The Presbytery of Cedar met in Linn Grove. Rev. Luther Dodd was elected Moderator. Mr. D. Mitchell, a candidate under our care, was dismissed to the Presbytery of Nassau. Mr. A. S. Presbytery of Huntingdon. This body met at Altoona on Tuesday, the 6th, and continued their sessions to Thursday noon.
Pastor D. X. Junkin opened the Presbytery with a sermon from Luke xxii: 32; "When thou art converted, strengthen thy brethren." From the opening to the close, the sessions were harmonious and pleasant, and we trust profitable. Much ordinary business, and a good deal of extra business, was done. An impressive discourse was delivered, on Tuesday night, on Chinese Missions. by the Rev. M. S. Calbertson, of Ningpo. A good sermon on the Scripture Scheme of Benefience, was preached by Rev. G. W. Thompson. An interesting prayer meeting and Presbyterial conference in regard to the causes and the remedies of the low state of religion in the churches, was held. Very encouraging results of the itin-erant mission supported by the Presbytery, were verified; and although much to the regret of the Presbytery, Mr. Elliott retires from this work, Presbytery resolved to promote it, and to employ other laborers. The Rev. D. L. Hughes was released from his pastoral charge at Spruce Creek and Sinking Valley, and Rev. N. Shotwell from that of East Kishacoquillas. Rev. M. Floyd and Dr. D. X. Junkin, ministers, and Messrs. Baird and Dysart, elders, were appointed Commissioners to the next General Assembly. The accom panying resolutions on Temperance, and the Oath, were adopted. The Times.

Our Banks, with the exception of the old Pittsburgh and the new Allegheny, decline to pay specie; but they all do business, and are regarded as sound. The Brokers stand firm, and do a currency" business. Our merchants and manufacturers manage to meet or to defer payments, so as not to fail. But all suffer. The business transacted is greatly less than usual. Manufacturers are reducing their operations, and either discharging large portions of their hands, or putting them on short time.

There is a great want of confidence, which causes a difficulty in making exchanges, transmitting funds and in making sales, at distant places. Men do not know in what houses or institutions to confide. The revulsion in business is deep and extensive. It will require some weeks, perhaps some months longer, for things to settle down to order. Mercantile confidence is indispensable to the healthful and extended business of the country. But it had become too great. It is now too small. It must grow again. It will grow, as the basis adequate to sustain it shall be discovered. The distress in money matters has not yet reached its crisis. Up to Tuesday at 3 o'clock, thirteen of the New York Banks had given way, and a general suspension was contemplated. A few of the old Banks spoke of holding out, but at 10 P. M., the Presidents were in consultation, with a view to a general stoppage of specie payments; under this expectation, stocks had may than the case will justify. Let but cought to be explained from the pulpit with greater lize a suspension, because the State Constitution makes it a forfeiture of charter. This difficulty is likely to be obviated, in some cases, by creditor friends of the Banks obtaining injunctions against their making payments; but this would seem to be at the expense of closing them while the iniunction continued.

The Bostonians were much excited by the suspension in New York, but were likely to follow the example. It is a terrible crash.

An Important Arrangement. We see it stated that the Associated Press of New York is arranging to intercept the steamers. from Europe, off Cape Race, and send their news hence by telegraph. A large majority of the steamers, from England, France, and Germany, pass within ten to fifteen miles of the Cape. The plan is, to have a yacht there, duly manued and provided, to hail each steamer. There will be pre-arrangement with the steamers to have the news ready, and drop it on a float, to be instantly picked up and carried to land. It will then be forwarded by the New York and Newfoundland Telegraph Line, and will thus reach us in six or eight days from its leaving Europe. The entorprise and liberality of the Press demands the ratitude of the country.

There were lamentable accounts circulated of amine in Liberia. Considering them not duly authenticated, we did not aid in spreading them. t now appears that they were inventions, or exaggerations. The Baltimore Patriot says:

The Colonization ship Mary Caroline Slevens, at this port, brings advices from Liberia to the 21st of August. Among the passengers brought by her were the Rev. John Seys, the Rev. Mr. Horne, and the Rev. Mr. Rambo, all of whom give gratifying accounts of the prosperity of the new Republic. The recent account of starvation is fully disproved, some of the recent emigrants writing home that they never saw finer crops of corn and other grain than they had seen since their arrival in Africa. Flour had rown rather scarce, and dealers had consequenty put up the prices, but potatoes and other rticles were abundant, and famine the last thing thought of.

Kansas.

