The Galaxy for June contains several articles of striking interest, of which the first in older, if not in merit, is a spirited sketch of He leaves a wife and four small children to Leon Gambetta, the ardent French Republican, who is spoken of as the youngest statesman in Europe. Another article which has a peculiar interest in view of the sanguinary tendency of the age and the tenderness of juries in murder trials, is Dr. Coan's essay. on the Value of Life, an article full of thought and sound philosophy, but unfortunately rather too abstruse to be popular .-The average reader will be better pleased with Mr. Burroughs's light and entertaining article upon the pleasures and benefits of walking out-an amusement very few Americans are addicted to. One or two short and very pretty tales are clustered under the title of "Gascon Stories." They belong to that quaint, simple class of legend which passed current for generations among the French peasantry, without being written. One of these we find very like one of Grimm's Fairy Tules. "The Sweethcart of Monsieur Briseux" is a very well written love story, with the unsatisfactory ending now so much in vogue with story writers. "A Fourfold Alibi" is an ingenious story, showing the trouble a self-appointed detective may get himself into. We commend it to the attention of inthe limbs: quisitive busybodies. An article upon "The Man with the Iron Mask," reviews the immense array of books and essays written upon this subject within a century and a half, and patiently labors to prove that none of them are correct. The poetry of the number is as good as usual. The scientific and litera-Ty departments are full of interest, and constitute the best features of the magazine.

A VERY INTERESTING WORK.-We have just received from the National Publishing Co. of Philadelphia, a copy of Prof. O. S. Fowler's great work, on Manhood, Womanhood, and their Mutual Interrelations; Love, its Laws, Power, etc. We hail its advent with undisguised satisfaction, and cordially commend it to the perusal of all classes of our community. Forty years experi-tuce as a teacher and lecturer on science, and a long life devoted to consultations and advice in connection with subjects concerning which men and women hesitate to confidewhereof it treats. It appeals to every class, and to people of all ages, tastes, and habits, and we hope it will be read by every man and woman in our broad land. The author addresses himself with especial force to those contemplating marriage, and we most cordi-ally commend his book to all such. It is pure and elevated in tone, and abounds in the most useful information concerning the beard that there is a female incarcerated there the most useful information concerning the
