> DISPOSITION MADE OF THE KEOUGH CASE.—Quite a number of criminal cases of general interest were tried or otherwise disposed of by the Court last week. The most important was that of the Commonwealth vs. Kough. The defendant was indicted for the murder of his daughter Margaret. Only the witnesses for the prosecution were sworn, as it became evident from their testimony that a conviction was impossible, and the Commonwealth abandoned the case It is hinted that the testimony of some of the witnesses as given at the trial differed materially from that given before the Grand Jury. The story as detailed in Court last week was substantially as follows: Keough came home drunk and went up stairs where he slept, his wife and two daughters sleeping below. About eleven o'clock he came down stairs, and asked for a light which he obtained, claiming he wanted to go out to shoot a hawk. He then started back up stairs, when his daughter Margaret followed him. His second daughter. Anna, also went ut stairs. Keough's son was in bed in an upper room and was called up by Margaret. When the son got up he found his father with the gun in his hands and Margaret trying to get it away from him. The young man at once took hold of the gun.grasping it near the butt while his father had hold of the barrel. In the scuffle for the possession of the gun it was discharged, and Margaret was wounded. The young man says he did not know that his sister was hit until he had gone back to bed and was called up again, and none of the family knew she was wounded anywhere ex-900,000 cept in the arm until the doctor came. Upon the daughters going down stairs, after the fracas, it was found that Margaret was shot, and a neighbor was sent for who immediately went for Dr. Colwell. The Doctor came at once, and found the girl's arm badly shattered. He at first thought it would be necessary to amputate it, but he soon discovered that she was badly wounded in the side, and abandoned all idea of amputation. Keough, who was evidently intoxicated. asked the Doctor what he thought of the case, and on being told that his daughter was dangerously hurt he said if she died it would be his (Keough's) fault. The girl soon died of her wound. This is the rather incoherent story told by the family, and it is > > murder. It will probably never be known just how the shooting took place; but it is safe to say that Margaret Keough was one of the legion of innocent victims of the demon of intemperance. As will be seen elsewhere, Keough was afterward indicted for involuntary manslaughter. COURT PROCEEDINGS. - The November term of Court convened last week Monday, Hon. Henry W. Williams presiding, with

HYMN FOR THANKSOLVING. (State and National,) Cive thanks to God, All-wise, For blessings of the year; Let one glad anthem use To Great Jehovah's ear;

He crowned the year, with bounteons hand, for thanks be give, thro' all the land. He bade the fertile soil
Yield food for each and poor,
He smiled on bonest took,
And made the harvest sure;
For garnered stores of nature's yield.
Give thanks to Golt, who blessed the field.

While sickness, pain and death
Have wasted, here and there;
"Who givet, all men beath"
Has made our land his care;
No pestilence o'er it has awept,
tive thanks to Got, for health thus kept.

The clouds, which threat'ned war When the past year was new, Have floated off—ainr— And vanished like the dew. Give thanks unto the Prince of Peace, Who bids the war of nations cease.

The Church, unhelp'd by State, Has prospered in our land; From Maine to "Golden Gute" Hor temples, open, stand; tive thanks to Gcd, by whose decree, Our churches stand, in worship, free

In battle for the rights of man,
Thanks be to God! we lead the van. The sons of noble sires,
Led by Jehovah's hapd,
Have spread the altur-fires
Of freedom thro' the land;
Give thanks to God, who, slowly, taught
The sons to do what sires but thought.

No clanking chains are found; No tears from slave-eyes fall; For freedom's hallowed ground Has equal rights for all; Let free men all upon this day, To freedom's God, thanksgiving pay.

For blessings of the year,
In State and Church and Home,
Let praise, with thanks sincere,

INDICTMENTS BY THE GRAND JURY.—The Grand Jury last week found the following indictments:

Thoras Hall breen.

The average would have been uncomfortable for one, who, searching for lost property had put his foot into them. There were, hesides, three trunks found full of jewelry and knick-knacks of every description. The prisoners were brought to this city and lodged in jail. They are a bad looking lot, and in ages range from thirty years to nineteen. One of them, Samuel, has been a sort of a preacher, but appears to be a person of only a medium amount of sense, and one not realizing at all the situation of affairs, either as to the do-ing of his brothers or the cause of the arrest. Yesterday, the prisoners were arraigned be-fore United States Commissioner James L. Woods, and the examination of Hiram nearly completed. It will be finished next week.

The evidence is very strong against them counterfeit coin having been passed by them at the Chemung postoffice, at the grist mill, at the railrood ticket office and at Owen's at the railrood ticket office and at Owen's store. They manufactured twenty-five cent, five cent and three cent picces. Some of them are very good and likely to deceive, a few, however, obtained by the officers were very poor indeed. Among other things developed by the evidence, was the fact that they fired the store of Jesse Owen & Co.*in July last. It seems, too, that they did a lively business with their coin during State Fair week. It seems pretty certain that the operations of a dangerous gang of men have been thoroughly put an end to.

The Hartford Churchman has the following sensible article on "The Humbug and away. They are seldom read. Next in worthlesiness as a vehicle comes the ordinary almanac. These are manufactured to a is immensely profitable to apotheraries and paper dealers. The man of paper, co-operating with the man of pills, makes, the whole almanac business one of mutual profit. One collector, on the Hudson, to our positive knowledge, has bought, during the last few weeks, no less than ten tons of almanacs, their money. Advertisers should remember that a circulation of ten or fifteen thousand in an unexceptionable medium is worth vast-y more than a hundree thousand through the medium of a questionable agent. Printing is not advertising. THE JOURNALS AND THE RAILROADS .-

the following sensible words: What of editorial dead heads? We answer that, for more than twenty years of editorial life we have never known an editor who had a free ticket on a railroad. This may be thought a wild or a strange statement, but it is, nevertheless, a true one. We mean looked very encouraging. We congratulate tising columns, agreeing to give a pass over the congregation upon the success which atadvertisement would cost the company five it because his renders want the information about the running of the cars and occasionally he wants the pass. It is given for a valuable consideration and not for favors agreed ness of building up a weak Parish. Daily providence teach us that money is not the only good in the world.

The Graded School of Lawrenceville held a festival a few days ago, for the purchase of dicial dead heads and holders of editorial generally, on regular written or printed agree ments, which make the words "free pass" a contradiction of the facts in the case

SHOCKING ACCIDENT.—Thanksgiving day, Mr. Preston Conklin, of West Hill, in driving his team with a heavy load of stone down a hill in the rear of his residence, lost control of them by the tongue dropping out of the neckyoke. The horses became at once intractable, while he in courageous efforts to restrain them, did not regard his own peril A few plunges planted the tongue in an adjacent bank, breaking it off and detaching the fore wheels. At this point he jumped from the lead, but the momentum of the heavy stones carried them over him, crushing both legs below the knees. His injuries are very serious, both legs having suffered compound comminuted fractures. Dr. P. H. Flood, who was promptly called gave such surgicul aid as the circumstances required and expressed the opinion that both legs might be saved. Mr. Conklin is a young man of excellent habits and of expending the highest processed to the saved. cellent habits and of remarkable industry He will have the sympathy of a large circle of friends.—Elmira Advertiser.

Throat and Lungs.

It is gratifying to us to inform the public hat Dr. . Q. C. Wishart's Pine Tree Tar Cordial for Throat and Lung Diseases, has gained an enviable reputation from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast, and from thence to some of the first families of Europe, not through the press alone, but by persons throughout the States actually benefitted and cured at his office. While he publishes less, so say our reporters, he is unable to supply the demand. It gains and holds its reputa-
