The labor strikes in New York for the eight-hour system are dying out, most of the men having gone to work on the old terms. The marble cutters are the only ones who still decidedly stand out.

. There was another of those mining disas ters last week, which so frequently thrill the country with horror. A coal mine near Li maville Ohio, took fire Wednesday afternoon, and nine men and a boy were smoth-

Judge M'Cunn, who was recently convicted of malfeasance in office by the unanimous vote of the New York Senate, died suddenly last Saturday morning. Now we shall probably see plenty of obituary notices setting forth what a pure, good nigh he was. Death is the best cosmetic.

It is reported from New York that the New York Central and the Eric Railway Companies have been consolidated, and that Commodore Vauderblit has been elected President of the new monster corporation. If this story proves true, we think it will be a bad step in the line of corporate growth, so far as the Empire State is concerned .-The evils resulting from it will be both po litical add commercial. The same telegram which announces the consolidation says the freight and passenger tariffs are to be raised.

It is reported that Dan. Voorhees thinks it will never do to give it up so, Mr. Brown," and has therefore prepared a great speech against the indorsement of the Cincinnati nominees at Baltimore, which he intends to deliver during the Convention there this week. As he is not a delegate, his friends are in some way to call him out and give him a chance to speak before the nomination is made. Baltimore must be a decidedly lively place just now.

The Tribune reports a leading religious weekly as saying that nobody has accused Mr. Greeley of immorality of any kind .well established reputation for profane swearing. But perhaps this "religious" of genius.

We desire to call attention to the act of April 11, 1872, entitled |" An act to provide for calling a Convention to amend the Constitution." By that act the qualified voters of this Senatorial district, composed of the counties of Tioga, Potter, M'Kean and Cameron, elect three Delegates to the Constitutional Convention, and each voter can vote for but Two. This will give the Democrats one Delegate and the Republicans two in this Senatorial district. By a fair division Tioga county would be entitled to one Republican Delegate, and the western part of the district to one; and in order to get the proper sense of this county in relation to the person preferred, it would seem reasonable that but one person from Tioga county be voted for by each elector at the caucus. This is all our county can claim in the Senatorial conference with any show of fairness, and no more than one should be voted for at the delegate meetings. In this way the choice of the county would be more fairly indicated than by voting for a greater number than we are entitled to.

There is an item going the rounds which rather funny, and not a little significant of the slip-shod manner in which we think and talk about things serious. The obstreperous Peace Jubilee at Boston was opened with prayer by the Rev. Phillip Brooks .-But the gentleman's lungs were not of the true jubilee strength, and, in the language of a Boston paper, "the prayer was made in dumb show to almost everybody," But. New York journalism is not to be outdone in any way, and we find one of the newspapers of that city reporting that the Collseum was so large that the prayer could not possibly be heard by those to whom it was adlressed. No doubt it is rather late in the day to question the propriety of addressing prayers to Bostonians, for several years ago the papers solemnly reported that a leading preacher had the day before at a public meeting delivered "the most eloquent prayer ever addressed to a Boston audience."-We only suggest if there is any more praying of that sort to be done in the Coliseum that the gentleman performing be supplied with a speaking trumpet.

It may be that there is nothing new under the sun, but here is something without a precedent so far as we know. An ardent admirer of the opera, residing at Reggio, writes a letter to Verdi, the eminent composer, to tell him how he recently traveled all the way to Parma to witness the performance of the latter's new work, "Ada;" how he was disappointed in it, and how, after it was, over, he listened on his way home to the criticisms of those around him, and found them all favorable. Hereupon he resolved to hear the opera again, and went to Parma another evening for that express purpose; With the greatest inclination to be pleased, he found himself unable to approve end, and that after a run of two or three stages it will be consigned to the dust of bookshelves. After this unmerciful criticism. he tells "my dear Verdi" how vexed he is with himself that he has spent thirty two composer to assist in recovering his money, his publishers to pay the amount claimed, York city government.

Ballimore Nuntials. By the time this paper reaches its more re note readers, no doubt the bargain will have seen entered into at Baltimore whereby the Democratic leaders agree to surrender the support of those political dogmas for which they have been struggling for a dozen years, in consideration of the votes of a few soured and disappointed Regulations. A The unblushing bride whose only recommendation is a pretended dowry of "liberal" capital. It must be confessed there is no hypocrit ical pretence of regard on either side. The bride has not heretofore been sparing in her denunciations of her new-found lord as the superlative of all that is wrong-headed, ig orant and corrupt; and on the very eve of the wedding ceremonies, she at nounces that f he does not take her she will do her best o destroy him and his hopes together. And the groom has returned these left-handed compliments with interest.

