We have been without a pastor Some Fighteen months or more. And though candidates are plenty-We have heard of at least a score; All of 'on "tip'top" preachers. Or so their letters ran, And yet we'can't exactly hit Upon's proper man

The first who came among us. By no means was the worst; But then we didn't think of him Because he was the first ; At being then the custom-To sucrifice a few. Before the Church in earnest Determined what to do.

There was a smart young fellow, With a serious, carnest way, Who but for one great blunder, Had surely won the day ; Who left so good impression, On Monday, one or two Went round among the people To see if he would do.

The pious, godly portion Had not a tault to find ; His clear and searching preaching They thought the very kind ; All went smooth and pleasent Until they heard the views Of some influential sinners, Who'reht the highest pews.

On these his pungent dealing Made but a sorry hit. The cast of gospel teaching Was quite too tight a fit; Of course his fate was sealed Attend. ye parsons all !

And preach to please the sinners, If you would get a call.

Next we despatched committees, By twos and threes to urge, The labors for a Sabbath, Of the Rev. Shallow Splurge.

He come, a marked sensation, So wonderful his style. Followed the creaking of his boots, As he pressed up the aisle.

His tones were so affecting,

Ris gestures so divine. A lody fainted in the hymn, Before the second line.

And on that day he gave us. In accents clear and loud, The greate t prayers e'er addressed To an enlightened crowd.

He preached a double sermon. And gave us angel's food,

On such a lovely topic, "The joy of solitude." All i il of sweet descriptions Of flowers and pearly streams. Of worbling birds and moonlight grove And golde , sunset beams.

Of faith and true repentance, He nothing had to say. He rounded of the corners, And smoothed the rugged way; Minage i with great adroitness To entertain and please, And leave the sinner's conscience

By and by it came on to rain, and the rain begun to come down the chimney. It put the fire out in a minute, and dihad to get the baby off the floor as soon as we could, or it would have been stood kneedeep on the floor. Then I see what was the matter. The drunken cuss had put the chimney wrong end up, and it drawed downwards; it gatl ered all the rain within a hundred yard, and poured is down by the bucketsful." "Well, that was unfortunate," remarked Holton, "But what in the world did you do with the house? Surely, you never cured that chimney ?!

"Didn't L, though ?" answered old Joe. Yes, I did."

"How," asked Holton.

"Turned it the other end up," said the seen it draw. That was the way I cured it too much."

"Drew too much ?" asked Holton. "Well, squire, you may judge for yourself," said old Joe. "Pietty soon after we got the chimney down and the other floor backwards, nothing ou within It bar a on claws to the carpet, yelling awfully. It dollars. wasn't no use. I just seen her going over the top of the chimney, and that was the last of her." "Well, what did you do then ?" asked Holton. "Of course you couldn't live in such a bouse?

"Couldn't 1, though ?" said Joe; but I did I put a poultice on the jum of the fire place, and that drawed t'other way; so we had no more trouble."
