Agricultural, &c.

The following is given as an antidote for the fearful cattle disease—pleuro pneumonia:

"Burn tar freely in the barn or shed two or three times in a day, and let the cattle inhale it, but not too close; let them lap freely of salt every other day; dissolve chlorate of potash in water, wash their nostrils and mouth, and rub them all over with a coarse brush wet in the same; sprinkle chloride of lime in and about the stables; give the cattle a few onions if they can be procured, and plenty of sound vegetables and fresh grass and water; no hay if it can be avoided.

Worth Consideration.

Judd, of the American Agriculturist, has regard to the future of our farmer boys. Hear him in the following remark:

"The season of long hot days, short nights; hard labor, and short rests, has come, and it seems to me it were to utter a word of caution to farmers, be they fathers or masters, who have the care of boys. Many a boy is ruined for life in these hard harvest days. Boys are generally ambitious to become men and do 'men's work'; the father is glad to see so much 'grit,' and the lad of fourteen perhaps is allowed to take the scythe or cradle, and go into the field with full grown men, and see how near he can keep up. With what result? His 'grit' keeps him along for a while, but the muscles of his arm, and far worse than this, those of his chest, soon become strained by what is to him unnatural labor, and he gives out. Yet the vital energies of youth are strong and he soon seems to recover his exhausted strength, and again he repeats his efforts. But the forces of nature each time rally more feebly, he becomes weak in the chest, his joints become enfeebled, the action of the whole system becomes dull, the animus of youth is gone, in too many cases never to return. He enters manhood, not with the spirit that goes to daily toil with a song, and returns at evening with a shout, but with a spiritless step as if it were a hateful drudgery and such to him it is. Farm pursuits become distasteful and are left at the first opportunity. We wonder sometimes at the iron constitutions of foreigners, who seek their homes with us. The main secret is here. Boys are not put to hard labor there. You scarcely ever find a young Irishman of twenty that has ever handled a scythe previous to his coming here. It is considered there to be work only fit for full-grown men. Think of this farmers, when your boys want to pitch in with the men, and give them lighter toil, that shall give healthful exercise not over-straining labor."

How BUCHANAN WAS ELECTED.

The following dispatch from Washington reveals only a part of the plot which placed Mr. Buchanan in power:

WASHINGTON May 12, 1860.
Mr. Karus, of Reading, appeared before the Covode Committee, and testified that he was a contractor on the Union canal extension, and employed about 150 Irishmen. He had sent to him a large number of the naturalization papers, alleged to be fraudulent, which were procured from R. M. Browne, an employee of the Navy Yard. He received some of these under frank of Democratic Members. Some two or three hundred of them were still left in his possession. Several thousand of these papers were circulated through Pennsylvania; some bearing the seal of a prothonotary who was now dead, and others in blank.

Interesting to Women.

There is nothing in the world that we think so much of as we do of women. Our mother is a woman—wife, sister, and pretty cousin are women; and the daughters will be (Heaven spare them) if they live long enough. And there is a love of women in general, which we do not deny. A fine magnificent specimen of the sex full of life and health, a ripe, red cheek and flashing eyes, is something that does one good to look at as she illuminates the humdrum sidewalks and every-day streets. A North river steamer under full head-way, with the colors flying, is rather a pretty sight (rather stirring and inspiring), and we pull up our nag to see her pass and admire the swell she cuts. Comparatively, however, the steamer sinks into insignificance, or some other deep water, by the side of a well-dressed woman. There is no rubbing it out; women are the ornament, charm, blessing, beauty and bliss of life (men's life we mean of course). Any means, therefore, that can be devised for preserving them should be made known. They are different from any other kind of fruit. You cannot pickle them. You cannot do them up in sugar and set them away in a cold room, with a paper soaked in brandy* over their mouths. You cannot put them in cans sealed up air-tight, without injuring their form and flavor. Now as men are so dependent upon women for their choicest blessings, a proper mode of preserving them becomes of great moment, and we are sure that the public will thank us for an infallible receipt.

Have the feet well protected, then pay the next attention to the chest. The chest is the repository of the vital organs. There abide the heart and the lungs. It is from the impressions made upon these organs, through the skin, that the shiver comes; it is nature's quake—the alarm bell at the outset of danger. A woman may never shiver from the effects of cold upon her limbs, or head; but let the cold strike through her clothes upon her chest and off goes her teeth in a chatter, and the whole organism is in a commotion. One sudden and severe impression of cold upon the chest has slain its tens of thousands. Therefore while the feet are well looked after, never forget the chest. These points attended to that natural connection of the dress will supply the rest, and the woman is now ready for the air. Now let her visit her neighbors, go shopping, call upon the poor, and walk for the good of it, for the fun of it.

Keep away from the stove or register.

Air that is dry or burnt, more or less charged with gasses evolved by the fuel, is poison. Go up stairs and make the beds with mittens on. Fly round the house like a mad woman and ventilate the rooms. Don't sit pent up in a single room with double windows. Fruit will not retain its form or flavor in air-tight cans, neither will women. They need air. If the shiver comes on during these operations, go directly and put something more about the breast.

