Minutes of yesterday read and approved. Critics report being called for. Mr. B. P. Crosby presented clear and concise explanations of yesterday's errors. Miss H. M. Nelson followed with a similar report and the excellent feature of criticism on department.

Mr. H. L. Smith and Miss H. M. Jones were appointed critics for today. The following members were appointed to act as committees on resolutions: Messrs. Gilliland, Brown, Maynard and Colcord, and Misses B. M. Lyman, A. E. Lyman and H. Merritt. A short time was then occupied in answering promiscuous questions which had been prepared by Prof. Sanders. 1st regular exercise, Practical Arithmetic, conducted by Prof. Cooper. He said that pupils were generally too anxious to get through the book. This was wrong. Pupils were prepared to go on when they thoroughly understood the subject they were studying—not before. Drill in Multiplication, and explanation of subtraction with concrete numbers—criticism by the class. An intermission was then had, followed by singing.

2d. exercise, Phonetics. Prof. Sanders said that in Phonetics as in music, flat goes with flats, and sharp with sharps: e. g. subvowels are flats, aspirates are sharps and when an aspirate follows a subvowel it will be changed to its subvowel cognate, in bags the sharp s after flat g becomes flat z. He then illustrated the difference between the name and the power of the letters to which he attributes the difficulty of teaching children to spell. Adjourned until 2 P. M.

AFTERNOON SESSION. Nov 16

1st exercise. Grammar, conducted by Supt. Lewis. Mr. Lewis said he was not understood yesterday; he would devote a short time to explanation. He then took up the pronoun, and gave his reasons for calling the relative a conjunctive; also for calling the adjective pronoun a pronominal adjective. He then explained the objective case as the subject of the infinitive verb. Moved that we have a session to-morrow. Motion lost.

2d. exercise, Geography. The question, why does the sun shine into the north window in summer? was then called up. Mr. Lewis gave an explanation, followed by Prof. Sanders, both ascribed it to the rotundity of the Earth. Prof. Cooper then gave an explanation, assigning as the cause, the rotundity of the Earth and the inclination of the Earth's axis to the plane of the ecliptic. How many complete revolutions does the Earth make in a leap year? Class could not answer. Prof. Cooper showed by the Tullianus that there were 357. How long does it take the sun to revolve on its axis? Ans. 25 days 8 hours 9 minutes. What makes the Earth revolve around the sun? The force of inertia and centrifugal force.

Prof. Cooper then spoke of Geological formations, and exhibited specimens of the different rocks. Below the surface about 60 feet there is a uniform temperature, and descending from this point 54 feet gives one degree of heat of the common thermometer. From this fact we suppose the interior of the Earth to be a molten mass. The proofs of this are: 1st. volcanoes all over the surface of the Earth. 2d. Warm springs and wells. 3d. Tropical vegetation in Polar regions.

He would now speak of the oceans. The Antarctic is joined to the Pacific, Atlantic and Indian. They are all pointed at the northern extremity. The Atlantic is a valley, the Indian is a triangle, and the Pacific an oval. Recess.

3d. exercise, Education. Prof. Cooper conducting the exercise. The members of the Institute were called one by one to the stand, and each read a short extract, and the elocution was criticised by the class. Adjourned to 6 1/2 o'clock.

EVENING SESSION. Nov 16

Mr. Davidson elected to fill the chair. Discussion of the question: How can parents be best interested in the schools? Miss B. M. Lyman read an essay on the subject. The discussion was then continued by Messrs. Lyman, Clark, Johnson, Leet, and Styles and Miss Nelson, Clark, Hackett and Fox. Recess.

Singing by the Choir. Prof. Sanders then delivered a lecture on Education. He said it was a great word, one of very comprehensive import. Children are soon to fill all the responsible posts in the world. The teachers' vocation is an important one. Teachers should treat their pupils well, for they may become nature's noblemen. He instanced Sherman, Henry, Robert, Hall. Teachers should encourage their pupils to be somebody, and they will become so, and vice versa. They should love their employment, for unless they do, they will not succeed. Pupils will imitate their teachers in their examples. Teachers who love not their employment will not benefit themselves nor their patrons.