But for all that, the nuptials will undoubt edly be celebrated with much pomp and ceremony, and hailed with many expressions of whom hope to obtain some position of more profit than honor in the new household about to be set up. There will be much noisy congratulation, and there will be not little discreet silence on the occasion. The words "free trade" and "protection" will probably be carefully tabooed, for it is ocious! when those ideas are suggested.-No pig-iron presents are desired. Nobody of love for the principles of its party. who has the least regard for the feelings of the parties will mention those unfortunate expressions of the lady suggesting the intimate connection of the gentleman with pugilism, gambling and harlotry, with blacklegs, thieves and burglars, with rum and rowdies. Of course no friend of either pary will say anything about the vermin in the democratic bed when the lady is about to share that couch. We sincerely hope nobody will recall the bride's opinion of Mr. Séymour and Mr. Blair, two of the groom's warmest friends. Do let us have decent decorum at the wedding feast, even if the parevmoon has waned. It is true the groom's strongest backers agony, "We thought it, and still think it, a nomination unfit to be made. It is our electricity: firm conviction that the [Democratic] organization would be altogether more united; This is pretty rich, considering Dr. Greeley's efficient, and powerful in conducting a Press run between Baltimore and this city, and idential canvass for a genuine Democrat will connect South, North and East, conthan in conducting a canvass for Mr. Greejournal doesn't include profanity among the ley." No doubt it would. But with the gloomy resignation of an Indian warrior led to the stake, the World wraps its tattered party blanket around itself, and prepares for the sacrifice: "We submit to the inevitable, with such grace as we may, and decline to take any part in a vain attempt to stem the current" which is sweeping its party to the last fatal plunge. The World trusts that it has "sense enough to understand the situation." Indeed it has, and to explain it, too, as this article indicates. It already sees and points out the blunders which have, in a few short weeks, led the party into its present desperate

> It first encouraged the Cincinnati move ment so vigorously that when the Convenion, projected in the interest of reform, was captured and perverted by the trading politicians-the Fentons, the M'Clures, and the Blairs of the day—to the nomination of a vain, vacillating and credulous candidate, lisgusting alike to the "Reformers" and the Democrats, the Impetus in that direction was so strong as to sweep the bulk of the party to the support of a ticket which no houghtful Democrat could look upon with out secret contempt or loathing. Even ther. a prompt repudiation of the Cincinnati nom ince by the party leaders might have save the Democracy from the indorsement of nomination almost certain to distract, divide and destroy the party. But they waited passively to see how the ticket set up at Cincinnati would be received by the Republi cans, and in the mean time the small men of their own party, hungry for office and anxjons to find "anybody to best Grant, drifted rapidly into the Greeley current, and out of their control. And so they find themselves to-day compelled to indorse a man result of the Convention if it is adverse to for life. - Harrisburg Telegraph. his aspirations. They find themselves not only without principles but without a party candidate—the indorsers of a mercenary and contemptible faction of their enemies mere tail to the Cincinnatiskite, sent up in the vain hope of dissipating the Republican lightùing. 📊 Lis the old story over again. ic blunders are Republican opportunities, Ever since 1860 we have owed our success securely depend upon their valuable but involuntary aid. The fact is that the party which opposed the war is doomed to death The American people will never again know ingly surrender the government of the country into the hands of that party, though disguised by an old white coat and recommended by the blandest smile of Dr. Greeley.

They went to the length of throwing up fortifications to repel the solliers of the United Stater. It was suppressed finally, after much trouble and expense, by the military authorities. A Just Criticism. The Republican party deserves well of Col. John W. Forney. It has done much for him, by giving to him its confidence, its offices and its patronage; it remains to be seen whether he deserves well of it. "Re-publicans outside of Peunsylvania regard his present course with surprise and mortifu cation. Gen. Hartranft is a distinguished soldier, of unblemished reputation; for it cannot be said, with justice that the Evans Ever since 1860 we have owed our sticess affair asts any stain upon his character, the more to the fatuity of our enemies than to legislative investigation having fully exonthe sagacity of our friends, and we may still erated him from all blame. His nomination was nearly unanimous, and he is heartily supported by the great majority of the Republicans of the State. It will be doubted if the Press is acting in good faith when it attacks a Republican State Convention in the language usually chosen to express the most bitter hostility, and this doubt will lead to the further doubt and this doubt will teld to the further doubt of the truth of the charges brought against that body. The Republicans of the nation have a right to demand that factional oppo-sition to State nominations shall cease in Pennsylvania. It is not likely that General Hartranft will withdraw at the dictation of two or three journals, especially when the demand is offensively made. Col. Forney demand is onensively made. Col. Forney is a politician, and therefore knows this fact; hence his violent opposition to the ticket of his party in his own State gives aid and comfort to the enemy, and is succeptible of an interpretation very unfavorable to himself.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

The Chicago Times, the leading Demo-cratic paper of the West, still keeps up the same determined opposition to the Greeley movement that it has manifested from the beginning. In a late leading editorial it says that the nomination of Mr. Greeley by the Baltimore Convention is a foregone conclusion, but that it is due to the manipula; and legitimate by these hopefully anago-distic particles. The road they trave to gether will be occasionally the scene d an argument with sticks for priority and "si-mon-purity." It is hard enough for hese the other. Hon. Charles R. Buckalere.

The Bloomsburg Republican, published at the home of C. R. Buckalew, in comment-ing on his nomination for Governor, says: "The Democratic nominee for Governor is Charles R. Buckalew of this county. Our readers are so well acquainted with him, that it is scarcely necessary to attempt a Diographical sketch. He is a native of this county, and in early life adopted politics as sas-elected United States senator oy tue aid of the Philadelphia roughs, and when ensconced in his seat in the United States Senate he held his tongue and seemed to for get that the nation was grappling with treason.
