

HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS.

It is a fact that, at some period every member of the human family is subject to disease or disturbance of the bodily functions; but with the aid of a good knowledge of the exercise of good common sense, there is no need so to regulate the system as to secure permanent health. In order to accomplish this desired object, the true course to pursue is certainly that which will produce a natural state of things at the establishment of vital strength and life. For this purpose, Dr. Hostetter has introduced to this country a preparation bearing his name, which is known as "The Bitters." It is a compound of various medicinal herbs, which have been tried for years, giving satisfaction to those who have used it. Are your farms generally in a better condition than they were a year ago? Are your fields better laid out and enclosed—useless stones removed—young waste grounds less—your ditches opened—and the general thoroughness of the ground better adapted for the raising of crops? Has your land been made richer, to enable you to yield more, and have you collected a large amount of materials to increase your annual income of manure? Are your houses more comfortable, besides being of a neater appearance, from the labors of the year? Have you added to the conveniences and safety of your barns, to make them better adapted to the purposes for which they were built?

Again: has your stock of cattle and horses improved, not only in number, but more in quality and appearance, and consequently in value? Have you selected and do you raise the best kinds of sheep?—we mean those kinds that are the most profitable to the owner? Have you the most profitable breed of hogs, and do you carry just so many through the winter as to conduce to your interest? In short, have you so farmed in all things that you have no cause of regret, because you have given to all a proper degree of attention and care?

If so, at congratulate you; but if not, if you have not done one, a part, or all of those things, the year has been, in a measure, lost to you, and you have not done justice to your farm or your profession. Take another year of probation, let it to better account, and let your diligence give evidence of thorough reformation. But if you will not—if experience cannot teach, and the prospect of harassing debts hereafter cannot incite you to a noble industry—you will, soon become an evil in a neighborhood, your example will be injurious to others, and your slothfulness and unthriftiness will assuredly lay your farm under a cumbersome mortgage; and this, once imposed, the next step is a disposal of it, by a creditor at auction.

We turn from such, and ask next, Have you for the last year done your duty to your family? That is, have you made the labors of the farm as cheerful to all your dependents as circumstances would allow? Have you been so far kind and indulgent as was consistent with the proper management of a well regulated household? Have you attended to the education of your children and apprentices, and as far as one short year allowed, given them all the opportunities to acquire information that may be useful to them hereafter in their several pursuits, and that with intelligence they may support the free institutions of our country? If you have done this, you have done your duty; but let us at the same time remark, that education is on the advance, and is necessary for our generation, is not enough for them. The march of intellect is onward, and our present attainments are comparatively small, and all will be still more undervalued, in view of the generation to come.

Have you done your duty to your country? Have you given the necessary and the good of society demands at your hands to the bridges, roads public improvement, in your respective neighborhoods, to schools, seminaries of learning, public morals, and religious institutions? These are all great and important duties, and in a well regulated community ought not to be slighted or forgotten. Society cannot flourish without them—they are the stamina that give stability and health to our country and its government, and that man is unfit for associated life, he is wanting in principle and reckless of consequences, who will not lend his aid to the attainment of these great and important objects.

HOWARD ASSOCIATION,
PHILADELPHIA.
A dependent institution, established by special endowment, for the relief of the sick and distressed, afflicted with Virulent and Epidemic diseases.

The HOWARD ASSOCIATION, in view of the actual destruction of human life, caused by sexual diseases, several years ago directed their Consulting Surgeon, to open a Dispensary for the treatment of this class of disease, in all their forms, and to give MEDICAL ADVICE GRATIS, to all who apply by letter, with a description of their condition; age, occupation, habits of life, &c., and in cases of extreme poverty to FURNISH MEDICINES FREE OF CHARGE.

The Directors of the Association, in their late Annual Report express the highest satisfaction with the progress which has been made in the labor of their Surgeons in the cure of Sexual Diseases, Venereal Maladies, Gout, Gleet, Syphilis, the Vice of Oppium or Self-Abuse, Disease of the Kidneys and Bladder, &c., and ordered continuance of the same plan for the ensuing year.
