POETRY.

[From the Atlantic Monthly for September.] THE CHILDREN'S HOUR. BY HENRY WADSWORTH LONGFELLOW. Between the dark and the daylight, When the night is beginning to lower. Comes a pause in the day's occupation That is known as the Children's Hour.

I hear in the chamber above me The patter of little feet,
The sound of a door that is opened,
And voices soft and sweet.

From my study I see in the lamplight, Descending the broad hall stair, Grave Alice and laughing Allegra, And Edith with golden hair. A whisper, and then a silence;

They are plotting and planning together To take me by surprise. A sudden rush from the stairway, A sudden raid from the hall, By three doors left unguarded

They enter my castle wall! They climb up into my turret O'er the arms and back of my chair: If I try to escape, they surround me; They seem to be everywhere.

They almost devour me with kisses, Their arms about me entwine,
Till I think of the Bishop of Bingen
In his Mouse Tower on the Rhine!

Do you think, O blue-eyed banditti, Because you have scaled the wall, Such an old mustache as I am Is not a match for you all?

I have you fast in my fortress, And will not let you depart, But put you down into the dungeons In the round-tower of my heart. And there will I keep you forever, . Yes, forever and a day, Till the walls shall crumble to ruin,
