

Agricultural

From the Genesee Farmer, February.

No Cattle, no Manure—No Manure, no Corn.

Messrs. Editors.—The above, although a Scotch maxim, will apply with equal force to the farmer of this country. And not only can we trace the origin of a good crop of corn directly to the cattle of a farmer, but by still closer scrutiny we can not fail to discover the fact that the very basis of good and profitable farming has its source in and derives its very existence from the stock connected with the farm; for, without the cattle, we get no manure; and if we are deprived of the manure, we have taken from us the very element requisite to insure success in the pursuit of agriculture; for not only do we find ourselves deprived of a good crop of corn as a natural consequence attendant upon the practice of not keeping the usual supply of stock, but soon we shall find that our grass crop is a failure, caused by the soil, which, in common with other things connected with our farming operations, has failed to receive the "top-dressing" from the barn-yard, which is so essential in order that we may receive a remunerative crop of hay and a good after-crop of rowen.

The orchard also depends upon the barn-yard for an annual supply of manure, in order to produce a golden harvest of fruit, so essential to the health and comfort of a family, and also upon which you depend in a measure for the annual filling of your purse, incident upon your fall sales.

The garden, also,—that great resort for bodily amusements, so essential to the health of the tiller of the soil—the place from which we derive many subjects for after-entertainment and reference, and in which we pass many a pleasant hour with our wife or our children—is also dependent upon the barn-yard, which is an essential element in connection with a good garden—an element, the absence of which cannot be recompensed by any amount of imported guano or patent fertilizers.

The utter dependence of a good crop of grain upon the stock connected with the farm, must be apparent to any person who has taken ordinary pains to inform himself. We may send to Peru for guano, or we may patronize the plaster mills to our hearts content; and after we have exhausted all these sources, we are sure to fail of being successful cultivators of grain, unless we have a good yard of manure to resort to. Certainly we can raise grain by the use of guano, and as certain it is that we may get good crops; but ask any one well posted, and he will tell you the chances are vastly in favor of the barn-yard as a fertilizer for the successful growing of any kind of grain.

The subject of stock raising is fast becoming popular among our most astute farmers—those that not only look to the profits derived from the farm for the present year, but who wisely calculate for succeeding years of abundant harvest, and full granaries for years to come.

It was not my intention, when I commenced this subject, to have continued it to so great a length; but if you consider it proper, I would like to make a few suggestions with regard to the management necessary in order to avail ourselves of the best mode of making a good yard of manure. In the first place, you want a good yard—one well calculated for making manure. Many persons have of late fallen into an error (in my estimation) with regard to the kind of a yard requisite, by choosing a too elevated and consequently dry yard. Now we will admit that a too wet yard is equally objectionable, but we would insist upon one of as near a medium degree of wetness as can conveniently be procured, for the reason that the stock can much more easily pulverize and mix together the contents of a moist yard, than they can of one very dry. The yard should also be often plowed, as frequent stirrings of the soil will tend to help forward the process of decomposition of the refuse straw and hay which should always find its way into the barn-yard.

With regard to the winter management, I suppose every reader of the Genesee Farmer is well enough acquainted with the advantages to be derived from keeping the manure from his stables under cover until wanted for use. If they are not, allow me to ask of them one favor, which is, that they try the experiment for one year; and if they are not satisfied that the advantages derived from this course amply pay them for the expense attendant upon it, then their experience will differ very materially from mine, under the same circumstances. Do not now hastily condemn this practice, nor consider that there is no improving upon the practice of your fathers, who, forsooth, raised good corn without sheltering their manure; but try it, and let us know the result through the pages of the Farmer.

FOWL DISEASE.—Having met with a very singular case among my poultry, I thought I would communicate an account of it for your valuable paper. We picked up a chicken that was so bloated up that we thought it was dying. Its head was drawn over to one side. On examining it, the skin appeared as though it had been blown up, but upon puncturing the skin, the wind whistled out; and after repeating the operation a few times, the chicken recovered entirely, and is now one of the handsomest fowls we have.

