tiqued for more than three years, and resulted in on the 19th of May. the establishment of the Park Street church, in necestling to human judgment, in the beginning. The movers were not only young men, and few in number, but also of no commanding influence, and possessing small resources. Only ten persons were present at the meeting on the 6th, of February, 1809, when the erection of the Park Street church was determined on. This church was built for the Rev. Dr. Kollock. a Presbyterian minister of Savannab, Georgie, who had visited this city in the previous year, in company with the late Dr. Archibald Alexander. The preaching of both, but especially of Dr. Kollock, although a young man of twenty-three, and yet a Doctor in Divinity, had produced a wonderful impression. His preaching was distinguished by great eloquence, fervor, and power. But the efforts to secure the labors of Dr. Kollock failed, when an invitation was given to the Rev. Dr. Griffin, then a pastor in Newark, N. J. At first the Presbytery refused to sanction his removal; but consented upon his appointment to the Bartlett Professorship of Pulpit Eloquence, in the then new Seminary at Andover. Dr. Griffin began his labors immediately afterwards, but was not installed as pastor until July 31, 1811. NEW YORK.

The Departures to Europe, for the Summer, have just commenced. Among others who left in the Arago, last Saturday, were Prof. Wm. Henry Green, of Princeton Theological Seminary, | Rev. James W. McKennan has received and lady.

A Herculean labor is before the Mayor, in the evils staring him in the face, and for the removal of which he is making the most determined efforts. There are said to be at least six hundred Lottery Dealers, in some form or other, in the city. And although the illegality of the business and its penalty were well known, they had been so long unmolested, that the ruingus traffic was carried on without much attempt at concealment. But last week the police began the work in earrest, and during the first day no fewer than fiftyeight arrests were made, and almost an equal number on the day following. Terror begins to seize the whole band, and a few days more of equal success will do much to rid the city of one intolerable class of nuisances, for the time at made to feel the full penalty of the law, and to know that they are in danger of apprehension if they return to the old business, or the alarm willbe merely temporary, and result in no permanent benefit.

The people have been for a month past looking forward, with a good deal of anxiety for the decision of the Commissioners of the Central Park. with respect to the thirty three plans proposed for the improvement of its seven hundred acres. The first prize of $2,000 was given to Messrs. C. Vaux and Frederick Law Olmsted, for the most approved designs within the estimated expenses. Mr. Olmsted is the actual Superintendent of the Park, and Mr. Vaux is well known as the partner of the late Mr. A. J. Downing, the pieneer of landscape gardening and rural architecture in the United States, and also as the architect of some of the finest new buildings in the city. The benefit this Park might be made to afford toward relieving the lungs, delighting the eyes, and improving the tastes of the multitudes that will inhabit the great city, cannot be easily estimated. And yet to prevent it from becoming the resort of the dissolute, a place of unmitigated rowdyism, and a plea for wholesale Sabbathbreaking, under municipal authority, will be no easy task. Oh, for the time when Satan will no longer pervert nature and art to his own use!

This reminds us of the Sunday Newspapers, of which six or eight are now published in this city, having an aggregate weekly circulation of two hundred thousand copies, reaching certainly, in the city and various parts of the land, half a Rev. JOSEPH WARREN, D.D., has been million of readers every week, with their corrupting induences. For it is sad to say that the great staple of most of these journals is generally lust and crime. The present revival, and efforts toward a better observance of the Lord's day, are the special objects at which their malignant arrows are now aimed. No misrepresentation is too great, no artifice is too mean, and no wit is too low, to be employed by them to awaken opposition to the progress of true religion, or to endeavor to bring contempt on the Sabbath movement. No person, character, or profession, is safe from their slander. As a matter of course, the only permanent corrective is to be found in a healthful public sentiment, that will not encourage such vile productions; but the law is now abundantly competent to shut up the shops where they are sold, and to stop the mouths of the one thousand newsboys that disturb the quiet of the street, and not unfrequently the church of God, in crying their papers.

The Fourth Ward is only less famous for its Political Brawls, than the Sixth; but it is considered the most depraved and degraded portion of the city, in pauperism, debauchery, and crime. Indeed, some of the lower parts of this Ward are said to be "sunk below the lowest depth the Five Points ever fathomed." Yet the Board of school officers in this modern Sodom have unanimously passed the following resolution: Resolved, That the reading of the Bible be dispensed with in all the schools of this Ward."

Now the controlling mass of this population, the voters by whom this enlightened (?) Board was elected, do not send their children to school; they have other employment for them in the Rev. J. F. SMITH has received and accepted streets and at the wharves. But it is the class just above them that does send children to the common schools, that never has uttered a word of Rev. J. K. Kost of the Evangelical Luthcomplaint against the reading of the Scriptures in school, and that has to submit to the tyranny of this odious majority. Some explanation of this state of things may be found in the fact that all the public school officers in the Ward, and thirty of the thirty four teachers, are Roman Catholics! To them it may be well said: "Ye have taken away the key of knowledge; ye entered not in yourselves, and them that were entering in ye hindered."

The Associate Reformed Church is by no means a unit in the proposed union with the Associate Church. The Presbytery of New York is a large and respectable component part of that body. At its meeting held at Newburgh, on the 20th ult., the Presbytery decided with but one dissent.

While the pubimportant results have been more unpromising, lie prayer-meetings are not so large as formerly, the meetings in the different churches are well attended, and the usual means of grace are accomplishing a blessed work.

