Hay-Making.

As the season for making hay is approaching, we will give a few words of caution in advance. Don't dry your hay too much. Hay may be dried till it is as worthless as straw. As a good coffee-maker would say, "Don't burn your coffee, but brown it;" so we say, don't dry your hay, but cure it. Our good old mothers, who relied on herb tea, instead of "potecary medicine," gathered their herbs when in blossom and cured them in the shade. This is the philosophy of making good hay. Cut in the blossom, and cure in the shade. The sugar of the plant, when it is in bloom, is in the stalk ready to form the seeds. If the plant is cut earlier, the sugar is not there; if later, the sugar has become converted to woody matter.

Hay should be well wilted in the sun, but cured in the cock. Better to be a little too green than too dry. If, on putting it into the barn, there is danger of "heating in the mow," put on some salt. Cattle will like it none the less.

Heat, light, and dry winds will soon take the starch and sugar, which constitute the goodness of hay, out of it; and with the addition of a shower, render it almost worthless. Grass cured with the least exposure to the drying winds, and searching sunshine, is more nutritious than if longer exposed, however good the weather may be. If ever cured, it contains more woody fiber and less nutritive matter.

The true art of hay-making, then, consists in cutting the grass when the starch and sugar are most fully developed, and before they are converted into seed and woody fiber; and curing it up to the point when it will answer to put it into the barn without heating and no more.—Ohio Farmer.

DRAINING SWAMP LANDS.—Mr. J. D. Williamson writes of his experience in draining swamp lands as follows:

"I drained a small piece of swamp last Spring, large enough to plant almost 2½ bushels of potatoes, three sets to the hill, and out of that small piece I sold 80 bushels, and used considerable of them in the house and fed the small ones to the pigs, and they were twice cut down with the frost in the Spring, and killed in the Fall while in vigor; but for these casualities I think they would have almost doubled that amount. I have now cleared and drained a large piece, sufficient perhaps to plant 30 or 40 bushels, and carted the muck from the drains up to a piece of clay loam, where I intend planting my early potatoes and apple trees."

FEW men are willing to look at true independence as they might in the horoscope of farm-life.

Great Tornado in Iowa and Illinois—About 150 Persons Killed and 150 Injured.

CHICAGO, Tuesday, June 5, 1860.

From telegraphic messages received here last night and this morning, we learn the following further particulars in regard to the tornado of Sunday morning:

The first that was heard of it was between Marion and Cedar Rapids, in Linn County, Iowa, going north-west and south-east in three different currents, crossing the track of the Chicago, Iowa, and Nebraska Railroad several times.

At Lisbon Station, the depot buildings and all the warehouses in the village were completely demolished.

A train of ten freight cars, heavily loaded, was lifted from the track bodily and dashed to pieces.

Before the tornado reached Lisbon it had killed sixteen persons. From there one current of the storm passed north through Mechaniesville, demolishing everything in its course, and killing sixteen persons more.

Another current took in its course Onion Grove, killing in that vicinity seventeen persons.

It then passed south of the railroad near Dewitt, killing twenty-seven persons, sixteen of whom belonged to the family of Thomas Hatfield. The current then passed South of Rowmersea and Law Moor, destroying the house of David Millard, killing him and a portion of his family.

It then struck the town of Camanche, on the Mississippi River, at which point the loss of life is much greater than was at first stated. From all accounts, there cannot be less than fifty-five killed at this place. Some reports state even a larger number; but the bodies cannot be found. There are also 125 wounded, some partially, and 10 missing.

A large lumber raft from the Chippewa River, manned by a crew of 24 men, with two women on board, which was tied up opposite Camanche at the time of the tornado, was completely scattered, and 21 of the men and both women were lost.

The names of the dead at Camanche, as far as we have been able to obtain them, are as follows:

Mrs. Amelia Davis and son, G. C. Westphall, Elizabeth Westphall and child, Hannah Cuman, Mary Greenleaf, Elizabeth Rathbone, D. Waggoner, D. Saltoubury, Philip Pepper, Margaret Foss, Mary Foss, Eli Milson, Mrs. George Barnhall, Mrs. James Stalenburg, George Arp, H. McKeurick, Jacob Meyle, Augusta Meyle and child, a child of G. W. Chase, a child of W. White, Herman Whitney.

There were many others not identified. Six persons in the family of H. Sessions, proprietor of the Hilliard House, were badly injured.

A GOOD man who has seen much of the world and is now tired of it, says: "The grand essentials to happiness in this life are, something to do, something to love, and something to hope for."

HOSTETTER'S

STOMACH BITTERS.

IT is a fact that, at some period, every member of the human family is subject to disease or disturbance of the bodily functions; but, with the aid of a good tonic and the exercise of good common sense, they may be able so to regulate the system as to secure permanent health. In order to accomplish this desired object, the true course to pursue is certainly that which will produce a natural state of things at the least hazard of vital strength and life. For this purpose, Dr. Hostetter has introduced to this country a preparation bearing his name, which is not a new medicine, but one that has been tried for years, giving satisfaction to all who have used it. The Bitters operate powerfully upon the stomach, bowels, and liver, restoring them to a healthy and vigorous action, and thus, by the simple process of strengthening nature, enables the system to triumph over disease.

For the cure of Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Nausea, Flatulency, Loss of Appetite, or any Bilious Complaints, arising from a morbid inaction of the Stomach or bowels, producing Cramps, Dysentery, Colic, Cholera Morbus, &c., these Bitters have no equal.

Diarrhœa, dysentery or flux, so generally contracted by new settlers, and caused principally by the change of water and diet will be speedily regulated by a brief use of this preparation. Dyspepsia, a disease which is probably more prevalent, in all its various forms, than any other, and the cause of which may always be attributed to derangements of the digestive organs, can be cured without fail by using HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, as per directions on the bottle. For this disease every physician will recommend Bitters of some kind; then why not use an article known to be infallible? All nations have their Bitters, as a preventive of disease and strengthener of the system in general; and among them all there is not to be found a more healthy people than the Germans, from whom this preparation emanated, based upon scientific experiments which have tended to prove the value of this great preparation in the scale of medical science.

FEVER AND AGUE.—This trying and provoking disease, which fixes its relentless grasp on the body of man, reducing him to a mere shadow in a short time, and rendering him physically and mentally useless, can be driven from the body by the use of HOSTETTER'S RENOWNED BITTERS. Further, none of the above-stated diseases can be contracted, even in exposed situations, if the Bitters are used as per directions. And as they neither create nausea nor offend the palate, and render unnecessary any change of diet or interruption of ordinary pursuits, but promote sound sleep and healthy digestion, the complaint is removed as speedily as is consistent with the production of a thorough and permanent cure.

For Persons in Advanced Years, who are suffering from an enfeebled constitution and infirm body, these Bitters are invaluable as a restorative of strength and vigor, and need only be tried to be appreciated. And to a mother while nursing these Bitters are indispensable, especially where the mother's nourishment is inadequate to the demands of the child, consequently her strength must yield, and here it is where a good tonic, such as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, is needed to impart temporary strength and vigor to the system. Ladies should by all means try this remedy for all cases of debility, and, before so doing, should ask their physician, who, if he is acquainted with the virtue of the Bitters, will recommend their use in all cases of weakness.

Caution.—We caution the public against using any of the many imitations or counterfeits, but ask for HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS, and see that each bottle has the words "Dr. J. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters" blown on the side of the bottle, and stamped on the metallic cap covering the cork, and observe that our autograph signature is on the label.