Again; do not live in dark rooms. Light fades the carpet, but it feeds the flowers. No living animal can enjoy health in darkness. Light is as necessary as air; and a brown tan is preferable even as a matter of beauty, to a sickly paleness of complexion.

This much in regard to the physical means for preservation. There are moral means important. Every woman should be married to an excellent man. Marriage, it is true, brings care and wear; but it is the ring that is worn that keeps bright, and the watch, that lies still unwound, that gets out of order. The sweet sympathies involved in the family relation; the new energies developed by new responsibilities, the new compensation for all outlays of strength, bring about a delightful play upon the heart and intellect, which, in their reaction upon the body, produces an effect that is nothing less than preservation. Then there is a higher moral power than this—one which we speak of soberly and reverently. No one is completely armed against the encroaching ills of life, who has in the heart no place for religion. The calmness, the patience, and the joy and hope that are in possession of that woman whose heart is right in its highest relation, can never fail to heighten every personal power and charm that she possesses.

There, you have the receipt. Some of it is in sportive form, but is not the less sober truth. It has within it a cure for many a disease; the preventative for more. It will be made longer; when we see its prescription universally adopted, it will be time to bring forward the remainder.—Home Journal.

*NOTE.—A lady at our elbow (not our wife)—thinks that some women's mouths are "sealed up" by brandy, though soaked up in a different way—they have brandy-soaked husbands.—Ed. POTTER JOURNAL.

THE WORLD; An Independent Morning Newspaper.

In which will be found the Latest Intelligence upon Matters of Public Interest from every Quarter of the Globe.

This intelligence is furnished, in some good measure at least, by newspapers already established and ably conducted; but The World has originated in the widely prevalent feeling that the time has come for living Christianity to assert itself in secular journalism more positively than it has yet done, and will adapt itself to that acknowledged want. Neither assuming nor seeking to be a preacher of religious doctrine, it yet will recognize, in all its judgments upon the practical affairs of life, the authority and efficacy of Christian principles. Its capital has been supplied by members of various religious denominations, and it will do its work, without bias, on the common ground of the great primal Christian truths.

The World will aim to be the first newspaper in the land, in respect to all objects which truly belong to the province of a secular journal. The name it bears will be its true index—taking the word in no dead physical sense, but applying it to all the religious, moral, social, political, literary, and industrial workings that make up the mighty life of this nineteenth century. It will spare no pains or expense to obtain and publish, at the earliest moment, AUTHENTIC news in every department of human activity; and it will employ the best ability procurable to give such intelligence its right interpretation and application. Its Correspondence, both Foreign and Domestic, will be on an unusually ample scale, and will come from residents of the highest intelligence and entirely responsible character. Determined thus to excel in the breadth and variety of its early information, it will nevertheless refuse to pander to corrupt tastes, and will rigorously exclude every thing unfit to be read in a pure household.

Its Commercial and Financial Department will be conducted by men of large experience and ability, and it will aim, by fullness of marine and commercial intelligence, as well as by strict impartiality and honesty in dealing with financial questions, to be an adequate and trustworthy source of information for the Merchant, the Banker, the Tradesman, and the Manufacturer. Agriculture and all the great branches of Mechanical Industry will receive due attention.

In Literature, Science and Art, and all that concerns mental progress and culture, this journal will specially endeavor to excel. It will aim constantly to promote the interests of Education in all its grades, and will give early and close attention to New Publications, Inventions, Discoveries and Works of Art. Its criticisms will be prepared with particular care, and it will faithfully expose infidelity and immorality, wherever lurking in the current publications of the day.

In Politics, The World will afford early and full information. It will discuss all political topics with freedom, and will never lend itself to party service. Every party has its good and bad points, commits its good and bad acts; makes its good and bad mistakes;—this paper will discriminate between these with the strictest impartiality, measuring by no other standard than that of virtue and the public good, without distinction of parties or persons. It will keep true to the doctrine of the Fathers of the Republic, that slavery is a moral, social, and political evil; yet, without, one that can be safely and effectually treated only by those who have a legislative and legal jurisdiction over it. Recognizing the duty of both the Federal Government and of the States to keep strictly to their own respective constitutional spheres, this paper will oppose, on the one hand, any action by the Federal Government towards planting Slavery where it does not exist; and, on the other hand, any action by the Federal Government, or by the non-slaveholding States, towards approving the institution where it does not exist. While it will entertain no fear for, and listen to no threats against, the Union, it will ever be thoroughly national in its tone, ever on the side of the Constitution and the laws, and, by just statement and calm appeal, will seek to ally the sectional discord which designing and hot-headed partisans labor to excite. In its treatment of all subjects of every nature, it will avoid bitterness. While earnest for right, and unshrinking in rebuke, it will be courteous and genial, always mindful that violence is almost sure to work more harm than good to truth.

