Notice of Army.
The Temperance Address, delivered by Rev. Roberts last evening, was largely attended.
Court commenced on Monday, we will give the proceedings next week.— Nothing of interest having transpired.
The bill to admit Western Virginia as a Free State, passed the House 96 to 55.
Jeff. Davis' oppressions are becoming intolerable. The frogs, toads and tadpoles of the Rebellion will soon be croaking to heaven for help from the devooring stork.
Robert G. Harper the accomplished and veteran editor of the Adams Sentinel, has been editor and publisher of that paper since Nov. 1816—a period of forty-six years. Previous to that time, it was issued by his father, from its commencement, in Nov. 1800, at Gettysburg, Adams Co., Pa.

Gen. Hooker is said to have remarked recently: "I do not love to fight battles —I had rather be with my cattle on my farm—but I do want to see one mighty overwhelming blow given to this rebellion right upon its head, at Richmond, before Christmas."

Eighty of the besotted Democratic anti-draft rioters in Ozaukee Co., Wis., have been promptly arrested, and will be so punished as to stop mob law for one generation at least. The ignorant scoundrels destroyed the furniture and stole all the valuables of six Republican's houses, and would have killed their families had they not fled.

Robert Dale Owen, the ablest Democrat in the West, has written a letter strongly advocating the abolition of slavery. He considers the destruction of slavery essential to peace and to a permanent restoration of the Union. The fact is, the ablest Democrats of the North are fast becoming Abolitionists.

There are $200,000,000 of specie in the Union. That would be an average of $10 each to every person in the North.
Half of that sum is idle in the Banks, and the other half is hid away on account of the issue of legal small notes and illegal shiplasters. Banish the latter, and have a little confidence, and specie will soon flow as before.

As the winter approaches our readers will be making their arrangements for their periodicals for the coming year. As usual we are prepared to furnish all the leading magazines to subscribers of the JOURNAL at reduced rates, to be paid strictly in advance. Read the following offers:

WHERE THERE IS A WILL THERE IS A WAY.—So thought Mr. DeLand when he set himself about the work of producing an article of Saleratus free from all impure and deleterious substances, which could be sold as cheap as any other, and makes lighter and better bread. The article produced was the celebrated Chemical Saleratus. Sold at retail by respectable grocers everywhere. We advise all good housewives who desire to make light biscuits to call for DeLand's Chemical Saleratus, and use no other.

Had as the conduct of the Rebels has been from the first, we are somewhat astonished to learn, as we do from official sources, that whenever they parole prisoners now, they not only require them not to bear arms against the Southern Confederacy, but demand as a condition of their release, that they shall take no part in fighting the Indians.—Louisville Journal.

A Letter from the Army.
Brooks' Station, Va., 1862.
DEAR MAM: This being one of those wet, cold, disagreeable days which a soldier only knows how to appreciate, to kill time and let my friends in Potter know that I am still in the land of the living, I take my pen, get a book, seat myself in front of my fire with my feet on the bed, the book on my lap, inkstand on a chair to the right, coat off and commence.
You will ask, where is Brooks' Station?
It is on the Railroad running from the mouth of Aquia Creek to Falmouth, Stafford County, Va. This Railroad is of as much importance at the present time as any in the United States, as nearly the whole of the Grand Army of the Potomac are supplied by it. The Army is encamped along the whole length of it on both sides, a distance of about twenty miles. This is done to keep Stuart from making a raid on us. Then the landing on the Potomac is guarded by several Gun-boats. Talk about our Grand Army being whipped! All we need now is a line of fortifications about thirty miles long, which we shall doubtless have if Jackson sends out a reconnoitering party of one Brigade of Infantry a Regiment of Cavalry and two or three pieces of Artillery.
Still I guess it is "all right," as the Boys say, we are not paid for knowing these things. The Regiment which I have the honor of belonging to is the First Pennsylvania Cavalry, Bayard's Brigade, and if I should use the language of an officer in the Bucktail Regiment, I would say there are only two Regiments of Cavalry in the service and those are the First Pennsylvania and First New Jersey. I think he is right, from the amount of duty we have performed, for we could never find any Regiment to relieve us, unless it was after the Battle of Manassas. The last of July we were sent down to the Rapidan to do picket duty, fifteen miles from support of any kind. After staying there six days skirmishing with the enemy all the time and having several severe little brushes, but nothing worthy of mention in a paper for there was no Generals in them, nothing but privates and their Company Officers, and such battles you are aware don't amount to much down here, still the hearts that beat for us at home think we are of just as much account as those in the field who wear two or three stars on their shoulders, we were driven back from the Rapidan by Jackson's whole Army crossing. We formed our rear guard, and our two Regiments commenced going back fighting over all the ground and only going as we were driven.
You perhaps saw it stated in the papers of that date that General Bayard managed the thing admirably. So he did, and we think he is one of the best Cavalry officers in the field, still, like all others, fame with him is of more value than men's lives. When we got to Cedar Mountain we met Gen. Banks with his men. Here we stopped and put up for the night lying on our arms with the bridle trough over our arm thus holding our chargers, which by the way were somewhat fagged out. The next day we had the fight, in which the First Pennsylvania Cavalry made a charge, going through the lines of the enemy and scattering them like chaff. There our Potter county boys showed their bringing up—that they were not raised among the Alleghany Mountains to be scared by Gray Backs.
"Little Potter" was well represented that day. The gallant 64th made two charges which were as gallant as any of the war.
For six weeks we were on duty every day but two; passing through the battle of Cedar Mountain, Thoroughfare Gap, Gainesville, Bull Run and Manassas.— Then we got back to Bailey's Cross Roads where we were relieved, for the enemy had got so far off there was no danger, and anything would do then.