The State Election, held on the 1st inst., has esulted, probably, in the choice of Parrot, the Republican candidate, for Congress, and of a majority of Republicans to each House of the Legislature. Reports, however, are quite contradictory, and the political cast of the Legislature is still doubtful. The election seems to have been conducted without violence.

The Election of Tuesday.

Our city was very quiet. The vote not large. Returns come in slowly. The Republicans bave carried Allegheny County, by small majorities, except the County Commissioner. So says report. Packer is elected Governor, most evidently, by large majority. The State offices are likely all von by the Democrate

The Pennsylvania Legislature and Relief. After a very exciting session, the Legislature adjourned on Tuesday night. A Relief Bill was passed by a vote of 18 to 13 in the Senate, and fifty-five to thirty-six in the House. It legalizes the suspension, and gives the Banks till the 3d Monday of April next to resume specie payments. The new Legislature will then have had time to Foreign Intelligence.

The Atlantic, with Liverpool advices to the 30th ult., reached New York on the 12th. The news from India was still gloomy. The British troops seem to be performing wonders; but they were still but few in number; and discase, as well as the sword, was cutting them off rapidly. To perform long marches, and fight hard battles, and to repel violent sorties from day to day, under a Tropical sau in the months of July and August, must be to those born and reared in Europe, terrific. How it can be endured, and how victories can be achieved, fighting one against ten, seems to us almost incredible. The physical energy, valor, skill, and dogged obstinney of the English troops, is wonderful. Sir R. M. Carden has been elected Lord Mayor der in the Presbyterian church of Union. Her sickness was short, and her call sudden but not so sudden as to find her unprepared. Sh had served her Saviour, meekly and quietly, for forty years: and the Friend she had trusted so long, did not desert her, we have reason to think, in the hour of trial. She has left a husband, and a large family, to mourn her loss, and walk in the light of her Christian example. May their end. and ours, be as peaceful. DIED-In Argyle, Washington County, N. Y Sabbath, September 20th, Miss Jane R. Harsha, in the 28th year of her age.

In the language of the kind physician, who attended her in her last illness, "Angels were around her during the day, and as the sun sank ease, he had been compelled to return to Cawn-porc. A doubtful dispatch states that Havelock ture, bearing the spirit of our dear voung friend ture, bearing the spirit of our dear young friend with them to glory." Her end was peace. Her last words were, having just bid her weeping friends an affectionate farewell, " Now go away, and leave me with my Saviour." Endowed by God, with most amiable qualities of heart, and lovely traits of character, she won the esteem and affection of all who knew her. All now mourn her loss, and are ready to join and say, in the words of the poet:

- " Bright be the place of thy soul, No lovelier spirit than thine E'er burst from its mortal control. In the orbs of the blessed to shine.
- "On earth thou wert almost Divine. As thy soul shall immortally be; And our sorrow shall cease to repine, When we know that thy God is with thee.
- " Light be the turf on thy tomb, May its verdure like emeralds be; There should not be a shadow of gloom In aught that reminds us of thee.
- " Bright flowers and an evergreen tree May spring from the spot of thy rest. But no cypress nor yew let us see, For why should we mourn for the blest? We hope to meet her in glory.

DIED-Of apoplexy, October 1st, in the 23d year of her age, Mrs. ELIZABETH MARKER, wife of Mr. George C. Marker, of Ligonier, and daughter of Robert and Eliza Caldwell, of Laughlinstown

Mrs. Marker was a consistent member Ligonier Presbyterian church. Though death claimed his victim young, and without a moment of warning, yet the surviving relatives may indulge a good hope, that their departed friend has passed from earth to heaven-from a world of sorrov and misery, to one of happiness and bliss. To this family, afflictions have not come singly.

About a year since, Mrs. Caldwell was left a widow; then death claimed a son, then a grandchild, then a daughter, the mother of this child; and now another daughter, in the bloom of life and the fullness of health, is smitten down. May "God temper the blast to the shorn lamb," and cause, that these afflictions may work out for the bereaved "a far more exceeding and eternal weight

DIED—In his 21st year, at the Indiana House, Indiana, Pa., on Monday, September 14th, of typhoid fever, James O., second son of Robert nd Mary Alexander; his mortal remains were conveyed to Williamsburg, Blair County, Pa., (the residence of his parents,) for interment.

