For the Presbyterian Banner and Advocate. The Synod of Ohio.

As you know, Mr. Editor, this body met in Wooster, Wayne County, on Thursday, October 15th, and continued in session until the following Monday evening. At your request, I note a few particulars of its doings. as well as something about the town in which it met, and the long railroad ride that some of us had in getting there!

Taking the Central Ohio Road for Newark, we were dashed along at the rate of thirty miles per hour, Westward; but, to our disappointment, the train from Newark to Mansfield had left just ten minutes before on to Columbus, the rest debarked at Newark. We had but a few minute's delay at our Capital. Finding a train bound for Cleveland, we went aboard, and were soon on our way for Crestline, sixty miles Northward. This is one of the finest roads in the State. It is straight and smooth, and we darted over it at the rate of forty-five miles per hour! The country around is flat and monotonous, and most of it covered with forests, exceedingly dense and beautiful. A slight frost, and the cool October winds, had tinged the leaves on the trees, and the grass and corn, with Autumn's richest yellow, red and crimson, filling the mind with a pleas-ing melanuholy, and leading it to contemplate that beautifully expressed, but solemn admonition of Scripture: "We all do fade as the leaf, and our iniquities, like the wind, have taken us away." But, blessed be God, there is a grace that can make us to become evergreens—trees planted by the rivers of water, covered with leaves that never fade, and crowned with fruits that never fail-a grace that secures to the soul an inheritance incorruptible, undefiled, and that fadeth not away. There is, indeed, beauty in Autumn, though associated with thoughts of death; and no other season of the year has lessons more significant and solemn. Let us, then, try and understand them, and be wise, considering well our latter end.

room, made comfortable by the largest stove us. I ever saw; and we all started for Wooster, having been constituted the evening before. they did not make their appearance until trouble them, either with pen or tongue. late in the afternoon, having found this place, via Mansfield, on hog and coal trains, as best they could!

tor, from the words, "Ye are the salt of the earth." We did not hear the sermon, but heard it well spoken of.

Rev. J. M. Faris was chosen Moderator. by acclamation, and Messrs. Smith and Johnston, Clerks. Most of the ministers were present; but there was a sad dereliction on the part of the elders. A majority from the churches were c ing. Peace reigns throughout our borders; not the peace of death, but of love. No iudicial business was reported. Additions can be made. have been made to all the churches, both by examination and letter; and some of the churches report accessions as high as eighty, fifty, thirty, twenty, &c. Only one minister died during the year, and he was an aged father of four score.

Our Synod has in it some venerable and much-loved members. Allow me to name fathers, Lowe, Rollen, Hanna, and Hoge. These are all wise, safe, and good menmen whom we love to honor, counsel, and follow. May God long spare their lives, that they may meet with, and direct us in our Synodical deliberations! But a large majority of us are young men, or men in the prime and vigor of life. Each may have his own peculiar excellence or defect: but all are one at heart and purpose, as to the nature and object of their great commission. A close reader of human nature might, indeed, detect the inkling of a panchant, here and there, as to who shall be greatest. This can be seen in certain affected movements, or in a would be thought dignified deportment, that all must recog-nize as sad aberrations from the good old ways in which grace and simplicity are wont to go. I say nothing here of diction and dress, lest, in animadverting upon such things as slouched-hats, fringed shawls, and long, red, and foxy beards, I should forget that there is no accounting for, nor disputing about, tastes.