Since our Regiment has been in the service, sixteen months, we have done picket duty in all kinds of places and never had but four men surprised, while nearly every other Regiment in the service have had from fifty to half of their Regiments surprised and taken prisoners.
We have had more men taken prisoners but it was in battle. We consider it something of a disgrace to be surprised while on picket. Captain Jones is at Falmouth, I hear, still we don't know.
You at home know more of us than we know of ourselves. The war might end and Peace be declared and we not know anything of it.

While at the Cross Roads I had the pleasure of a visit from my sister, and Mack, if you know anything about how glad one is to see friends from home, you can imagine my delight. I visited Washington with her, saw the new Bucktail Brigade, and my old school-fellows from Potter. Imagine the pleasure it afforded me, after being out in the field in active service for nearly a year, to once more take dear friends by the hand. Some of the boys were sick and in hospital, but my time was so limited I could not visit them, my sister, though, has been through the hospitals and seen nearly all the boys who are sick, and would be happy to inform their friends how they are getting along, and all about them.

Yours truly,
M. L. FRENCH.

Albert Aschenbach, of Williamsport a conductor on the Willow express freight line, had his left leg cut off between the ankle and knee, on Monday, by an accident, near Montgomery station.— An axle broke and threw three cars off the track. Mr. Aschenbach on feeling the first disturbance of the train, stepped out on the platform, and seeing that the cars were leaving the track jumped off, when the end of another car rear end the platform and took off his leg.—Gazette.

Tumbling Down Again.
The Philadelphia Ledger says Petroleum oil, which rose so rapidly from twenty-five cents a gallon to a dollar and ten cents, has taken the back track again, and is down, as reported, to sixty cents.
The rise was mostly speculative, and somebody will make or lose fortunes by the sudden fluctuations. And so of many of the gambling operations, in what are called the necessities of life—they are not called for by the tariffs, taxes, or the war, but are simply impositions. If people would quit buying articles at extravagant rates, they would soon become reasonable, and those seeking undue advantages would suffer the losses.

FIRE—Between four and five o'clock on Saturday morning a fire broke out in the soap and candle manufactory of A. M.
Taylor & Co., Williamsport, which consumed the building and its entire contents, including the books and papers of the firm. The safe in which they had their books and papers proved to be worth about as much as a medium quality store-goods box. A dwelling house belonging to the firm was also burned. The total loss of Messrs. Taylor & Co. is estimated at from $7,000 to $8,000, on which there was an insurance of $2,500.

