"It was the Yankees," said old Smith,
Who made the Modoes run,
Because they coveted the lands
The red men hunted on.
It's somewhet mixed, but all agree That 'twas a famous victory.

"Men, babes and women, fifty-three, Followed the Indian chief; One hundred tuges as many whites Brought Mr. Lo to grief; And every red was killed," said he, "In the great Modoc Victory." "But what goodscame of it at last?" "But what goodware of it at last?"
Asked gentle Colfavire;
"Good? WLy, we got their land, you bet—
The home you're living in;
And imay a heathen scaip won we
In that brave Christian victory.

"Great praise our Colonel Killem gained, And she our flag I ween."
"Entigld they read the Bible then?"
"Entigld they read the Bible then?"
"Not having Colfaxine.
"Why, that I cannot say," queth he,
"But 'twas a glorious victory." JOKER'S BUDGET.

It was a Portland fellow who, after coming to a railroad crossing the other day, and reading the sign—"Look out for the locomotive," chimbed to the top, and on gazing up the track, wanted to know "wher'n thunder the old thing was?"

"What's your business?" asked a judge of a prisoner at the bar, "Well I s'pose you might call me a locksmith." "When did you last work at your trade?" "Last night; when I heard a call for the perlice, I made a bolt for the front door." ado a bolt for the front door." The Boston Traveler is responsible for the following report of an argument in a heated street descussion: "I don't believe in spiritualism. I think this: If a man goes to help he can't come back here; and if he may to heaven he don't want to?" gues to heaven, he don't want to.' The prospective brother-in-law of a young Terre flautentot sat down on a bent pin the other evening. His smile as he hastily arose and said, "I think it is cooler near the window love," was sweet but sad. The boy onte a nillow in his chair this weak

A newly married Terre Haute man received a letter from his wife's mother recently, declining an invitation to make her home with them, and not even his most intimate friend detected a look of grief in his eye. Ho even smiled occasionally during the day. Some can smile with a brokan house

Henry Clay had a standing joke, which he never failed to perpetrate at John Quincy Adams's expense, when he caught his Massachusetts colleague in a congenial crowd. Adams was afflicted during his whole life with a disease of the lachrymal duet, which caused his optics to be constantly watery. The two occupied the same apartment, and a rosy and buxom Swiss damsel attended the room. Clay's story was that, upon his attempting to snatch a kiss from his handsome chambermaid, he was bluffed off with, "Oh, Mr. Clay, you must not, for Mr. Adams a few minutes ago, begged me with tears in his eyes, for a similar faver, and I refused him!"

The Rev. Moncure D. Conway, in a recent letter from London to the Cincinnati Commercial, says: "Mr. Spurgeon is credited with the following which if not true is ben trovato. He is said to have been taken to task by some Sabbatarian since he has found it necessary to employ a brougham to take him to church. 'But,' he urged, 'I only sit in the carriage—I don't work.' 'Ah, yes, sir,' said the other, 'but your coachman—think of him!' 'Oh, he is a Jew, and keeps the seventh day Sabbath.' But your horse?' 'Oh,' said Spurgeon getting a little impatient 'he is a Jow too!' This reminds me of another little story going the rounds concerning one of our Broad Church clergymen, who being recently on an excursion in Scotland, was vehemently rebuked by his landlady for taking a walk on Sunday afternoon. The clergyman said that he could not see the The clergyman said that he could not see the harm, and replied. 'You know that our Lord himself walked with His disciples in the field on the Subbath day.' 'Ay,' said the old lady, 'ay, I ken it, an' I ne'er thocht any the better o' him for it neither!'.'

The following amusing scene occurred in a police court: The prisoner in this case, whose name was Dickey Swivel, alias "Stove Pipe Pete," was placed at the bar, and questioned by the judge to the following effect: Judge.—Bring the prisoner into court. Pete—Here I am, bound to blazes, as the spirits of turpentine said, when he was all as free. wo will take a little of the fire out of you. How do you live?

What is your business? That's various, as the cat said when she stole the chicken off the table.

If I hear any more absurd comparisons, I will give you twelve months.
