

M. W. McALARNEY, Editor.

Second Edition of the Rebellion.

The aid and comfort furnished the ex-rebels by Northern "Conspirators" has emboldened the lately repentant traitors to throw off all disguises and resume their old habits of insolence.

"The ballot-box is too slow a process as a remedy for existing grievances. Let the President put down the rebellion in Congress and appeal to the ballot-box to sustain that."

A writer in the Washington Constitutional Union, which until recently was publishing Government advertisements, if indeed it is, not now, speaks as follows:

"I again repeat that I caution no violence, nor do I wish to see the second advent of Cromwell, of England, or Napoleon, of France, practiced upon the radical destructionists in this Congress, but what has been my aim, and will be again, is President Johnson is thwarted in his great intentions. The President must be sustained!"

The Richmond Examiner comments in much the same vein, as follows:

"The Svanic piddler of the national foundry grins as he sees the sparks fly off from the mass of metal that he is manipulating with devilish glee in his fiery furnace. He knows that they will fall cold and lifeless, mere flakes of inert iron. But, Mr. Stevens, God helping us, we do not intend to pass through your rolling-mill; and the day may not be distant when the fires of your forge will be put out by a thunderbolt from the red right hand of Caesar."

Gen. Carl Schurz, in his famous report upon the condition of affairs in the South, avers that there were very few real Union men in all that region; and he was violently assailed for having uttered a declaration so slanderous of the South. Yet every day confirms the truth of what he said. The Secretary of the Treasury cannot find men enough in the rebel States to act as collectors and revenue agents, who can take the test oath; and the Postmaster General gives a similar reason for not restoring the post offices in that part of the country.

The New York World, which exerted all its powers of fascination in tempting the President to betray the party by which he was elected, and the principles he is honorably bound to support, now turns sharply about, and admonishes Democrats not to make any entangling alliances, not to accept offices from the present administration, but to wait patiently for that full restoration to control which will be likely to come when all the States again participate in a Presidential election.

"THE PEOPLE."—The President speaks of "the people" and is opposed to forcing negro suffrage upon "the people" without their consent. Who are "the people?" The white people? They are no more than a part of the people. In several of the Southern States the black people are a majority of the population, and having been made free have naturally the same rights that other people have.

ASSASSINATION IN TENNESSEE.—The Nashville Press says that in Robertson county, Tennessee, quite a number of Union men have been assassinated by returned rebel soldiers, and as every civil officer in the county is a rebel, the murderers are not arrested. The Union men of the county finding it unsafe to live there, are moving off northward.

Recent intelligence from Spain shows that the Progressive party will be satisfied, in church matters, with nothing short of a complete destruction of the Catholic Church, the abolishment of all orders of Monks and Nuns and the abandonment of all Convents, while the Liberals would not go quite so far, but would be satisfied with "a reformation of the Church."

Andrew Peifer, of Mount Bethel, Northampton county, Pa., aged seventy, is an inveterate old sportsman. He says he has killed, within the last fifty years, 38 bears, 4 panthers, 20 wolves, and 1507 deer, besides a large quantity of smaller game.

The Legislature of Maryland has appropriated $3,000, making in all $15,000, to complete the work of enclosing, grading and ornamenting the Antietam Cemetery, which will be ready early in the spring to receive the bodies of the heroes who fell in the memorable battle. Their remains, to the number of 8,000 are now buried in the mountains, roadsides, and fields in that region.

THE UPS AND DOWNS OF PETROLEUM.—The Philadelphia Ledger remarks that a year ago six thousand dollars was the outside price for sinking a petroleum well, and from three to four thousand about the average. Now it is ten thousand. A year ago the working expense of a well was about ten dollars per day—now it is twenty. Then bit brought ten dollars at the well—now five, with one dollar off for taxes. The result was, that every well producing two barrels and more per day was worth working. Now we see that unless it produces ten barrels it hardly pays to keep it going, but if less than half-shares it is hardly worth anything at less than twenty barrels. Nor will one in fifty of those sunk produce twenty barrels; hardly that proportion produce ten even. About Pithole not one in twenty pays at all!

CORN FOR FUEL.—The talk about using corn for fuel has been supposed by many to be a merely exaggerated form of expression, denoting the extreme cheapness of the commodity. But it would appear to be founded on substantial fact in some parts of the West. The Galena (Ill.) Gazette, for instance, says:

"We understand that many of the people of Warren and other towns in the eastern part of the county are using corn for fuel. We had a conversation with an intelligent gentleman who has been burning it, and who considers it much cheaper than wood. Ears of corn may be bought for ten cents per bushel by measure, and seventy bushels, worth seven dollars, will measure a cord. A cord of wood, including sawing, costs $9 50, which is $2 50 more than the cost of a cord of corn, besides the fact that the corn produces more heat than the wood. If these statements are true (and we have no reason to doubt them,) there is no fuel more economical than corn. The crop of corn this year is far beyond the demand."

No one who has had to pay the prices for corn meal current in this section of the country for the last year would be apt to imagine that the crop was "far beyond the demand." In fact, there is something wrong about this burning of corn in one part of the country (and that not far from the frontier) and its prices so high as to restrict consumption in another; and the wrong undoubtedly consists in insufficient facilities of transportation. Unless these facilities can be increased, it is no object for the West to produce any more, while the industry of the East is sure to be burdened and nullified by the constantly increasing cost of living. Here is a problem which our economists and practical business men must solve.