Government was the next subject to which he would call attention. The teacher should govern himself as well as his school. Begin right, for the school will take its character from the first three weeks. Vocal music is important in good government and for moral influence. If teachers cannot sing they should learn. Children will sing when happy, as they sigh when unhappy. "Let me make the songs of a nation, and I care not who makes its laws." This is forming our national character more than we think for. Let pupils sing when they are discouraged. Punctuality is very important, but the teacher must set the example. Thoroughness is necessary. Dig deep and lay the foundation sure. The mind is immortal and should be carefully trained. New fashioned modes of past teaching will be failures. There is no royal road, nor railroad to learning. Genius is application. The powers of the mind, are of little worth unless they are cultivated. Everything must be cultivated. Nature is a great instructor,—the best is inseparable to the beauty of the flower it feeds upon,—the rainbow knows not its own radiance,—the sun is ignorant of its splendor,—but man, the crowning glory of creation, perceives all these beauties, and receives instruction. Education is the distinguishing feature of civilized life. It cultivates the field, and controls the work shop. Let teachers do their duty till the great Teacher shall say, "Well done thou good and faithful servant, enter into the joy of the Lord." He would call teachers to no warlike fields, but to far greater honors. Ancient grandeur may crumble into dust, but the monuments which the teacher shall raise, shall stand till the angel shall set his seal upon the works of men, and proclaim the end of time.

Prof. Sanders then read a short extract of Poetry in his usual felicitous style. MONDAY, NOV. 19. Devotional exercises. Hymn by the choir. Reading Scripture, and prayer by Prof. Sanders. Critics report was then read by Miss H. M. Jones; Mr. Smith being absent on account of ill health. Secretary being absent Mr. Lewis read an abstract of Friday's proceedings. After some slight amendments it was adopted. Mr. J. W. Crosby and Miss Mary Corey were appointed critics. Mr. D. L. Brown and Miss L. A. Kilbourne were elected Secretaries. 1st. Exercise Prof. Sanders explained euphonic changes in subvowels and aspirates e, y, e d often an aspirate will become t. After t or d it will be fully sounded. Adjectives ending in d are sometimes fully sounded.

2d. Exercise in Arithmetic. Mr. Gilliland mentioned the different kinds of Arithmetics and defined the scale. Contractions in multiplication explained. Examples in mental computation. Recess and singing. 3d. Exercise in Analysis, conducted by Prof. Sanders. He showed that a knowledge of prefixes and suffixes was very necessary in learning the meaning of words. Adj. to 12 o'clock P. M.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON SESSION. Nov 17

Prof. Lewis takes Grammar into consideration. Commences by giving the Teachers a short lecture on the propriety of making no unnecessary noise themselves in the school room. Explained a proposition, said there were as many propositions as there are personal verbs in a sentence. Told how many kinds of speech in the English Language, and closed by saying that a teacher should decide what text books his pupils should use. 2nd. Exercise, Prof. Cooper considered for a short time the relation of Geography and Astronomy. He then argued the importance of map drawing in our common schools. Said that pupils should commence it very early, also said that pupils when drawing should always face the north. The following questions were then asked. Which way does the sun turn? Ans. from West to East. How much would a man weigh on the sun if he would weigh 100 lbs on the earth? Ans. 27 times as much. What is life? Ans. a mutual interchange of relations. He then proceeded to speak of the different slopes of the land and aridation, which are of three kinds, 1st. Land lock seas; 2nd. Island seas; 3d. Gulfs. Next spoke of the two kinds of Inlands, Continental and Pelagic. The first or large islands resembling a continent, the second small, generally round and of volcanic and Coraline formations. Recess. 3d. Exercise in Elocution, conducted by Prof. Sanders. Adj. to 6 1/2.

[We are obliged to publish small portions of the report in each number of our paper in consequence of the pressure of advertisements.—Editor.]

The Potter Journal.

COUDERSPORT, PA., Thursday Morning, Nov. 29, 1860. T. S. CHASE, EDITOR AND PUBLISHER.

The money crisis which has caused the city banks to suspend specie payments will not last two weeks. They adopted the measure of suspension to prevent a general suspension in business two months hence, and have acted very wisely in the matter. As a consequence they do more discounting now than ever, and money is much plentier than it has been before.

The Secession movements at the South are still absorbing the attention of the political world, though the excitement is quietly subsiding. South Carolina has concluded to await the action of a convention which is to meet some time next month, while the Georgians are subsiding under the genial influence of A. H. Stephens' noble Union speech in reply to the fire-brand of Toombs.

The President will no doubt take an anti-secession position in his message to Congress, which meets next Monday; though it is not expected that he will take any very decided steps to suppress the active operations of the seceders. There are rumors that Cobb and Thompson will be granted leave to retire from the Cabinet, in consequence of their open avowal of secession sentiments. They would be solicited by the President to retire, and kicked out if they don't resign.