Ulysses Academy—Closing Exercises.
At an early hour on last Wednesday afternoon, the Chapel of the Academy was well filled with a good number of the friends and patrons of the Institution assembled to witness the closing exercises of the Fall Term.
The exercises of the afternoon being opened by prayer, we were favored with the following programme:

Every man the Architect of his own Fortune, by Mr. B. M. Drake, which was delivered in a clear and pleasant manner, and formed an introduction to the exercises.
Seminole's Reply, by Mr. J. S. Hall.
Essay, The Forest, by Mrs. D. I. Kilbourne.
Restless Spirit, by Miss R. Hackett.
When our Ship comes in, by Miss A. M. Lyman.
This was spoken in a pleasing manner and the effect was heightened very much by the youthful appearance of the speaker.
Essay, A Time for Everything, by Miss E.
Wilber.
Our Republic, by Mr. J. O. Potter.
Liberty and Union, One and Inseparable, by Mr. C. R. Darling.

Both of the above gentlemen acquitted themselves with credit.
Music, "Song of Freedom, Wake to Glory!"
The Old Arm Chair, by Mr. S. F. Bowen.
Essay, Raising Grain, by Miss S. M. Burtis.
This was one of the most natural and practical of the essays read.
Mountain Pictures, by Miss M. C. Lyon.—Was well spoken.
Essay, Country Life, by Miss E. J. Kimball.
What is Patriotism? by Mr. H. C. Olmsted.
Essay, Gentle Words, by Miss V. Darling, was finely presented.

The Return, by Miss L. E. Wilber, was well spoken.
America, by Mr. J. C. Horton.
Music, "Pull all together."
Essay, Early Impressions, by Miss M. E. Trask.
This was one of unusual merit and bespoke a mind of much culture and thought.
Essay, Happiness, by Miss J. M. Cadey.
Essay, The Falling Leaf, by Miss J. A. James.
Essay, Cheerfulness, by Miss S. E. Stillman.
The Crisis we have reached, by Mr. G. W.
Bennett.

This Earth is not the Spirit's Home, by Miss E. Parish. Was well delivered.
Music, "Christian Pilgrims." Essay, An Idea, by Miss H. J. Gridley.
Essay, A Ride in Winter, by Miss J. O. Hawley.
Essay, A Ride in Summer, by Miss E. R. Watrous.
Essay, Absent Friends, by Miss H. A. Torrey.
Essay, Past, Present and Future, by Miss M.
N. Cushing. Both of the last two essays were worthy of honorable mention.
The Departure of Youth, by Miss C. J. Merrick, was one of the best delivered pieces.
Music, "Primo Diao."
God by Mr. A. W. Blakeslee. The speaker evinced much of the spirit and manner of the true orator.
Essay, Close of School, by Miss A. Clark.
Parting, by Mr. F. D. Leet, was an original oration, brief, but finely written and abounding with many noble and appropriate thoughts.
Essay, Farewell, by Miss C. A. Burtis.
Essay, Shall we meet again? by Miss S. E. Marsh.
Essay, Going Home, by Miss C. S. Reynolds.
The last four essays were not only suited to the occasion but were well written.
Music, "Violette."

The exercises as a whole were the best that we have witnessed at the above Institution, and the delivery of many of the pieces and the literary merit of some of the essays would have done honor to a far older Institution, and we assure those that were not present at the above exercises that they missed such an entertainment as not only excites a renewed interest in the cause of education; but awakens the intellectual man to a more vigorous life.
The Winter Term of the Ulysses Academy commences on Wednesday, the 10th inst.
The Board of Instruction remains the same as the previous term, viz: Professor E. R. Campbell, Principal; Mrs. N. I. Gridley, Preceptress; Miss A. E. Campbell, Assistant and Professor Marsh Instructor in Vocal and Instrumental Music.

Nos. 9, 11, 13, 15, 17 COURTLAND STREET, Near Broadway, New York City.
This old-established and favorite resort of the Business community has been recently refitted, and is complete in everything that can minister to the comfort of its patrons. Ladies and Families are especially and carefully provided for.
It is centrally located in the business part of the city, and is contiguous to the principal lines of steamboats, cars, omnibuses, ferries.
In consequence of the pressure caused by the Rebellion, prices have been reduced to ONE DOLLAR AND FIFTY CENTS PER DAY.
The table is amply supplied with all the luxuries of the season, and is equal to that of any other hotel in the country.
Ample accommodations are offered for upward of 400 guests.
Do not believe runners, hackmen, and others who may say "the Western Hotel is full."
D. D. WINCHESTER, Proprietor.