Hon. W. W. Boyce, of South Carolina, in addressing a farewell letter to his constituents, says: Looking to the great future, I should say the first thing for the South is white immigration; the second thing is white immigration; the third thing is white immigration. You should do everything in your power to invite a population, both by your legislation and favorable public sentiments. Receive immigrants from Europe and the United States with open arms. The danger in the future is in a collision of races; your safety is in the closest sympathy with your own race in the United States. You need the friendship of the American people; take every step to obtain it.

The New York Times says it is curious, in passing through what was formerly fashionable localities, to see the "base uses" to which aristocratic mansions have come. The former residence of Moses H. Grinnell, in College place, so long distinguished for its beautiful and refined hospitalities, where Daniel Webster, Washington Irving, and other eminent men, "do congregate," is now a "lager beer saloon." The former residence of the late Robert Minturn, in Beech street—within which dwell all there is attainable of evangelical religion, active benevolence, social cultivation, and domestic virtue—is now an emigrant boarding-house.

CHAUNCEY C. BURR, one of the shining lights of Jersey Democracy, insists that unless his party are ready to recognize the virtue, patriotism and heroic sacrifices for good, of Jeff. Davis, Bob Lee, and other traitors, and to maintain that Seward, Stanton, Chase, Grant, "and all who fought against the South" are tyrants and cut-throats, it cannot ever hope consistently for success. Burr declares that Democracy means literally the superiority of the white man over the black man—that such a superiority can only be preserved by the enslavement of the blacks—and those who fought for slavery were the best Democrats—and that if the Democracy of the North desire to be consistent, they must avow now and forever, as just and sacred, the cause of the Southern slaveholder. Burr is certainly a bold as well as a lucid expounder of Democracy.

THE LAST LOOK.—A committee of the National Monument association recently visited Oak Hill Cemetery, near Springfield, Ill., for the purpose of officially noting the fact that the remains of President Lincoln are buried there, that they might furnish the record with an attested proof of the burial. The face of the lamented dead was seen and recognized, and the look of the committee on the form of the martyr President will be the last until the eagle's trump shall sound a summons to the final judgment.

Gen. Geary's Nomination.—In the Philadelphia Press of Friday appears the following special telegraphic dispatch, which looks as though the nomination of General Geary is certain in spite of the effort being made to "set up" the State against him: "HARRISBURG, Feb. 15.—It is now definitely understood, from information received through sources of the greatest reliability, that John W. Geary has sixty-four delegates to the Union State Convention instructed to support him as a candidate for Governor. As it only requires sixty-seven votes to nominate, it is fair to believe that Geary's nomination will be made on the first ballot."

The Copperheads are very foul in their speeches concerning the ignorance of the Southern slaves. We admit that the negroes of the South are a poor, degraded class, made such by slavery, but however ignorant they now are, they are all friendly to the Government, and whatever improvement is made in their condition, will tend to the strength of the nation. Can as much be said of the intelligent traitors of the South? No improvement in that "race" will ever make them friends of the Government, unless its objects and purposes are entirely changed, restoring slavery, and giving to the States a power superior to that of the nation. The men who drew their swords against the Government will never be its friends. No education can make them such—no legislation but that which inflicts the severest punishment will deter the white traitor from his hostility. Why then make such a hub-bub about making friends for the Union in the South, out of the only material left to create such support?

The Copperhead organs just at the present state of affairs, are dreadfully exercised with the idea of amalgamation, miscegenation, and Mr. Wallace in his late address, believes he has made a great point in appealing to the Democracy in behalf of the purity of "the race." Now it has been admitted as a social truth, that every mulatto born south of Mason and Dixon's line, during the present century, had the same Democratic blood in his body which James Buchanan in his zeal for Federalism, once asserted he was willing to let out of his veins provided any one could prove that he possessed the element.

The New York Tribune, referring to the extraordinary demand for seats in Rev. H. W. Beecher's church, thinks that the same could be paralleled in that city if the congregation would consent to put up their seats, annually, at auction. It says no pew can be had in Dr. Adams' church on Madison Square. All the seats in the church are sold, even to camp stools. A list of families in the hands of the committee, who are waiting for seats, exceed one hundred.

The following shows the receipts and disbursements of the United States Christian Commission since its organization: In 1862 $ 213,356 29 In 1863 916,837 65 In 1864 2,882,347 86 In 1865 2,234,165 88 Total $6,264,165 88

This shows that an immense amount of suffering was alleviated by this christian and patriotic organization.

After the Kentucky Legislature had refused to endorse the Constitutional Amendment abolishing slavery, those members who voted in the negative joined in a petition to the President for the pardon of John C. Breckinridge.

SILVER FOUND IN BEAVER COUNTY.—There is considerable excitement in the vicinity of Frankfort Springs, Beaver county, occasioned by the discovery of a silver vein on Travis Creek, near the Beaver and the Allegheny county line. Two companies have been organized to explore for silver, one of which is sinking a shaft. The indications for silver are good, and it is thought by experienced miners that a paying quantity of silver will be obtained at from twenty to forty feet. The company now sinking the shaft have got good silver ore at seventeen feet, and intend sending a portion to the mint to be tested.

The Democrats of Connecticut have nominated Hon. James E. English for Governor.

The Rhode Island Assembly has elected Geo. A. Brayton Chief Justice, to succeed Hon. Fisher Ames.

John G. Sinclair has been nominated by the Democrats of New Hampshire, as their candidate for Governor.

George Sanderson, Democrat, has been re-elected Mayor of Lancaster city. There was a Union gain of 90 on the vote of last year.

Horace Greely and others are circulating a letter for signatures requesting Governor Fenton, of New York, to be a candidate for re-election.
