UNION STATE TICKET.

FOR GOVERNOR, ANDREW G. CURTIN, Of Bellefonte. FOR JUDGE OF SUPREME COURT, DANIEL AGNEW, Of Beaver County.

John S. Mann, esq., is on the Union State Central Committee from this County.

A. M. Benton, of McKean, has been nominated for the Legislature.—Another Copperhead!

Remember that the Hospital Aid Society meets every Thursday afternoon, in the basement of the M. E. Church.

Let our friends prepare to attend the Convention. It is expected to have able speakers present on the occasion.

Let it be generally known among the Drafted men that no examinations for this county will be held until the 10th of October.

Our columns are crowded very much with advertisements. But as the advertisements are of interest to all, we hope our readers will excuse the small amount of reading matter.

We have, at last, a "Photograph Gallery" in town. We advise all in want of "Pictures" to give him an early call. Those who have had Photographs taken by him appear well pleased.

We publish the Call for a Convention, this week. No loyal man will find fault with it or the Platform of Pittsburg. All hailing under its banner must be unqualified Union-war men.

Owing to the unfavorable weather nothing was done towards cleaning up the Cemetery on last Saturday. Saturday of this week is again appointed. It is a matter that should be attended to. Refreshments will be provided by the ladies.

A report is being circulated by some of the Copperhead papers that there has been or soon will be another draft ordered. No such thing is thought of at present. It is simply a copperhead lie, intended to excite the people.

Read the article headed "Economy of the State Administration" published on our first page. It is a calm refutation of the many lies copperheads are circulating for the purpose of injuring the character of our noble Governor.

Democratic Police! Cry down a man who attempts to bribe, but promote the men who were bribed. Thomas Jefferson Boyer, of Clearfield, has been nominated by the copperheads for the Legislature. Our readers will remember that he is the same man who says he was to receive $5000 from Cameron in case he should vote for him for U S Senator, but becoming alarmed for the safety of his life, he had not the immoral courage to perform his part of the bargain and thereby pocket the envied $5000.

Another man, John B Beck, of LeCombing, has also been nominated. Every person who knows anything of his career knows that he never votes for any measure without first knowing whether there is "anything in it." Such is the character of the men who have been promoted by copperheads. To say that they are disloyal is not saying one half as much as should be said.

NOTICE is hereby given that Lectures will be delivered at the following places at the times appointed, viz:

Table with 3 columns: Name, Location, Time. Includes Homer, School House No. 1; Routlet, in village; Sharon Centre, in village; Oswayo, in village; Bingham Centre, in village; Lewisville, in village; Harrison Valley, in village; Germania, 30; Coudersport, Oct 15; Hebron, near Hrdorn's.

These Lectures are designed to recommend Object Teaching, and the use of school apparatus; and will be illustrated by Geometrical Forms, Globes and the Tullurian.

Teachers desirous of being inspected prior to the regular time of examination, viz: during the last week of November, will please be at the places specified at 3 o'clock P. M., preceding the evening Lecture. I also give notice that an Institute will be held at Coudersport, to commence October 26th, to continue one week, under the supervision of Samuel P Bates, Deputy Superintendent Common Schools of Pennsylvania. Other distinguished men from abroad are expected to be present.

RUFUST. CLAFLIN, Co. Sup. Coudersport, Pa., Sept 1, 1863.

The Democrats of Iowa met to nominate a Governor, and, not daring either to take up a War Democrat or a Copperhead, they tried the Polk game, and nominated a new "uncommitted" man, an old Fisher. But he "don't bite"—he declines, and they are without a candidate which is just as well, as the Soldiers vote in Iowa.

CHARLESTON.

We continue to receive the most favorable accounts of the success of Gen. Gillmore's operations near Charleston. His dispatch to the General-in-Chief, is as satisfactory in reference to Sumter as it is modest. That fort is a "shapeless mass of ruins," and "no longer of any avail in the defenses of Charleston."

The credit of this success belongs to Gen. Gillmore. It is his batteries and his alone, which have destroyed Fort Sumter. The plan was his, and the execution. The Navy has given some moral support, and has occasionally delivered its fire against Fort Wagner, but its actual contribution to the reduction of Sumter is inconsiderable.

