN, Consulting Surgeon, Consulting Surgeon, 2 South Ninth Street, ed to your view, would scarcely be more descriptive of anatomy than many of these living, walking specimens of the human frame. The effect was very startling, when you saw them squatting on their haunches, with their knees drawn up behind their elbows, in an attitude common to apes and baboons, but which no human frame clothed in flesh can attain. Some when sitting and told to rise, did so with head seemed but a skull encased in a black covering. It is common to speak of a man being reduced to skin and bone, publishes ther following communication but one who saw these can scarcely use officers as follows are to be elected, to wit: the expression again.

But it this is to be said of those comparitively in health, what language can cana. describe the sick? I saw one poor creations describe the sick? I saw one poor creature swollen to the most wonderful size of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvonia. DR. MORSE—the inventor of MORSE'S INwith dropsy; and as he lay on his back,

One person for Member of Congress DIAN ROOT PILLS. This philanthropisthas with dropsy; and as he lay on his back, one person for Member of Confress in moved his hands, signifying to one of fir the XVth Congressional District, comour party a request for his segar, which, posed of the Counties of Lycoming, Sufwhen given to him, he smoked with the livan, Center, Clinton, Potter and Mifflin. reatest avidity. ! Another manifested similar wants, and replied to our beckonings: to come to us, by pointing to his leg, which we construed into inability to move. I'wo lay near, whose troubles had ceased in death; while another, the most affecting sight of all-a child of six or eight years, lay on its side in the sun on the stone wharf, with eyes closed and no other evidence of life than the slight motion of the slomach indicating breathing—
The poor creature, alone and unattended, had rested its head on its little hand as naturally as our own little ones do, and in this touching attitude of suffering pointment of profit or trust under the Government of the various passages of the various passa childhood was fast losing the consciousness of a life whose experience had been only that of sorrow and suffering.

One thing impressed me forcibly-the complete docility, amounting to mere mechanical submission, of all these creatures. In the sick ward the physicians were applying caustic to the eyes of the patients. When this painful remedy was applied—and poor creatures, they knew not that it was a remedy, or anything but part of the system of cruelty to which they had been subjected-they covered their faces with their hands in pain and with their heads all bowed in meek submission; and though many were young children, not a sound, not a murmur escaped. The scene was truly touching; to one of any sensibility, the horrors of a battle-field were less so. I left the scene chastened and humbled but with gratitude, too, I trust, to Almighty God for a ot cast in a Christian land.

These negroes, purchased on the West scarcely more than $10 or $15 to be devered on the coast of Cuba, were all to be old by contract at $560 round, or one hundred and seventy-seven thousand nine hundred and eighty dollars ($177,980) for the cargo. Such gains are too tempting to be resisted by those who make aste to be rich. A CHARLESTONIAN.