United States Senator. We observe the Republican Presses of the Northern tier are nearly unanimous in recommending the election of Hon. David Wilmot to the U. S. Senate. The following papers which have come under our notice urge his election: Shirleysburg (Huntington Co.) Herald, Union Co., Press, Columbia Co., Republican, Bradford Reporter, Honesdale Democrat, Williamsport Press, Jersey Shore Vedette, Montrose Republican, and Tioga Agitator. West of this we have seen no expression, except that the Erie papers are out for Hon. Jao. H. Walker, of that place.

With the Northern Press thus united and unanimous in his favor, we think Mr. Wilmot's chances are good. No other candidate in the field has thus far been able to muster so many friends, while no other has as strong claims upon the distinction of an election. Locality, talent, party fealty, experience in public affairs, statesmanship, national popularity—all these are justly claimed for Mr. Wilmot by his friends, and now is the time that they should have due weight in making a selection for so important a post. Above all other considerations, Mr. Wilmot has the backbone necessary to maintain the proud position of Pennsylvania in the national council, and the energy to advocate her principles and interests with a due sense of their importance. Let us have Wilmot in the United States Senate and Pennsylvania's honor and integrity will soon recover from the blight of Buchanan, Bigler and Black.

A Free Pulpit.

FRIEND CHASE—I have just read some good remarks in the last JOURNAL, over the signature J. S. M. respecting a "free pulpit". The idea so exactly agrees with my own, that I wish to respond—A free pulpit, and a free people, are synonymous. Where there is one there is always the other; and when the pulpit is trammelled, the hearts of the people are trammelled also, and padlocked. The minister is the exponent or organ of those to whom he preaches. Perhaps few consider the mighty influence that goes out from the pulpit. There is nothing in Heaven, there is nothing on earth to compare with it. It has revolutionized nations, stopped polygamy, and will (I hope) put a stop to divorces. "The hearts of the children of men are in the hands of the Lord, and he turneth them as the rivers of water are turned." The true spirit of the gospel and republicanism emanate from the pulpit, our souls ignite, we obey the heavenly mandate, we rush to the pulk and with our simple but powerful voices, we crush, or change "the powers that be." What Garibaldi and Victor Emmanuel are doing in Italy with their bayonets, we have done with our votes. And who has been foremost in this bloodless fight? Who has formed the van? The answer has already been freely given, "the farmers have brought round this great change"; permit me to demur—it is the pulpit. The thunderings of Dr. Cheever, and the responses of H. W. Beecher, with thousands more have done a greater work in putting a stop to "baby's stealing," and will to "rummeling, and the use of tobacco," than spade or hoe. The pulpit is always the pioneer in stemming the torrent of vice. The occupant goes forth with his "theme divine" and he bears not the sword in vain. And like Rev. Mr. Pierpont, he is persecuted, and expects it. But scourges, (for some thirty years ago Dr. Cheever was severely flogged by one Ham, for attacking Deacon Giles' distillery imprisonment, nor the fulminating breath of the South, can't stop them. The faithful Paul could tell of stripes and stones, and what can't the faithful preacher tell of now. Sometimes a member of his church withdraws, sometimes a man who chances to hear him speak against the sin of holding property in man says: "I will never go to hear him again, I will go no more to his church, for he has made it a political shop; I will withdraw my support—I won't stand it, I can't bear to hear my good friends at the South, my good nigger-drivers, so vilified; if he would mind his own business, and preach the gospel, and let politics alone, I would pay my $25 a year, but as it is I shall not pay him one cent." Now it is said somewhere in the good book, that the heart of a wicked man is like a cage of unclean birds; but I should think that in the heart of such a man, was something worse than unclean birds.—Most likely those unclean frogs spoken of by the Revelator have a lodgment there.

Sweden, Nov., 10th.

We are at last in possession of the official vote of this State, and will give a table of the vote by counties as soon as our columns get a little relief from the legal pressure. For the present we only offer the following figures:

For Lincoln,	270,067
" Fusion,	176,435
" Douglas,	17,350
" Bell,	12,754
Total vote cast,	476,606
Lincoln over Fusion,	93,632
" " Douglas,	252,717
" " Bell,	257,313
" " all opposition,	63,528
Lincoln had 7,685 more votes in November than Curtin had in October.

Pennsylvania is the Banner State of Freedom, both in majority and plurality. Virginia goes for Bell by 306 majority with Webster, a new county to hear from. Kentucky and Tennessee are likewise for Bell.
