The guillotine is capable of cutting off six heads per minute, and eight, if properly handled. The machine is worked by steam, and the knife, instead of falling straight, cuts with rotary movement. The new guillotine can be taken to pieces and put together again in ten minutes; the engine works the wheels, and the machine can steam to the place of execution, and take the body up to the cemetery afterward."

A Female Candidate.

Elizabeth Cady Stanton, one of the strong-minded women who adorn tha society of New York presents herself as a candidate for Congress in the Eighth Congressional District of that State. She ana Westerner who larded his talk freely and frequently with oaths. Mrs. Stanton does not explain how she intends to get round that provision of the Constitution which save that State. She announces as her platform "free speech, free of those who gave haff a million lives and that as neither party agrees with her upon all these principles, it is necessary for her to go to Congress as an independent woman. Mrs. Stanton does not explain how she intends to get round that provision of the constitution which save the Decree of those who gave haff a million lives and the save that save the Decree of those who gave haff a million lives and the save that save the Countless treature. The rebellious States have the Decree of those who gave haff a million lives and the save that save that save the merous branch of the Legislature." As the Constitution of New York confines the right of voting to males, it would seem that Elizabeth is ineligible. But this, we presume, will be a small difficulty, the most serious obstacle being the election.
