Now here, now there, the shot is hailed In deadly drifts of fiery spray, Yet not a single soldier qualled When wounded comrades round them wailed Their dving shouts at Monterey.

And or still on our column bont Through walls of flame its withering was Where fell the dead, the living step ti Still charging on the guns which swept The slippery streets at Monterey.

The foe himself recoiled aghast, When, striking where he strongest lay, We swooped its flaming batteries past, And braving full their murderous blast. Stormed home the towers of Monterey.

And there the evening bugles play; Where orange boughs above their grave Keep green the memory of the lirave Who fought and fell at Monterey. We are not many-we who pressed Beside the brave who fell that day; Big who of us has not confessed He'd rather share their warrior rest,
