Congress reassembled on the 8th inst. Little save the presentation of petitions and memorials, and the adoption of a few simple resolutions of inquiry, was done in the Senate.

In the House, bills were introduced as follows: To dispose of lands in the rebellious States for homesteads; to establish a Railroad between Washington and New York; to grant additional bounties to soldiers who enlisted early in the war; and several resolutions as follows: one declaring that the national forces shall not be withdrawn from the South until Congress shall deem their presence there unnecessary; and one of inquiry into the kidnapping of a child of an American lady by Maximilian, of Mexico. A bill denouncing polygamy as the twin relic of barbarism, and pledging the power of the Government to its extinction, passed.

Little business was done on the 9th. There was a passage at-arms in the House between Voorhees, of Indiana, and Bingham, of Ohio, Mr. Voorhees made a speech endorsing President amnesty and forgiveness to treason.

There are to be seven regiments of artillery, ten of cavalry, and sixty of infantry. Of the new regiments, one of artillery, two of cavalry, and ten of infantry shall be colored persons. The cavalry and artillery are to be organized as at present, and all the infantry regiments are to be organized on the basis of ten companies each. Part of these last are to be composed of men who have been disabled in battle, and will be officered by officers of the Veteran Reserve Corps. Several departments are is made a part of the regular organization. The bill to regulate the elective franchise in the Distirict of Columbia was taken up and amended, and then sent back to the committee. A resolution declaring that provisional governments were necessary for the wants and necessities of the lately rebellious States was offered and debated, but no result was arrived at. House. Jan. 10. Resolutions were offered expressing the confidence of the House in the President, and calling for information why Jeff Davis and others are held in confinement. A bill was introduced to punish counterfeiting with death. A long debate ensued on the bill granting the right of suffrage to colored persons in the District of Columbia.

Congress did little on the 11th. In the Senate, Judge Howe, of Wisconsin, offered a resolution for the appointment of Provisional governments for the Southern States, upon which Senator Johnson made a long speech. In the House the bill to extend suffrage to negroes in the District of Columbia was taken up, when Mr. Rogers, of New Jersey essayed a long composition intended to show that the Declaration of Independence was drawn by as big an ass as himself. He failed,—as usual.

Jeff. Davis-why he is not tried.

WASHINGTON, Jan; 10. The President to-day transmitted to the Senate a message in reply to a resolution calling upon him to inform that body upon what charges Jefferson Davis is confined and why he is not brought to trial.

The President encloses reports from the Secretary of War and Attorney General, and at the same time invites the attention of the Senate to that portion of his annual message which refers to Congress the question connected with

The spirit of assa-sination is not yet laid in Washington. Last Wednesday evening a ruffian entered the room occupied by Senator Wade, ostensibly to procure his signature to a recommendation for Government employment. Mr. Wade refused to give his signature on the ground that he was not acquainted with the applicant. Upon this the ruffian drew a bowie knife and was preparing to use it, when Mr. Wade drew a revolver, and leveled it at the yillain's head. This constrained the intended assassin to retreat; the Senator at his heels with revolver held in unpleasant proximity to the fellow's head. Thus they proceeded to the street door, where the Senator dismissed his murderous visitor.
