MY FATHER.

The following beautiful lines were written Brigadier-General Henry R. Jackson, of the rebel army, who has been recently operating on the Upper Potomac :]

As die the embers on the hearth. And o'er the floor the shadows fall, And creeps the chirping cricket forth, And ticks the death watch in the wall. I see a form in yonder chair.

That grows beneath the waning light; There are the wan, sad features-there The pallid brow, and locks of white.

My father! when they laid thee down And heaped the clay upon thy breast, And left thee sleeping all alone Upon thy narrow couch of rest

I know not why I could not weep-The southing drops refused to roll, And oh! that grief is wild and deep.
Which settles tearless on the soul.

But when I saw thy vacant chair, Thine idle hat upon the wall: The book-the penciled passage where The tree beneath whose friendly shade Thy trembling feet had wandered forth The very prints those feet had made,

When last they feebly trod the earth, And thought while countless ages fled, The vacant seat would vace at stand-Unworn the hat-tay book unread-Efficed thy footsteps from the sand-And widowed in this cheerless world The heart that gave its love to theeforn like the vine whose tendrils curled

More closely round the falling tree.

Oh, father! hen for her and thee Gushed madly forth the scorching tears And oft, and long, and bitterly, Those tears have gushed in later years; For as the world grows cold around, And ti ings assume their own real hue, The sad to find that love is found Alone above the stars with you.
