After reviewing the grounds of peace as proplaimed by the two Emperors, he said that as England did not think it was for here to interfer in the peace, the saidlife of a province by Austria did not effect the state of affairs of Europe sufficiently to warrant the interference of the neutral gowers.

The most important part of the Tracty, however, related to the future of Italy, and the invitation of the Emperor Napoleon to England to enter the Congress, to consult on the actual state of affairs in Italy, quite irrespective of the terms of the projects of reform entertained by the Emperor of Napoleon to England had not consented, to join the Congress, and could not until they saw the result of the conference at the provincial councils of the Empire are to be convoked simultaneously, in order to answer to be convoked simultaneously, in order to answer. not consented to join the Congress, and could "All the provincial councils of the Empire are not until they saw the result of the conference at the convoked simultaneously, in order to answer Zurich. Again, England must know how it was proposed to carry out the treaty before joining the groups and wishes of the populations. Important financial and military reforms are likewise pro-Congress, especially with respect to the restora-tion of the Dukes of Traceany and Modena, as England could never be a party to forcing them that the first army shall be maintained at present on their people without their free consent. He rejoiced to say that the King of Naples was beginning to put an end to the system which pre-valled under the late king, and sincerely desired it to terminate altogether. There was a treaty about to be made at Vienna, whither a confiden-land prevailed here, but the wrath of the Austial agent of the French government had gone to arrange the basis. The resentments of the two countries; their rooted prejudices were conquered upon the battle fields of Alma, of Balaclays, and Inkerman; they have been stifled by the applause which welcomed Victoria at Paris and Napoleon at London. Now that the mass of English journals, losing all moderation and dignity, are not careful to preserve toward the Emperor the respect which the French press has never failed to show toward the Queen—what does it matter? We appeal to good sense, to the public intelligence against such excesses, and the public intelligence against such excesses, and justice is done. Their complaints, the injustice of their daily alarms, cannot compromise an al-

Disb-On the 30th ult., in the 68th year of his age, Mr. Jameson Bearty, of Union Township, Washington County, Pa., and a Ruling Elder in the church of Minge. Mr. Beatty was born in Adams County, Pa., where his idhood and early youth were spent. At about eighteen years of age, he removed with his father's family to Run terstown, Pa., within the pastorate of Dr. David M'Con-oughy, late President of Washington College, and upon whose ministrations he attended until the thirty second year, of his age, when, having been united in marriage with Miss Margaret Brown, (a relative of the pious and devoted Rev. John Brown, of Haddington;) he removed to Congruity, the pastorate of Dr. Samuel McFarren, and upon whose ministrations he also attended for some years. But although he enjoyed, and very highly prised the ministrations of these eminent Divines, of each of whom he always spoke in the very highest terms of praise, yet it was not Washington County, Pa., within the pastoral charge of Dr. Samuel Raiston, that he saw his way clear to make a public profession of his faith in Christ. But having then enlisted as a soldier of the Cross, he at once became, and for over thirty years continued to be, a most active, devoted, and sealons servant of Him whose cause he had espoused. In the an hour or two daily, or by missionating in the cities at Fall of 1887, he was elected to the office of Ruling Elder in Miego, and, as each of the brethren who in succession have ministered to that congregation, and especially he whose mournful privilege it is to offer this tribute to his departed worth, can testify, he was truly an Aaron and a Hur, to stand by the side, and by his affection and influence, his The cause of Christ, and especially the welfare of the congregation of Mingo, lay very near his heart. For this his labor, his liberality, and his prayers, were greatly put forth, and in the last interview it was the writer's privilege to have with him, his heart seemed almost ready to break, in sadness and grief, in view of the shepherdless condition and the gloomy and apparently darkening prospects, that devoted flock. And truly, in his departure that church has lost a firm pillar, that congregation a most willing and liberal supporter, and that community a large a most active and worthy benefactor. Besides his able companion, he leaves behind, to mourn his loss six worthy sons, and four amiable daughters; three of whom (a son and two daughters,) are married and settled in life; four of whom (two sons and two daughters.) it was the writer's privilege to receive into the communion of th Church, and with seven of whom it was the father's privilege to sit down at the communion table in Mingo church, fore his departure to the Church above. females in particular, I have need more of them than all other medicines. Like every other medicine, these must fall in some instances, but in my hands there has been less disappointment and more satisfaction in the administration of this one remedy than of all others—its good effects sometimes quite astonishing me.

If my patient required a safe aperient medicine, either before or after parturition; the Wilson's Pills were just the thing I wanted.

If a dyspeptic acid condition of the stomach, combined with contiveness, or inactivity of the liver, constituted the disease of my patient, the pills were just the thing I wanted.

If I treated a case requiring an emmenagogue, the Wilson's Pills, were just the thing I wanted.

with costiveness, or inscrivity of the liver, constituted the disease of my patient, the pills were just the thing I wanted.

If I treated a case requiring an emmenagogue, the Wilson's Pills were just the thing! Wanted.

If palpitation, headache, flushed countenance, or other difficulties indicating a disturbance of the circulatory and secretory systems, annoyed my patient at the turn of life, the Wilson's Pills were just the thing I wanted.

Thus, without respect to the name a disease might happen to wear at the time I have had it under treatment; particular indications or symptoms arising were always most promptly, and most happily met by the Wilson's Pills.

That so great a number, of diseases, and sometimes apparently opposite ones, in which I have used those pills should be cared more readily by them than by any other remedy, may at fart seem strange and contradictory, but why it is so, is as clear to my mind as that a great many persons should become thirsty from as many different causes, and yet all require that common and greatest of all blessings, water, to quenon their thirst.

Is conclusion, it is due the reputation of medicine and the public to say, decidedly and unconditionally, that the Wilson's Pills are the only combination I have ever met with in my, long course of practice that really possess any thing curative or specific for sick headache.

Yours, 40...

The peace is becoming much more acceptable than at first. It is seen to have been necessary, and its terms are being regarded as quite favorable, and its terms are being regarded as quite favorable, and its terms are being regarded as quite favorable, and its results beneficial. The Paris Constitutionnel thus discourses:

France (its arms) I for regiments and her fleets enter, with the least possible delay, into the narrow limits which a state of peace requires. We know not what effect this grave step, due to the made of such being the manly initiative of the Emperor may have recorded.

The peace is becoming much more acceptable that, in the anticipation of a common action on the part of those Powers, Russia felt herself bound in honor to forewarn the French Emperor that she was not prepared to support him in the case of a general war.

THOSE WHO HAVE LOST TRETH will be glad to learn that they may now have them replaced by artificial sets, which are for all purposes of mas tication and articulation in no way inferior to natural Teeth. These qualities, which have so long been sought for in the dental art, have been attained by the employment of Perceian and Coral, or Vulcanite, as a base. The difficulty hitherto has been that lightness could not be secured without sacrifices of strength; both of these desirable qualities are combined in the new material.