Mr. Alexander was a young man of promise and though just starting out in life, had already obtained a reputation by the morality of his principles and his exemplary conduct; and had secured many friends by his amiable disposition and gentlemanly deportment. His illness, at first, was not of a character t cause much anxiety, but subsequently, from drinking ice water, the most malignant form of typhoid fever was induced. He continued for several days in a state of delirium, (the result of the disease) with but few lucid intervals; when these ensued, he was engaged in preparation for that change which it was evident awaited him. About two hours before he breathed his last, entire coniousness appeared to possess his mind; the opportunity was embraced by a friend to resume religious conversation with him, to which he was attentive, and the impression was made, that he entertained a hope; but the rapid decline of his physical strength precluded as much conversation as was desired, and soon, with apparent composure and resignation, without a struggle, he expired; not among strangers; though from home. friends were there; and also his father, sister and his uncle, James Alexander, of Blairsville, Indiana County, who had been notified of his illness. were there to administer to his spiritual and temporal welfare, and we trust his spirit was transported, by angels, to the regions of the

DIED-Of a hidden and lingering disease, on the evening of the 18th of September, Mrs. Nancy R. C. Stockton, wife of the Rev. John Stockton, D. D., pastor of the Presbyterian church of Cross Creek, Washington County, Pa., in the 53d year of her age. The deceased was a daughter of James Clark,

Esq., a highly respectable citizen of Franklin County, Pa., who lived and died near Mercersburg. Upon the death of her parents, near the same time-which occurred when she was approaching womanhood—the family were scattered, and she found a temporary home in the family of her guardian, the late Major John Brownson. Her removal to Washington County, along with her brothers and sisters, was followed, after the lapse of a few years, by her marriage in 1831, an event which brought her into most happy union with a husband, now crushed under the sorrows of bereavement, and also invested her with the responsibilities of a pastor's wife, in a very large and important congregation. For more than a quarter of a century, she fulfilled the duties of this double relation, with a meek quietness and an unobtrusive fidelity, which endeared her, by ever-strengthening ties, to all with whom she came into familiar contact, and especially to the circle of home, where, as a wife and mother, she was the centre of confidence and affection. Her habitual disposition to silence, in the presence of strangers, prevented the extensive knowledge of her virtues; but in the narrower sphere of her own preference, these virtues were only the more powerfully developed, bearing their ripe fruit in the substantial benefit and happiness of son who died in infancy. She lived to see her efforts crowned and her prayers answered, in the hopeful conversion of all these, save one; and that one was earnestly remembered in the same faith which sustained her own last sorrows. Three of her sons have been graduated in Washington College, the last having received his degree only two days before her departure to a brighter world. The fragrance of a mother's prayers will accompany him to the Theological Seminary, where he is about to seek preparation for that ministry, to which her wishes, uniting with his own purpose, had consecrated him.

The piety of the subject of this notice was deep, uniform, and abiding. Its exhibition was not in noisy display, but in calm trust in the merits of Christ, and the conscientious discharge of every duty. Her decline of health covering a of its mission as the instrument to accomplish the more entire subjection of her spirit to the will of God, and her closer communion with her chosen and beloved Saviour. It was employed by the II-le Saviour. It was employed the second of th will of God, and her closer communion with her chosen and beloved Saviour. It was employed by the Holy Spirit to wean her from the endearments of earth, and to perfect her fitness for the joys to come. The progress of her disease was distinctly marked with increased freedom in religious conversation, and it pleased her Heavenly Father, who alone foresaw the period of her sudden departure, to make the last day of her life one of peculiar ease and tranquility, a day mainly employed in unreserved communion with her closest earthly friend, upon the subject of her spiritual state and her heavenly hopes. She died as she had lived, reposing upon the merits of Jesus alone for salvatien, and leaving no doubts in the minds of surviving friends respecting her safety and glory in heaven.

In the consensation of the subject of Jesus alone for salvatien, and leaving no doubts in the minds of surviving friends respecting her safety and glory in heaven.

The funeral of Mrs. Stockton was a peculiarly solemn and affecting occasion. Seven ministerial brethren met, without concert, to sympathise with their afflicted brother, all of whom took part in the religious services. The solemn procession, consisting of almost an entire congregation who seemed to regard the affliction as their own, and many from abroad, moved to the church, own, and many from abroad, moved to the church, and there, preparatory to the interment, in praise, prayer, and exhortation, God's name was praised, his grace was invoked, and his providential will was interpreted and applied. A sacred stillness reigned over the large assembly during these services, whilst many were melted to tears. God was in the congregation of his people. The occasion will long be remembered as one of unusual interest and power. May the God of all grace follow it with his richest blessing in every able one-half in advance.