I leave these, and pass to things more pleasing. Of the eight times we have attended Synod, this, to us, was by far the most delightful and devotional. There was more prayer-more preaching of the right kind-more Christian feeling-more humility and brotherly kindness manifest among all the members present, than we ever saw before. On the Sabbath, the Lord's Supper was administered to two or three hundred communicants. It was a solemn time, and good to be there. I wish I had room to by the last General Assembly, was received and give the reader but a tithe of the great entered on the roll. truths that came from the Moderator's lips, as he preached the "Action Sermon," from the words of Jesus, "I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly." It was clear, pointed, rich, and Scriptural. It was food for souls; it fed mine. The same was true of nearly all that was said by other ministers on this in the afternoon, on Sabbath, by the esteem- received, and laid on the table. ed pastor of the Westminster church of Cleveland, was an original, elequent, and powerful exposition of that wonderful passage recorded in 2. Cor. iii: 18 The sermon on "Missions," by Rev. M. C. Anderson, was, indeed, a masterly effort, as orignal in structure as it was peculiar in delivery. It was listened to with marked attention. We had a sermon on Friday night, by one if we had more such sermons, sinners would flock to Christ! Nor must we forget the singing, and at. tendance of the congregation of Wooster. The house, which is a large, neatly-finished, and beautiful edifice, was thronged every night, and at the delivery of every sermon. There is an excellent choir and organ in the church. But these only led. All seemed to sing. Never before did 1 near such that the sing suages.

efforts in singing the praises of the Most High. There was a simple grandeur about it all, that we consider highly commendable. It is not beyond the truth to say, that this choir, in the church of Wooster, evinced more good taste and good sense, and made more good music during the sittings of Synod, than it has ever before been our privi lege to witness, on a similar occasion. On Monday afternoon, the subject of Slavery came before Synod, by a report from the Committee of Bills and Overtures, and was most pleasantly and harmoniously disposed of, in a few minutes, by a resolution re affirming the Act of the General Assemour arrival. Three of us determined to go sing the views of Synod, touching the evils bly of 1818, on this subject, as fully expresof the system of Slavery. This action of the highest Court of our Church, was regarded by all as a finality; and that those who would not be persuaded by it, that our great and noble Church stands on anti-slavery grounds, would not be persuaded though one arose from the dead to attest it, and much less by any immature or hasty action of ours.

If we could judge anything of the animus of the Synod when deliberating on this matter, we can assure all, both North and South, that our brethren do, to a man, deprecate the agitation of this subject, both in our Church Judicatories and Journals, as a measure entirely unnecessary, impracticable of good, and tending only to unprofitable disputes, and reprehensible misunderstanding among brethren. Like, among ships, the Great Eastern, that runs so deep in the sea as to be below the waves that roll before the disturbing winds-so let our Church be among Churches, moving onward amid the agitations around her, that have shaken to pieces and engulfed other churches, and making the port, with her valued cargo of souls, without a sail rent or a mast sprung!

Having learned a lesson from the sad wreck of Churches and Institutions about us, and having seen the distorted countenances, and the awful sea sickness of out brethren in their rocking ships, let us be content with our full sails, calm seas, and With such reflections, we came to Crest- clear skies, feeling that Jesus, the Master line. Baltimore.

This city has long been afflicted with lawlessness, breaking forth in riots. The spirit of disorder has been so violent on election occasions, as to interfere with the freedom which is the proper right of every citizen in the choice of officers. An immense excitement has prevailed in anticipation of the approaching election. The Governor to preserve the peace, issued his proclamation, and ordered out a large military force. The Mayor resisted. Many of the officers declared they would not obey the Governor. The Governor and Mayor are different in their politics. It argues illy for the peace and purity of our country when its executive officers are controlled in their enforcement of the laws and in obedience to their requirements, by party political attachments. On this occasion the Governor has yielded and withdrawn his proclamation. The respon sibility hence rests with the Mayor to protect the rights of voters.

the post of teachers and professors. They may be eniment men, but their pupils will never be. If a man is a very indifferent performer, yet teaches his pupils to perform admirably, the parent has his reward; but what use for a scholar to be always boasting of whom he took lessons, and never showing it. Mr. Fisher showed by a few pieces, he played, that he had had good teaching, and his pupils did their teacher all the credit he could wish, or their parents ask.

The experiment of having a master in music, first tried in this vicinity, by Mrs. French, has proven more than successful, and her example will doubtless be followed by others. Indeed, it is to be hoped that "excelsior" will still be inscribed on the banner of the "Olome," and a very other Institution for the advancement of Female Education, and that a generous spirit of emulation, and a reasonable competition, and a proper desire to secure the public patronage, will more and more keep toward perfection the greatest and best of causes.