PHILADELPHIA.

This City is rapidly losing the high character it formerly held for peace, quietness, and safety. Burglary, arson, and murder, have become so common as to excite but little surprise. The people must rouse themselves to duty, elect the proper officers, hold them to a strict accountability, and rally around them when maligned and Bishop Potter has been compelled to retire again from the active duties of his large Episcopate, on account of continued ill health. He has sailed for Europe, taking along with him his wife and three sons, with the hope that residence abroad and freedom from pressing and anxious cares, may restore him, with the Divine blessing, to his usual health and strength.

Prof. Henry D. Rogers, our State Geologist, who has been for some time in Europe preparing his work on the geology of Pennsylvania for the press, has so far completed it, that it will be handed to the binder, in Philadelphia, in May that beginning! Previous to that time there was or June. DIED-At Canonsburg, on the 17th ult., Mr. Class in Jefferson College.

He was an amiable youth, of studious habits, and exemplary character. When taken sick he was without a hope in Christ; but during the precious reviving with which the institution was visited, after the day of prayer for Colleges, his mind became deeply interested on the subject of religion, and he was brought to express the hope, with much confidence, that he had given himself wholly away to Christ, and could trust in him for salvation. As this hope was expressed before Borhave's Holland Bitters. Take half a tea- any apprehensions were entertained as to the fatal spoonful regularly, one hour before meals; eat termination of his disease, there is the more reamoderately; take a short walk before breakfast, son to believe that it was well founded. May his bereaved parents and friends be comforted, and may his early death be received as a message from God by all who knew aged 18 years, 10 months, and 5 days. This dear child, so early called away, was the eldest daughter of Rev. J. L. Scott, and Mrs. C. M. Scott, missionaries to Northern India. She was born at the Mission Station, Allahabad, June 16, 1839, and with her sister, came to America, July 1848. They came bereaved and lonely; for even as they journeyed, God called the true and tender mother, the fond companion of their hor ward voyage: She who had hoped to lead them to her native land, went to "a better country, even an heavenly," there to meet the reward of the faithful—the Master's smile, the crown of life. Loving hearts at once received these little motherless ones, and her early home and early friends, became their own. Amy's childhood was one of romise, and her riper years fulfilled it. Gifted not only with sweet personal graces, but rarest ones of heart and mind, she grew up in her American home, beloved and cherished. Hers was a nature of the finest mold, tastes and sensibilities exquisite and refined, genius of no comnon stamp, a heart affectionate and true, and ways of winning loveliness. Who that knew this dear child, will not say she was indeed one of the arrived at New York. They bring no news of fairest blossoms Heaven ever lent to earth! Consecrated to God, in infancy, by pious parents surrounded by every religious influence and privlege which a Christian home could give Amy's opening years found her not unmindful of the ' pearl of price." Much that she said and wrote n those early days, prove this; and well and tearfully remembered now is a little gem of poetry which fell from her graceful pen. It was addressed to her sister and brother (who had then but recently joined them;) and the burden of this little poem was the prayer, that they all might become lambs in the Good Shepherd's fold. The prayer is answered; the dear children who strayed so far from the missionary's home-fold. are safe within the covenant of love, and now one tender lamb God has taken to the blest fold above. On the 22d of June, 1856, Amy connected herself with the Presbyterian church, Chest. nut Hill. Philadelphia, under the pastoral care of 500,000 is to be paid into a sinking fund toward Rev. R. Owen, and having professed Christ not the war debt, the total expenditure would amount merely in lip-service, but from the heart, she merely in lip-service, but from the heart, she walked in him until the day of her death. It has been said, the fairest flowers are the frailest. It was thus with our sweet flower fair indeed, but oh, how fragile! The earnest mir lifting up so eagerly its bright aspirings; the > tiful but frail prison. And it may be, their flut terings made it all the frailer. On the 25th of December last, Amy, accompanied by her sister, returned from Norton, Mass., where they had been at school. Her health was failing, and it was thought rest and the sweet nursings of home were needed. So, back to the bosom of those faithful friends-those friends whose devoted affection had brightened the child. hood of her own sainted mother-dear Amy came, seemed to grow brighter and better. But there came a change. Ah, why recal the mournful changes of that sad decline? The hopes that brightened one day; the fears that shaded the next; the anxious vigils, and the yearning prayers; the weaning of the young heart itself, from a world which seemed fair and pleasant Gently a gracious Saviour led our sweet Amy through all the steps of a weary sickness: and when she came to the verge of the dark valley, her soul was full of submission, and she was burgh and Philadelphia, and is adapted to general circulating in the Presbyterian Church.

The Basson is published weekly, in the cities of Prits burgh and Philadelphia, and is adapted to general circulating in the Presbyterian Church. her soul was full of submission, and she was ready to depart. "I have sometimes thought I would love to get well again," she said, "but I do not feel so now; I want God's will to be done; I am not afraid to die; dying will be but going home, going home to be with my dear Saviour; oh, how sweet that will be." To her little brother (when returning to his distant school,) she talked cheerfully and comfortingly, saying she might indeed never see him again, but he should remember she was not a raid to die; her trust was in Jesus, and he would not forsake her. Amy's message to her father—a faithful laborer in a far away and troubled field—was full of comfort, bearing to his heart the sweet assurance that with her, all was peace. And to her only sister, whose young heart was knit to hers in tenderest, dearest ties—between whom and her, self no separation ever yet had come, and who word of comfort.