THE DAILY WORLD,
Morning and Afternoon Editions, will be printed on an imperial quarto sheet, larger than that of any of the present New-York two cent dailies. It will give the latest telegraphic and other News up to the very point of going to press, and will completely exhibit the last phase of all the Markets that concern either the Capitalist, the Merchant, the Mechanic, or the Farmer. In quality of paper, clearness of type, and general attractiveness of appearance, it will surpass any journal ever yet issued from an American press. Its price will be One Cent per copy; or, when sent by mail, Four Dollars a year.

THE SEMI-WEEKLY WORLD, will be published every Tuesday and Friday, and will embrace all the more important matter of the daily editions, with the latest markets. No semi-weekly in this country will compare with it in range of topic and variety of information; and, being perfectly free from everything offensive to a pure taste, it will be pre-eminently valuable as a family newspaper. Terms.—Three Dollars a year; two copies to one address, Five Dollars; five copies ditto, Eleven Dollars; ten copies ditto, Twenty Dollars.

THE WEEKLY WORLD, will contain all of the matter of the Daily of most interest in the country. Like the Semi-Weekly, it will give special attention to its Agricultural, and Horticultural, and Mechanical Departments. Its Provision Market and other Market Reports will be prepared with the greatest care. There is not a farm in the country to which it would not prove a profitable visitor.

Terms.—Two Dollars a year; four copies to one address, Five Dollars; ten copies ditto, Ten Dollars, twenty-five copies ditto, Twenty Dollars. An extra copy will be sent to every person forming a club of twenty-five; and for a club of fifty weekly subscribers a copy of the Daily will be sent for one year.

Special editions of The World will be prepared for California and Europe. For all of the issues, cash in advance must invariably be paid. Specimen copies sent to any person on application. Considering both the multitude and the character of the readers for whom it will have special attractions, The World will present peculiar advantages as an advertising medium, and liberal terms will be made. Address "The World," 35 Park Row, cor. Beekman Street, New York City.

HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS.

It is a fact that, at some period, every member of the human family is subject to disease of disturbance of the bodily functions; but, with the aid of a good tonic and the exercise of good common sense, they may be able to regulate the system as to secure permanent health. In order to accomplish this desired object, the true course to pursue is certainly that which will produce a natural state of things at the least hazard of vital strength and life. For this purpose, Dr. Hostetter has introduced to this country a preparation bearing his name, which is not a new medicine, but one that has been tried for years, giving satisfaction to all who have used it. The Bitters operate powerfully upon the stomach, bowels, and liver, restoring them to a healthy and vigorous action, and thus, by the simple process of strengthening nature, enables the system to triumph over disease.

For the cure of Dyspepsia, indigestion, Nausea, Flatulency, Loss of Appetite, or any Bilious Complaints, arising from a morbid action of the Stomach or bowels, producing Cramps, Dysentery, Colic, Cholera Morbus, &c., these Bitters have no equal. Diarrhea, dysentery or flux, so generally contracted by new settlers, and caused principally by the change of water and diet, will be speedily regulated by a brief use of this preparation. Dyspepsia, a disease which is probably more prevalent, in all its various forms, than any other, and the cause of which may always be attributed to derangements of the digestive organs, can be cured without fail by using HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, as per directions on the bottle. For this disease every physician will recommend Bitters of some kind; then why not use an article known to be infallible? All nations have their Bitters; as a preventive of disease and strengthener of the system in general; and among them all there is not to be found a more healthy or more beneficial than the one which this preparation emanated, based upon scientific experiments which have tended to prove the value of this great preparation in the scale of medical science.

FEVER and AGUE.—This trying and protracting disease, which fixes its relentless grasp on the body of man, reducing him to a mere shadow in a short time, and rendering him physically and mentally useless, can be driven from the body by the use of HOSTETTER'S RENOWNED BITTERS. Further, none of the above-stated diseases can be contracted, even in exposed situations, if the Bitters are used as per directions. And as they neither create nausea nor offend the palate, and render unnecessary any change of diet or interruption of ordinary pursuits, but promote sound sleep and healthy digestion, the complaint is removed as speedily as it is contracted, and with the production of a thorough and permanent cure.

For Persons in Advanced Years, who are suffering from an enfeebled constitution and infirm body, these Bitters are invaluable as a restorative of strength and vigor, and need only to be tried to be appreciated. And to a mother while nursing these Bitters are indispensable, especially where the mother's nourishment is inadequate to the demands of the child; consequently her strength must yield, and here it is where a good tonic, such as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, is needed to impart temporary strength and vigor to the system. Ladies should by all means try this remedy for all cases of debility; and, before so doing, should ask their physician, who, if he is acquainted with the virtue of the Bitters, will recommend their use in all cases of weakness.

Caution.—We caution the public against using any of the many imitations or counterfeits, but ask for Hostetter's CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS, and see that each bottle has the words "Dr. J. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters" blown on the side of the bottle, and stamped on the metallic cap covering the cork, and observe that our autograph signature is on the label.