CULTIVATE A TASTE FOR HORTICULTURE.—Prince DE LIGNE well says: "I would in-pire everybody with my taste for gardens and gardening; for it seems to me impossible that this taste can take possession of any one who is bad. All the virtues will find a ready and congenial soil in that heart which has developed this taste, and loves to talk and get horticulture. Fathers of families, inoculate, if possible, your children with the gardening mania."

SERVED HIM RIGHT.—The negro, who committed the rape upon the person of a respectable white married lady near Seneca, a short time since, under such aggravated circumstances, an account of which we published some time ago, we are glad to learn has been convicted of the crime at Columbia county Court of Quarter Sessions this week, and sentenced to twelve years imprisonment in the Penitentiary—the utmost limit of the law. [If all the white scoundrels who ravish black women were likewise punished, the Southern jails for a while would be full, but it would tend to stop the brutal, wholesale amalgamation which Slavery always begets.]

No single women are allowed in Japan. Every man is allowed one legal wife, and as many second wives as his means will allow him to support. The second wives are selected by law from the poorer classes of society, whose relatives are unable to maintain them, and the children are all adopted by the legal wife, who is the only acknowledged mother. The old rule is therefore reversed in Japan, where instead of a boy not knowing his own father, hundreds do not know their own mother.

CLEAR AS MUD.—An editor laid a bottle of London Duck Gun presented to him, and after drinking the whole of it, he wrote a notice of the article. Here is a specimen of the style:

"Here's to the ladies and other branches of business (hic) in and around town—and especially the Messieurs's Passage, Monington Washment, etc., all of which may be had cheap at the Bank—Brook—Brook and Duk Store of Bining's old London Duck Gun, for $2 a year, if payment is delayed until the end of the Atlantic Cable."

A poor tilted blade says:
"Woman's love is like Scotch snuff,
You get one pinch and that's enough."

Whereupon a larkly of more sense, as well as soul, responds:
"Woman's love, like ingy-rubber;
It stretch de more, de more you lub her."

Mr. CALDWELL, one of the State Senators of Virginia and twice Mayor of Wheeling, the other day delivered at the Court House in that city a very strong speech in favor of free labor—the first speech of the kind ever delivered in that city. The audience was large, and the sensation considerable.

It is said that Barnum is clearing $700 a week in England by his lecture on "How to make money." He declined an offer from an eminent London publishing house of $1,200 for the exclusive right to publish his lectures in Great Britain.

A POLYGLOT STATE.—The Secretary of State of Wisconsin informs the Legislature that of the amount of money expended for public printing during the past three years, about $27,000 was for English, $20,000 for German, and $14,000 for Norwegian languages—total $61,000.

PICTURES OF SLAVERY.

IN PRESS, and will be published January 15, 1859.

THE ROVING EDITOR;

or,
Talks with Slaves in the Southern States;

By JAMES KEOPATH, of Kansas.

One neat vol., 12mo., 375 pp., Illustrated. Price $1.

This book is a narrative of three journeys afoot, between Washington and New Orleans, containing lengthy reports of confidential conversations with the slaves in Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia, Alabama and Louisiana; lively descriptions of social Southern plantation life; a graphic sketch of adventure in Missouri; and the most searching and thorough and reliable investigation of American slavery ever published in our country. The author has given a full and an fearless report of slave sentiment—a thing never hitherto attempted in America. Let every one who would know what Southern slavery is—slavery as seen by the slaves—read this volume of their own evidence, and startling record of the hopes and future designs.

As to the author's skill as a writer, it will be seen that extremes have met and agree:—

"Redpath could not be dull, or tame, or slavish if he were to try; he has not an idle bone in him and if eccentric and humorous, 'tis all for humanity. He has a rare mind and strong; both full of grit, and will wreathe and wrangle with all their might."
—H. J. C. Vaughn, in Leavesworth Times.