It is a fit moment also to remember that the appointment of Gen. Gillmore is the President's appointment. The plan which Gen. Gillmore had conceived for the attack was presented to the President, and, in consequence of his belief in its practicability, its author was sent down to put it in execution. The decision was another illustration of the sagacity and clear common sense of President Lincoln.

Let it be recorded also—there are not many such instances to record—that Gen. Gillmore before his departure was offered a Major Generalship, and declined it. He proposed to earn the double stars before he wore them. It is not too soon to say they are won. But the result of the future what it may, the miracles of engineering ability to which the last week has borne fruit, are evidence enough that the task of taking Charleston lies in the hands fittest to complete it. Let the Navy now assume its proper share of the work, and we have a right to expect final and perfect success.—Tribune Aug. 29.

Artemus on the Draft.

Artemus Ward (Mr. Charles F. Browne) has issued the following "Circular."

CIRCULAR No. 78. As the undersigned has been led to fear that the law regulating the Draft was not wholly understood, notwithstanding the numerous explanatory circulars that have been issued from the national capital of late, he hereby issues a circular of his own; and if he shall succeed in making this favorite measure more clear to a discerning public, he will feel that he has not lived in vain.

I. A young man who is drafted and inadvertently goes to Canada, when he becomes embroiled with a robust English party, who knocks him around so as to disable him for life, the same occurring in a licensed bar room on British soil, such young man cannot receive a pension on account of said injuries from the United States Government, nor can his heirs or creditors.

II. No drafted man in going to the appointed rendezvous will be permitted to go round by way of Canada on account of the roads being better that way, or because his "Uncle William" lives there.

III. Any gentleman living in Ireland, who was never in this country, is not liable to the draft, nor are our forefathers. This latter statement is made for the benefit of those enrolling officers who have acted on the supposition that the able-bodied male population of a place included dead gentlemen in the cemeteries.

IV. The term of enlistment is for three years, but any man who may have been drafted in two places has a right to go for six years, whether the war lasts that length of time or not—a right this department hopes he will insist on.

V. The only sons of a poor widow, whose husband is in California, are not exempt, but the man who owns stock in the Vermont Central Railroad &c. So, also, are incessant lunatics, habitual lecturers, persons who were born with wooden legs or false teeth. Blind men (unless they will acknowledge that they "can see it," and people who deliberately voted for John Tyler.— A. W.

The examination of drafted men claiming exemption and men wishing to go as substitutes has been in progress since last Thursday. About seventy-five examinations per day are made. Two squads of drafted men and substitutes have been sent to the army. The examinations are made in the same order of districts as the draft was made. Up to last evening the Internal Revenue Commissioner had received $45,600 from men choosing to pay $300 for exemption. During yesterday the amount of $20,400 was received.—At a public meeting held in the Court House on Monday evening, Clinton Lloyd, Esq. was nominated as an independent candidate for Member of Assembly.—The Republican county convention met in the Court House last evening. The nomination of Clinton Lloyd for Member of Assembly was indorsed.—Lycoming Gazette, Aug. 25

DEBASED U S CURRENCY.—Our people should know that the U. S. currency depreciates in value when pieces are torn from notes, large or small, in proportion to the size of the pieces so torn off. For instance, a ten cent note with half torn off is worth five cents, and so on. This is a matter that will be of interest in a short time, as the notes in circulation are fast wearing out, and so far as we know, there has been no provision made for their exchange for new ones.

In Athens, Ohio, the Democrats could agree on the Vallandigham question, and their paper is therefore discontinued. The editor says he will melt his type before he will support Vallandigham, and would soon shoot them at him as at Jeff. Davis.

The Man the Mob Hunted.

