"A novel incident occurred to day before the Committee on Freedmen's Affaira. Among others, Goy-ernor Alken, of South Carolina, gave the South-sitio view of the condition of things in his State, reflecting severely, upon the freedmen, and indulging in mine of the flippant prejudice against the negro. He was followed by an intelligent contraband, just arrived here from Charleston, who astonished the committee by a straightforward statement of facts concerning his race, in the South, and the animus of the reconstructed whites toward the negro. His narrative inspired all heavers with its truthfulness, and his inectal of acts of crueity made a deep impression upon the committee. It was admitted by all that Governor Alken had found more than a match in the colored witness."