"A vigorous writer."
—St. Louis Republican.

"A d—d rascal, but the best writer we ever had out west."
—Gen. Strong's Journal.

CAUTION.

Merchants and Dealers will be on their guard and not be imposed upon by a Counterfeit of Morse's Indian Root Pills, signed A. B. Moore. All genuine Indian Root Pills have the name and signature of J. J. White & Co. on each box.

As we present you with a likeness of DR. MORSE—the inventor of MORSE'S INDIAN ROOT PILLS. This plan is adopted to prevent the greater part of his life, and to have visited Europe, Asia, and Africa, as well as North America—has seen the Indians of our Western States, and was in this way that the fact of his being first discovered. Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills are the only medicine that purify the blood, and strengthen health, and improve the complexion.

When the various symptoms of Scrofula, or King's Evil, are present, the blood is impure, and the system is diseased. The most of the consumption which debilitates the human family has its origin directly in this scrofulous contamination; and any destructive disease of the liver, kidneys, brain, and indeed, of all the organs, arise from or are aggravated by the same cause.

One quarter of all our people are scrofulous; their persons are invaded by this lurking infection, and their health is undermined by it. To cleanse it from the system we must renovate the blood by an alterative medicine, and invigorate it by healthy food and exercise. Such a medicine we supply in the most effectual remedy which the medical skill of our times can devise for this every where prevailing and fatal malady. It is composed from the most active remedies that have been discovered for the expurgation of this foul corruption within the system.

Compound Extract of Sarsaparilla,

From its destructive operation on the system, the passage to the lungs, and the consequent coughing, phlegm, and other humors, and the blood will become impure, and cease to act, and thus our light of life will forever be blown out. How important, therefore, that we should keep the various passages of the body free and open. And how pleasant to us that we have it in our power to put a medicine in your reach, namely Morse's Indian Root Pills, manufactured from pure and roots which grow around the mountainous cliffs in Nature's garden, for the recovery of diseased man. One of the from which these Pills are made is that which opens the pores of the skin.

Nature in throwing out the impurities of corruption within the system, the system is in its destructive operation on the system, the passage to the lungs, and the consequent coughing, phlegm, and other humors, and the blood will become impure, and cease to act, and thus our light of life will forever be blown out. Scrofula, or King's Evil, is a constitutional disease, a corruption of the blood, by which this fluid becomes vitiated, weak, and poor. Being in the circulation, it pervades the whole body, and may burst out in disease on any part of it. No organ is free from its attacks, nor is there one which it may not destroy. The scrofulous taint is variously caused by mercurial disease, low living, disordered or unhealthy food, impure air, filth and filthy habits, the depressing viciss, and, above all, by the venereal infection. Whatever be its origin, it is hereditary in the constitution, descending from parents to children, and to the third and fourth generation; indeed, it seems to be the rod of Him who says, "I will visit the iniquities of the fathers upon their children."

Its effects commence by deposition from the blood of corrupt or vitiated matter, which, in the lungs, liver, and intestines, is made tubercles; in the glands, swellings; and on the surface, eruptions or sores. This foul corruption, which genders in the blood, depresses the energies of life, so that scrofulous constitutions not only suffer from scrofulous complaints, but they have far less power to withstand the attacks of other diseases; consequently, vast numbers perish by disorders which, although not scrofulous in their nature, are still rendered fatal by this taint in the system. Most of the consumption which debilitates the human family has its origin directly in this scrofulous contamination; and any destructive disease of the liver, kidneys, brain, and indeed, of all the organs, arise from or are aggravated by the same cause.

One quarter of all our people are scrofulous; their persons are invaded by this lurking infection, and their health is undermined by it. To cleanse it from the system we must renovate the blood by an alterative medicine, and invigorate it by healthy food and exercise. Such a medicine we supply in
