Commerce and Navigation.

The Eiscal or Commercial year of the United States, for 1859, closed on the 30th of June. To this date the Commerce and Navigation returns of the year will be made up at the Treasury Department, but will not be officially published until the 'meeting of the next Congress. We venture, therefore, with the semi official data of the trade of the port of New York for the year before us, and the aid of other information in regard to the general movement of trade at the Southern ports, to anticipate the result so far as it may, be done by mere estimate on both sides the account. The impression has been made pretty general that the Import entries of the country. are excessive for the year—and they certain! are large by comparison with the returns for June 30, 1858, the close of a season of revulsion -but in this rather one sided view, the fact has been overlooked that the Export clearances have been overlooked that the Export dearances have nearly or quite kept pace with the consumption of Foreign Goods, notwithstanding the partial failure of the Breadstuffs movement. It is with sides the account together before our readers, and to show that the Specie export of the year has already nearly or quite equalized the two, that we have compiled the following estimates. With the exception of the port of New York, where the returns are nearly exact, "the last where the returns are nearly 'exact, "(the last week in June only being assumed,) the figures are submitted as mere estimates, but are believed to be in the main well based.

FADVERTISEMENT. I Age and Debility.

As old age comes creeping on, it brings many attendant infirmities. Loss of appetite and weakness impair the health, and want of activity makes the mind discontented and unhappy. In cases where old age adds its influence, it is almost impossible to add vigor and health and although many remedies have been tried, all have failed, until Boerhave's Holland Bitters were known and used. In every case where they have been employed they have invariably given strength and restored the appetite. They have become a great agent for this alone, and are used by many people who are suffering from loss of appetite and general debility. In cases of long standing chronic diseases, they act as a charm, invigorating the system, thus giving nature another opportunity to repair physical injuries. She, with her husband, removed from Eastern Virginia onal across the Isthmus of Suez. The French Consul had protested against this interference.

A dispatch from Berlin states that six Prussian corps de armee, besides the guard, are to be mobilized and three others kept in reserve to oppose Russia, if necessary. All the other corps will be concentrated and only a sufficient number of troops left in the provinces to garrison the towns and fortresses.

Various bulletins from the seat of war present the following as the state of affairs: The Sardinian army is in position before Brescia in the line with the signed; but her strong desire was "to depart and be with Christ," She waited but a few days, and her change cam Death had no terrors. PIOTORIAL Diorionany.—A new and pictorial edition of Webster's great American Dictionary is now in press, and is soon to be issued by the enterprising publishers, G. & C.
Merriam, of Springfield. It is evidently their purpose that no expense or labor shall be wanting on their part to keep up the superiority and high reputation of this standard, work, over every other of the kind in the language. Many thousands of new words have been added to its vocabulary, and much new matter in the illustration and discrimination of synonyms. Some fifteen hundred or more beautiful pictorial illustrations have been introduced into the work which will add much to its value. We have seen specimen sheets of these illustrations, and can hardly see how they

"An examination of proofs has convinced us that this is by far the most perfect form which any Dictionary bas every assumed. All the ingeneity eyer applied to language will not give that idea of a mechanical device which a simple cut will do. It is almost impossible for the most intelligent mind to gets clear idea of a metope, a crotchet, a hip, or queen post roof, or anything else in architecture, from a definition, while a small engraving brings it up at once. The illustrations of the new crition are copious and truly excellent, in full keeping with the superiority of a great standard work. Several thousand new words have also been added to it, so that it is not possible to imagine a more perfect, work of the kind. For reference in schoole, and for the young it is possessed of a very peculiar value"—Phila: Daily Evening Bulletin.

THE CORALITE AND POSCELAIR
TESTH have now been extensively tested by the citizens of Pittsburgh, and the verdict in their favor is unanimous.

Many have laid aside teeth mounted on gold plate to avail themselves of the improvements embraced in these new and beautiful style of dentistry.

Their superiority consists mainly in their perfect adaptation to the mouth; their perfect cleanlines, being without crack or crevice for food to find lodgment, and made of a material on which the juices of the mouth cannot set. They are free from all metallic tasts, corrosion, or targish, and do not affect the breath. They also combine great strength with lightness, comfort and elegance. This, with their close resemblance to natural teeth, render the with most desirable substitutes for these organs ever offered. An examination will fully confirm all that has been said in their praise.

"Typology of Scripture," &c.

From the Rev. M. W. Jacobus, D.D., Professor of Oriental and Biblical Literature and Exegesis in the Western Theological Seminary, Allegheny, Pa., (Presbyterian,) author of "Notes on the Gospels," &c.

I regard Fairbairn's Hermenentical Manual as a valuable aid in Biblical study, discussing important points with thoroughness and clearness, opening difficult terms and passaces, and setting forth in the true light certain great principles of interpretation about which many are in the dark.

I shall be gled to direct the attention of our students to dark.

I shall be glad to direct the attention of our students it as a reliable and excellent Manual in this department. From the Rev. T. V. Moore, D.D., Richmond, Va., author of the able Commentary on "Tue Prophets of the Restore I have for a number of years been familiar with the critical writings of Professor Fairbairn, and I regard him as one of the finest exegetical writers now living. He combines Scottish good sense and German erudition: to a very remarkable degree. Hence he has precisely the training that, would enable him to give a fresh and suggestive work on Hermenutics. Such a work I consider his Manual to be. Without going into any tedious detail, it presents the points that are important to a student. There is a breadth of view, a clearness and manilizes of thought, and a ripeness of learning, that make the work one of peculiar freshness and interest. I consider it a very valuable addition to every student's library.
