NEVER-MIND. BY DAVID BARKER. Should misfortune dog your track, Never mind Make no rainbow of the back, Never mind. Turn not to the left or right-Quail not at a menaced blow. Onward, upward in your might, Shout this motto as you go:
"Never mind."

Foes may frighten friends away, Fear not what traducers say,

Never mind. Single-handed fight it through; Trust not in the countless throng, One a legion may subdue,
With that legion in the wrong:

Should you meet with pointless slurs, Never mind. Every fool by instinct errs,

Let spawns scribble if they will; Men of nerve are never slain By one's firing through a quill "Paper bullets of the brain;" Never mind.

Each shall get just what he earn's, Never mind. Roads are long which have no turns.

Never mind. Yeilding up the other cheek, Dropping humbly on the knees, Closing lips when dared to speak Will not do in times like these; Never mind

The moon was shining silver bright. All bloodless lay the untrodden snow When Freedom, from her mountain height, Exclaimed, "Now don't be foolish, Joe!" An hour passed on-the Turk awoke.

A bumble-bee went thundering by, To hover in the sulphur smoke, And spread its pall upon the sky. His echoing axe the settler swung,

He was a lad or high renown, And deep the pearly caves among, Giles Scroggles courted Molly Brown Loud roars the wind in constant blast,

When twilight dews are falling fast, And rolls the thunder drum of heaven. Oh! ever thus, from childhood's hour, By torch and trumpet fast arrayed;

Beneath you ivy-mantled tower, The bull-frog croaks his serenade. My love is like the red, red rose, He bought a ring with poesy true; Sir Barney Bodkin broke his nose,

And, Saxon, I am Roderick Dhu!
