

Local and General.

The Result in McKean.

The Mirror says "the Republicans of McKean county made a noble fight on Tuesday, although the dissensions in our own ranks weakened us a little in some localities. In most of the townships, however, the Republicans made a very clean record. In localities where the opposing candidates lived, as was expected they ran ahead of their ticket. The contest was bitterly fought on both sides and gloriously won by the Union men. The democrats can not complain that their full strength was not out. They pulled every vote within their control, including the deserters. They had in hand their whole party strength, and they had the benefit of every vote they were entitled to. On the other hand, those in the Republican organization were those who seemed disposed to create discord, and to such an extent had this been carried on, that many votes were lost to us entirely in the township of Keating on the county ticket. We do hope that hereafter patriotic and unselfish motives will control the action of every Republican. The following is the official vote of the county. The majority of Gen. Geary is greater than that given to any candidate since 1860:

OBITUARY:

Hon. TIMOTHY IVES, was born February 6, 1802, at or near Beecher's Island, Tioga co., Penna., and died in Coudersport, Oct. 8, 1866, at the age of 64. Most of his boyhood was spent on Crooked creek, in his native county, where he enjoyed only the few advantages of an education which a common school at that early day afforded. While he still a boy his father became insane, by which his son was cast upon the world with no heritage save his own inherent energies. About the age of twenty he taught a district school. In 1823, he married Miss Martha Andrews, whose heart he always sympathized with him in all his trials, and whose hand has ever co-operated with him in his labors. In the same year he moved into the township of Bingham, Potter county, where he resided until May 1836, when, having been appointed County Treasurer, he came to Coudersport, at which time this village consisted of a single dwelling house and Commissioners' Office. Afterward he was Justice of the Peace, then Postmaster, and next Associate Judge, which office he held for nine successive years. In 1846 he was elected a Representative to the Legislature. Two years after he was elected State Senator. While at Harrisburg, by his manly deportment and great sociability he acquired many friends among the leading men of the State. At the expiration of his term of office in the State Senate he was appointed Superintendent of the Potomac R. R., which position he held two years. As a Railroad contractor, he built, in company with James McElrath, ten miles of the N. Y. & E. R. R. east of Deposit. He also built several miles of R. R. near Waynesboro, Va., and seven miles of the Sunbury and Erie R. R. not far from Emporium. He was one of the first projectors of this last mentioned R. R. He also took and completed quite a large contract on the Pittsburg and Erie Canal.

In 1861 he had a very severe sickness of Typhoid fever, from which he never fully recovered. After this, by a general prostration of his nervous system, he was much confined to his room. Last July he was attacked by a disease of the liver, which his physicians could not cure. Slowly, under very severe bodily suffering, he was endured with great fortitude, he, with no fears for the future, drew near his earthly end. Physically, he was an embodiment of firmness of texture with great powers of endurance. His constitution was remarkably strong. Socially, he was cheerful, sympathetic and unselfish. Very few have more friends among all classes of men than he had. As a neighbor, he evidently tried to obey the Scriptural injunction, "Love thy neighbor as thyself." He was indeed the poor man's friend. Many, far and near, will long remember the hospitalities enjoyed at his house. Politically, he was always a Democrat. Though a strong party man he never intended to let his political sentiments interfere with his social relations. As a husband and parent he was very nearly what a man should be. He was a Free Mason forty years, and as such, practised, in many respects, the teachings of that order. In his religious belief he was probably more nearly an Episcopalian than anything else. A short time before his last sickness he told a friend of his that he knew he had not lived as he ought, that he had his life to live over again, he would certainly avoid some excesses he had not, but he trusted more in the mercy of God by the salvation obtained through Jesus Christ than in all else, and was not afraid of Death. At no time afterward did he express any fears in regard to dying, but said he felt his sins were forgiven. So we think he has gone to that "Better Land."

Our paper has been delayed two days this week for reasons over which we had no control. Our friends in Wharton deserve an apology. There being but one mail each week to that region, and knowing they would have some anxiety to see the result of the vote in this county, we handed the package to a friend to leave at the Wharton Post Office, but he left it at one of the Stores in this place until after this mail had gone. Our patrons will see the reason of their not receiving the Journal last week.

GOOD NEWS TO SOLDIERS AND THEIR HEIRS!!! PENSIONS.

ALL who have any interest in war claims, will find it to their advantage to read the following Acts of Congress which have recently become law:

Sec. 1st of an Act of June 6, 1865, provides for all soldiers or sailors who have lost the sight of both eyes, or both hands, so as to require constant attendance, the sum of $20.

Sec. 2. To those who have lost both feet, or are totally disabled in the same so as to require constant attendance, the sum of $20.

Sec. 3. Those who have lost one hand or one foot, or are so disabled as to render them unable to perform manual labor equivalent to the loss of a hand or a foot, the sum of $15.

Sec. 4. Persons who have been deprived of their pensions under Act of March 3, 1865, in consequence of being in the civil service of the United States Government are restored.

Sec. 5. Pensions are extended to dependent fathers and brothers, as well as to mothers and sisters.

In addition to the above act, to such persons as are embraced by it, Congress, before its close July 25, 1866, passed a bill increasing the pension to widows and orphans, and extending the benefits of the pension laws to the heirs and representatives of certain invalid applicants, to wit:

Sec. 2 of the act of July 25, 1866, provides for pensions to widows of deceased soldiers or sailors having children by such soldiers or sailors, at the rate of two dollars per month for each child of soldier or sailor under the age of sixteen years. To derive benefit from this act it is necessary to make new application, surrendering the old certificate.

Sec. 3 gives an increase of pensions to those widows now receiving a pension of less than eight dollars per month, except Revolutionary Applications for Pensions must be made before the Prothotary.

THE BILL TO EQUALIZE BOUNTIES HAS BECOME A LAW. The following is an analysis of its provisions:

1. $100 to three years' men who served their time.

2. $100 to three years' men discharged by reason of wounds received in service.

3. $100 to the widow, minor children, or parents, in the order named; of any soldier who died of wounds or disease contracted in service.

4. $50 to each soldier not included in the foregoing classes who enlisted for two years or more, and discharged after serving two years.

5. $50 to every soldier enlisted for two years, and discharged by reason of wounds received in the line of duty.

6. $50 to the widow, &c. as above; of every soldier enlisted for less than two years, who died in service, or of wounds or disease contracted in the army.

No additional bounty is allowed to three years' men who have received, or have heretofore been entitled to receive, more than $100 national bounty, and none to two years' men who have received or are entitled to more than $50. The law only applies to honorably discharged soldiers of the late war, and to none who have sold or transferred their discharges or rights to bounty.

The undersigned will attend promptly to the collection of such claims, at reasonable rates. Where parties reside at a distance, the business may be done by letter. Address, DAN BAKER, Coudersport, Potter county, Penn. Aug 20-21 -