The following tribute to Mr. Garrison is from Rev. O. B. Frothingham's sermon on the Riot, preached in New York City.—N. Y. Exp.] The one man, who, before and above all others, was a mark for the rage of the populace—the one man whose name was loud in the rabble's mouth, and always coupled with a malediction—the one man who would have been torn in pieces had the opportunity been afforded, and on whose account the dwelling of a friend was literally torn in pieces, was a man who had been the steadfast friend of these very people who hungered for his blood; their most constant, uncompromising, and public friend; thinking for them, speaking for them, writing for them, pleading their cause through the press, in the legislature, from the platform; excusing their mistakes and follies, asserting and reasserting their substantial worth and honesty and rectitude, advocating their claims as working people, vindicating their rights as men, proposing schemes for the safety of their persons, the healthfulness of their houses, the safety and increase of their earnings, the education of their children, the exemption of their homesteads from seizure in case of debt, the enlargement of their sphere of labor, the transferring of their families from the crowded city, where they could do little more than keep themselves alive by arduous toil, to the fruitful lands of the West, where they could become noble and self-respecting men and women. This was the man whose blood was hungered for. I need not speak his name—you know who I mean; a man whom some call visionary, but whose visions are all of the redemption of the people; whom some call "fool," but who, if he seem a fool, is foolish that the people may be wise; whom some call radical, but whose radicalism is simply a determination that the popular existence shall have a sound, sure, and deep root in natural law and moral principle; at all events, a man who has lived for the people, and been laughed at when he suffered and wept as he suffered. This was the man whose blood was hungered for. And yet the most moderate, kind considerate of all the papers last week was his paper. And I believe he, even, had he fallen into the hands of his enemies, would have said, "forgive them, for they know not what they do."

At the coming election, says the Harrisburg Telegraph, the question to amend the Constitution, so as to give all who or may be absent from the State engaged as soldiers in the armies of the National Government, the right to vote, will be submitted to the people. It is conceded in all circles, that the proposed amendment extending the right of franchise to such persons, will be carried by an almost unanimous vote. The question arises, then, as to whether any man who votes for that amendment can also vote for George W. Woodward, who is opposed to the right of suffrage being extended to the soldier. Surely no freeman can become guilty of such self-abnegation as first to vote the right of the franchise to the soldier, and then vote for a man who denies that soldier the exercise of such a right. Every man who votes for the amendment of the Constitution, extending the franchise to the soldier, to be conscientious and sincere in his patriotism must also vote for Andrew G. Curtin for Governor, who is emphatically the soldier's guardian and defender.

MISTAKEN FOR A SKECH.—Some time since two of our men were walking along the streets of Nashville. They belonged to a regiment, which had gone through there as an escort to a supply train, and while the wagons were being loaded had gone for a stroll. One of them was dressed in blue uniform and carried his musket; the other held on him a szech coat which he had picked up on the battle ground, and wore long, black hair, and, indeed, looked to a stranger, more like a "szech" than the honest soldier he is;—when, as they passed a fine house, in the door of which was standing a very pretty young lady, she suddenly cried, "O, soldier, soldier, won't you let that man—he is a poor soldier of our army, the Southern army—whom you are guarding, come in? I know he wants something to eat. Isn't he a Texas Ranger?" "Yes," said he with the gun, "we captured him only the other day. Go in old fellow," giving him the wink. The supposed Ranger went in and quickly returned with his arms full of pies, cake, nice bread, a bottle of good liquor, and a lot of good things generally. "Move on," said he to the first gentleman, and so they moved on to the first convenient place, where they sat down and enjoyed a hearty meal, and carefully washed it down with the good liquor.

The fact that the rebellion is weaker now than at any previous time of the war, is, in the argument of intelligent men, reason why the nation should increase its strength. The illogical opponents of the conscription declare that the weakness of the South makes the draft unnecessary. In other words, they wish to equalize the contest as much as possible. They propose to prolong the war indefinitely; the Government, by overwhelming power, proposes to end it at once.

When you hear a Copperhead talking about President Lincoln's unconstitutional acts, just ask him to point out a single instance where a United States court, or any judge authorized to give an opinion, has decided such an act to be unconstitutional.

GOLD EUREKA! "I HAVE FOUND IT!" Was the exclamation of the Astronomer who first discovered that the world moved in its orbit; not less joyous has been the exclamation of those who have found THE PLACE where GOODS can be purchased FIFTEEN or TWENTY PER CENT. below the market price, and yet find them as represented. Few things are to be considered in purchasing Goods—the Quality, and the Price; and purchasers studying both, can be better satisfied with our stock than any other in this or adjoining counties. Think twice before buying "DEAR TRASH." Now is your time to procure a GOOD ARTICLE. "Delays are dangerous and sometimes fatal." Don't wait for another enormous advance in Goods.
