In point of fact, all these things were obtained from the South either by compulsion, as was the case with the surrender of their arms, or by means of the negro vote co-operating with the Republican party of the North, as was the case with all the other matters mentioned. To all these measures the Southerners, who now support Mr. Greeley as the forlorn hope of the lost cause, were bitterly and persist-

One of the very gravest causes of the universal distrust of Mr. Greeley is that in financial and business matters he has the zeal of a theorist combined with a rooted ignorance of the subject. Does not this view of him exactly tally with the exhibition be of General Hartranft thus: made of himself before the Louisville Chamber of Commerce? He there reiterated his ber of Commerce? He there reiterated his gentlemen, and never once—nevel once-notion that the Government ought to 16 did I see him walk one hair's breadth out of sume specie payments, without specie enough to pay with, and ought to part with all its say to you, upon my faith as a gentlemangold to prevent its falling into the hands of never once gold gamblers The naked statement of these preposterous crotchets is enough to ex. | gressional districts of Maine show the folpose the character of the mind that could lowing Republican majorities; First District, 1/2, 6 12 200 229 11 entertain them But the one thing which makes reasonable power is, that in the trying period of our history he was unreservedly in favor of grinting the right of secossion. Could it be supposed that, after this nation had gone through what it has to bury that doctrine forever-to wipe every vestige of it out of American politics-amin could be tound who, in the character of a Presidential can didate would reanneance this position, and declare his present as well as his part adher ence to it 2 Lt Pittsburg he asserted that he would have consented to let the Bouth ern States go. if, on a fuir vote, they had decided to do so, and says that if a similar case were now presented he "would take the chances." That Mr. Greeley's mind was weak enough to admit this crazy and mischievous idea in 1860 is enough to deprive ican people; but that, after all the lessons of the war, and after the exhaustive discussion of the force and scope of our , Constitution, and the needs of the nation to which the war gave rise, he should now proclaim the same idea as a guide for judgment of his future course, is a piece of folly too glaring to need exposure. We speak that which any of Mr. Greeley's friends can confirm by very limited observation when we say that these specohes have given rise to a very general impression that their author is forfeiting the few chances of election he ever had. The vices of his mind are incurable. He may be more consumed by ambition in this last desperate struggle for public honors. But even this is a difference of degree, not of kind. The same erratic, self-confident, narrow-minded politician he is now he has been for many years. That neither kimself nor his friends could prevent his making this last display of his unfitness for the grave and delicate office to which he aspires, is a matter for congratulation. - N. Y. Times.

How Democrats Run York County.

The York county, Democracy are inuclidisturbed by the enormous frauds in county finances unearthed by the last Legislature. The Board has found much difficulty in prosecuting their labors, by reason of the vouchers having been stolen. They have, however, made reports of their investigations of the accounts for the years 1860, 1861, 1862 and 1863, and find a deficiency as against the County Commissioners during these four years of $17,293 12, and a further deficiency against the County Treasurers for the same periods of $14,934.35making a total of $32,227 47, of which the county was plundered in four years.
