

Local and General.

The Coudersport Mail will hereafter leave Wellsville at 10 o'clock, instead of 8. This will ensure us a mail regularly.

The young man, Lieut. E. N. Ford, who was wounded some weeks ago in Fulton county, by the deserter Forney, has since died. His murderer has been confined in Harrisburg jail, where he awaits his trial. His trial will bring to light some of the workings of the Knights of the Golden Circle.

There is great activity among the Union people of the North in forming Union League Societies. This is a good thing. If the anarchy, which the copperheads are so zealously working to produce does come, it will be well to know who their friends are. Let every Union man join this patriotic and much needed Society.

There will be an Oyster Supper given in the Academy at Lewisville, on next Wednesday evening the 11th inst, for the benefit of Mr. Daniel Fuller who lost his arms in the battle of Antietam. This supper is generously provided for this patriotic sufferer by the citizens, and the total avails will be applied for his benefit. The bill is $1. Let every one go who can, and those who cannot make it convenient to attend send a dollar to some friend who will apply it to this noble soldier's necessities.

AN IMPORTANT DISCOVERY.—A physician in a village in Ohio, writes to the editor of his paper, that he believes much of the Dyspepsia that has prevailed all over the country, is attributable to the use of impure articles called saleratus, in the making of bread; and he adds, that for a year or two past, only DeLand & Co's Chemical Saleratus has been sold at the stores, and the results are apparent in his practice. He advises all who use saleratus for bread or biscuit to be sure and get the Chemical Saleratus, as he is satisfied that it is a pure article. We concur in the opinion of this intelligent physician, and commend his advice to our readers generally.

SALERATUS'S HORN.—This is the title of a new story, just commenced in the Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post, by Mrs. Wood, the celebrated author of "East Lynne," "Verona's Pride," &c. Mrs. Wood has written for the Post for several years past. Marion Harland also is now writing a story for the Post, which paper is generally reputed to be one of the best now published. Its terms are $2 a year, or four copies for $6. Address Deacon & Peterson, 219 Walnut street, Philadelphia: who will send a sample number gratis to any one requesting it.

NEW COUNTY.—A bill has passed the House of Representatives by an almost unanimous vote.—Mr. Trimmer only voting in the negative—providing for the erection of a new County from the northern townships of Luzerne. The Eos, Wm. Bigler, H. S. Mott and James Pollock, are named in the act as Commissioners to run the lines, and locate the County Seat. Besides the usual sections providing for the holding of Courts, &c., the bill requires that an election shall be held on the third Tuesday of July next for the special purpose of submitting the measure directly to the people. The proposed name for the new county is Lackawanna.

"Omnibus que prosunt sequitur," or "free labor for the good of all," is the inscription on one of the bells given by Dr. J.C. Ayer & Co. to the city of Lowell. That favored place may have the bells, but they cannot monopolize the Doctor's skill which is made available by his Cherry Pectoral and Catarrhic Pills to all alike—not only in this country but in all countries where civilization and commerce have gone, while we admire the liberality and taste of those gentlemen in such a donation to their native town, we will remind our readers of the following influence a chime of bells spreads over the whole community that hears them. They are few in this country, and their influence is little known, but ask the exile from his home in Germany, France, England, whether the chime on Trinity Church does not make his heart leap into his mouth, and his eyes swim in the recollection of his home, and his childhood, his betrothed, and his manhood loved to bring of the soft approach of evening in his native land.

We wish our generous townsmen whom God has blessed with means would consider whether we too cannot add this one more attraction to make our children and ourselves love dearer and stronger and longer the place we call our home.—Madison, Ind. Danver.

