Master James R. Butler, of this place, is the agent for the county of four steel engravings, "Only a Little Brook," "The Empty Sleeve," "The Lord's Prayer," and "Good-Morning." He has also four crayon sketches and everal card photographs. We suppose every person of taste is aware that a fine engraving is a much higher work of art than most of the colored daubs seen in the country, and so we bespeak for Master Butler a thriving trade for the sake of good taste, and of himself, too.

The interest felt in the result was very strong, and the court room was well filled at the hour set for hearing the matter. Messrs. Elliott, Bosard, and W. Sherwood appeared in behalf of the applicants, while Maj. Geo. W Merrick alone represented the remonstrants.

On Wednesday of the first week of Court, when the matter was adjourned, the Judge directed the attorneys for the respective parties to prepare two lists of the pelitions on each side—one of voters and one of adults who were not voters. This was done; and it appeared from the lists that the whole name oer of several voters whose hanges were at two hundred and six; while the number of license was two hundred and six; while the number of license. granting or refusing license? To what is the discretion of the Court to apply?—to the necessity of a hotel or of a license? He thought the latter. A licensed hotel is what is asked for, and the language of the act of 1859, is that the court may refuse license of "such hotel" is not necessary. Any other construction would make the act meaningless and inconsistent. No license is needed to keep a public house; a man may build one or a thousand, open and run them, and his right to do so depends in no degree upon the opinion of the Court as to their necessity. But if he asks to be licensed to sell intoxicating liquors in them, then the Court may exercise its discretion as to whether such hotels are necessary for the accommodation of the public. The 12th section of the act of 1834 permits the Court, if they think it necessary, to grant a license to persons who may combine any other business with that of selling; liquors. Suppose a grocer, a shoe-maker, of a license, can it be seriously contended that. Courts shall stop to consider whether groceries, shoe-shops or markets are necessary. tion as to the application of the Court's discretion, for it makes it incumbent upon the Court to refuse a license "whenever in the opinion of the Court, having due regard to the number and character of the petitioners for and against such application, such license is not necessary," and a proviso expressly repeals all laws inconsistent with this section. It is evident that the discretion applies alone to the necessity for a license.

As to the persons petitioning for and against license, Mr. Merrick thought the Court should receive and consider the names of all demic. adults without regard to sex. In all the laws, bearing upon the subject, no term is used restricting the right to electors. !'Citizens," 'person," and applicant? are the only words used. Under the National Constitution women are citizens, and they are certainly and if she complies with the law, the Court tion adopted resolutions indorsing the Namen the law is complied with. Now, if women may petition for a license, what rule of law or logic can deny them the right to pe tition against it. For fifteen years this Court had permitted them to do so, and he thought the rule was well founded both in law and justice. -

It is certain that woman's interests and happiness are as vitally affected by this liquor traffic as any one's can be. Whatever we may think of him who asks to make drunkards of our children whatever we may feel of loathing or pity for the poor wretch, his victim—we must admit that she who sees husband and father, property, happiness, and home swallowed up in the vortex of strong drink ought to have some voice in saying whether a right to work this ruin is and his opinion was well known to the Court. He thought that where a husband petitioned for a license and his wife signed a remontrance, the wife's signature should not be counted as of any weight.

After hearing all that was to be said, the Court announced that they would consider the matter, and make known their decision in the morning. Accordingly, on Tuesday morning the Court said they had decided not to grant any license to sell liquor in Wellsboro during the year.

On Wednesday last the case of an appliwhen previous violations of the law were shown and the license was refused. The following is a list of licenses granted to hotel-keepers in the county at the present

BAPTISM .- Sunday evening, the 11th inst., was a time of rejoicing with the Wellsboro Baptist Church. Youths' prayer meet-ings of much interest have been held for over two months, in which many conversions have occurred. These converts had begun to inquire what hindered that they should be baptised. Water in and about this village is think to be a sort of entertainment that won't a very scarce article. But the Baptists will find it if is to be had; for. lo, a fountain suddenly appears in the midst of the platform where the pastor stands to preach. Sunday evening seven persons were baptised. It being the first Baptistry ever erected in the county, the occurrance naturally drew together a large concourse of people, every available space where one could even stand was occupied. was occupied.

The ceremony was very solemn and impressive. Many were in tears as they beheld the joyous candidates sink down beneath the water. Among the number was Dr. Eastman, who said that he was immersed that hemight know that he was baptised. Also the youngest son of the paston who was only ten years of age. It is expected more will follow in the same ordinance next Sunday evening. COURT LAST WEEK.
