TO NEUTRALIZE OFFENSIVENESS.—In many forms we use disinfectants. Impure breath, caused by bad teeth, tobacco, spits, or catarrh, is neutralized by Sozo-dent. This is a healthful beautifier, and a great luxury as a deodorant. The repulsive breath is by its use rendered fragrant as the wind, and coldness by friends or lovers will be no longer noticed.

IMPORTANT TO GENTLEMEN.—I have received a large stock of overcoats, diagonal patterns, and fancy vestings, cloths for business suits of French, Prussian and English goods of the finest quality. Also a large stock of gent's trimming goods. The celebrated diamond shirts for sale. H. C. PERRY, Merchant Tailor, Corning, N. Y.

A NEW STORY FROM THE DUTCH.—In the number of Littell's Living Age for the week ending Sept. 21st is begun a new serial story—"The Burgomaster's Family," translated from the Dutch of Christiano Muller, by Sir John Shaw Lefevre. It promises to be a story of unusual interest. Besides being very favorably noticed by the principal Dutch literary periodicals, it has attracted the attention of the English critics, being highly praised by leading English papers. The translator says he was induced to translate the story by the amusement derived from the variety of incidents and the minute delineations of character which it contains,—delineations which are drawn with the same ability that we find in a carefully executed Dutch painting. Indeed the main part of the translator is a sufficient guarantee of the merit of the story. The publication of the translation—an admirable one—will be continued from week to week in The Living Age until completed, and will prove an additional attraction to that valuable periodical.

The number for Sept. 21st also contains the usual amount and variety of the most instructive and interesting reading to be found in the whole range of foreign periodical literature of the day, including part two of a central series of articles on "The Dutch and Immortality," an installment of "The Shells" by Jean Ingelow, a notice of Charles James Lever, etc. The subscription price of this 61 page weekly magazine is $8 per cent. or $10 per year in advance.

Subscription is sent with The Living Age for a year. LITTELL & CO., Boston, Publishers.

ROUSING MASS MEETING.
Ten Thousand People Greet the Next Vice President.

The Republicans of this county have been wont to brag some about the big meeting held at Wellsboro in 1868 to listen to General Butler. But that now, for good reason, has been abandoned and the next Vice President, Mr. Grant, is to be the chief attraction at the gathering of the Republican forces at Wellsboro last week Monday was the largest ever witnessed in "Old Tioga." From the middle of the forenoon until the evening was called to order and the crowd from all around the town came marching up Main street from the surrounding towns. Hundreds of people came by the Railroad, and by the time the speaking began good judges estimated there were ten thousand people in Wellsboro. The village was crowded with guests, and flags and banners were plentiful. The public school enjoyed a half-holiday, and everything bore the appearance of a day of general popular rejoicing rather than the meeting of a political party.

Reg. A. C. Miles, of the original Bucktail Regiment, acted as Marshal of the day, meeting the several processions on the outskirts of the town and directing their course through the village. His assistants in this duty were C. C. Bailey and Jacob B. Corder. The latter also of the Bucktails. It would be a long task to attempt to particularize the constituents of the numerous processions. There were the very large delegations from the towns of Delaware, Shippensburg, Galloway, Elk, Chatham, Farmington and Charleston. The delegation from this last township was particularly noticeable not only in the number of its members but in the interest and vigor of its members. It was led by Mr. Charles C. Close, its President. A fine band of music, composed of Mr. J. M. Drayton, of the Mansfield Normal Musical Academy was at the head of the whole procession. The music of the whole day was noticeable for its excellence, especially the Wellsboro Cornet Band, led by Mr. J. M. Drayton, who conducted it throughout the whole day.

The Charleston procession was more than a mile long. It twisted all through the streets of Wellsboro and around under the hills. In it there was a wagon loaded full of young girls dressed in white and looking as fresh and rosy as the day is bright. There was another wagon in which were a lot of practical tanners and a company of Wilson shoe makers, all pegging away right merrily. They had some skins hung out ready to be tanned and worked up. Labeled F. A. Allen, J. D. Crane and S. H. Elliott. A conspicuous member of the band was "V. A. Elliott, the Esau who got cheated out of his Potage." All over this wagon, an immature painter had been busy at work lettering matters of a local and personal significance. Another wagon had a column, from one of Nas's designs, that one with the pyramid of democratic and rebel sins with his old white coat. This unfortunate old chap, Greeley, peculiarly susceptible to a ridicule that he does not expect, carried under, figured in this procession in all sorts of ways, as the grandmother of the nation, as rowing up Salt River and as waiting to have his hide well tanned. In this procession, numbering many of the one hundred and fifty wagons of which it was composed, the Welch residents of South Charleston, sturdy farmers, are particularly to be noticed. An intelligent people these, thoughtful, industrious, reliable men and women, always found on the right side.

Another procession attracted a large amount of attention was the company from Covington called the Covington Veteran State National Guard. The officers of this company are Capt. T. Willoughby, Lt. H. J. Merwin, M. A. B. Purcell. They were very fine in their uniform and all for Grant and Wilson.

A stand had been erected and a large number of seats arranged at the south-west corner of the public square, and here the speakers' platform was finally decorated with flags and flowers, and around it the people packed themselves by the thousand to listen to the distinguished gentlemen who were to address them. It was estimated that not less than seven thousand people thronged to hear the speeches. We quote again from the Advertiser's report:

The meeting was called to order by Mr. N. T. Chandler, Chairman of the Republican Committee of the county of Tioga, and the following named officers were duly and unanimously elected: President, Robert C. Simpson, of the Borough; Vice Presidents, Augustus Alba, Knoxville; J. A. Jones, Rural; Peter Van Ness, Highland; Judge Van Buren, F. N. Baldwin, Tioga; Joel Parkhurst, Elkland; E. Kinser, Jackson; John Butler, Delmar; Henry Holland, Blossburg; S. I. Powers, Lawrenceville; Willis Grant, Charleston; J. E. Cleveck, M. D., Union.

Mr. Simpson, on taking the chair, made a few appropriate remarks and introduced Messrs. HENRY WILSON.

The immense assemblage could hardly contain itself when this gentleman, as noble in his personal appearance as he stands before the country in his record, stepped to the front of the platform. It was some time before the tumult of voices could be sufficiently lulled for him to proceed. Well, the people of Tioga county are to be excused. Their choice for one of the first officers of the Republic stands before them. Why should they not show their delight in him and their appreciation of him in the only way then in their power? At election day they will show it in another manner, but no less definite and decided, for Tioga county may be set down as a majority for Grant and Wilson, such as late news gave before for any other candidates.

The speech of Mr. Wilson was what might have been expected from such a man talking to such an audience. Dignified and candid, temperate and just. Dealing with facts and numbers, he here and there with a homely but telling humor. He was especially sure to watch the face of the people around him. They drank in every word as if it might be the children of Israel, he seemed to say, to be fed with manna from heaven. It was well that he was so warmly received. He was warmly received. He was warmly received. He was warmly received.