From a report submitted by Gov. Curtin to the Legislature, on the 18th of February, we find the following facts in reference to the draft in this State: There were seventeen regiments drafted—the expense is estimated to be three hundred thousand dollars, which has not yet been paid.—Capt. Lane has been appointed to arrest deserters and bring them back into the service, and Recruiting officers throughout the country are made instruments for this end—seven counties were in excess before the draft: Blair, 142; Centre, 352; Clinton, 13; Forest, 21; Jefferson, 24; Potter, 36; Sullivan, 30. Our reference to this message of the Governor at the present time is for the purpose of showing the patriotic and liberty-loving people of the county that the draft with us was an unjust and unnecessary proceeding, that we were in excess at the time—as was believed by every one, except the Commissioner and a few others who desired Republican Potter to be disgraced by a draft—and that a little less haste and more moderation, a more generous consideration of the people's rights and a more earnest desire for the public good, would have averted this call upon our citizens, who had labored so industriously and so self-sacrificingly for the good of the country. But partisan spirit is as venomous as the sting of the serpent. There were 72 men drafted; this 72 added to our excess, 36, makes 108 in excess for Potter county. That is the situation our noble little county sustains with the Government. For the population, we think no other county can show so honorable a record. Almost entirely Agricultural, with very little of the "surface population" common to most other counties, every man sent has been a serious loss to us. In a subsequent draft or conscription, if it be found necessary to order one, our excess, of course, will apply upon it.

The Pound Law is in force!

That much persecuted race—the old bachelor—is ably defended in the following spicy excerpt. We could, if we chose, commend it to some whose case it would suit exactly:

"Bachelors are styled by married men who have put their foot into it as only half-perfected beings, cheerless vagabonds, but half a pair of scissors, and many other titles are given them; while, on the other hand, they extol their state as one of perfect bliss, that a change from earth to heaven would be somewhat of doubtful bliss. If they were so happy, why don't they enjoy their happiness and hold their tongues about it? What do half the men get married for? Simply that they may have some one to darn their stockings, sew buttons on their shirts, and trot their babies; that they may have somebody, as a married man once said, 'to pull off their boots when they are a little balmy.' These fellows are always talking of the loneliness of bachelors. Loneliness, indeed! Who is pelted to death by ladies who have daughters? invited to tea and to evening parties, and told to drop in just when it is convenient? The bachelor. Who lies in clover all his days, and when he dies has flowers strowed on his grave by the girls who couldn't entrap him? The bachelor. Who strews flowers on the married man's grave? His widow? Not a bit of it; she pulls down the tombstone that a six weeks' grief has set up in her heart, and goes and gets married again time hangs heavily on his hands? The married man. Who has wood to split, house-hunting and marketing to do, the young ones to wash, and the lazy servants, to look after? The married man. Who is taken up for whipping his wife? The married man. Who gets divorced? The married man. Finally, who has got the Scriptures on his side? The bachelor. St. Paul knew what he was talking about—'He that marries does well; but he that marries not does better.'"

We clip the following advertisement from an Eastern paper:

"I have lived solitary long enough. I want somebody to talk to, quarrel with—then kiss and make up. Therefore I am open to proposals, from young ladies and young widows of more than ordinary respectability, tolerably tame disposition and hair of any color but red. As near as I can judge of myself I am not over eighty or under twenty-five years of age. In height, am five feet eight, or eight feet five, sure. Weight, 135, 313, 513, one of the three; recollect each figure perfectly well, but as to their true arrangement, am somewhat puzzled. Have a whole suit of hair, dyed by nature and free from dandruff. Eyes butternut-brindle, tinged pea-green. Nose blunt, according to the Ionic style of architecture, with a touch of the composite; month between a catfish's and an alligator's—made especially for oratory and the reception of large oysters. Ears long, and elegantly shaped. My whiskers are a combination of dog hair, moss and briar-bush—well behaved, and fearfully luxuriant. I am sound in limb and on the nigger question, wear boots No. 6, when corns are not troublesome, and can write poetry by the mile, with double rhyme on both edges—to read backward, forward, diagonally or crosswise. Am a domestic animal, and very docile when towels are clean and shirt buttons are all right. I say my prayers every night, (mosquitoes permitting,) and as to whether I snore in my sleep, I want some one to tell me. Money is no object, as I was never troubled with any, nor never expect to be."

LOCAL NEWS.—Making up a column or two of local news is just the easiest thing imaginable, with just one unimportant exception. The startling items are narrated, remarkable adventures related with great celerity—all this is the easiest possible task with just one drawback. When the things do not transpire, it is rather difficult filling up the columns every week. Unless you can induce men and women to greater activity and energy in adventure and wonderment, the writing of local news is somewhat dry business.—Ez.
