

as a mark to keep the furrows uniform in length. The headland should be ploughed last, in the same manner as the other lands, reversing it every other year by back-furrowing it, in order to keep it even. Nothing I despise more than to see a man ploughing without headlands; for, by ploughing round, (or square, if you please,) the team must be driven on the ploughed ground, in every corner, trampling the furrows, until it looks more like a road or brickvard than ground turned over on which to produce a crop. The second negligence, which is not the least, is not to measure every land before it is struck out, for it should And before it is struck out, for it should be uniform in width, and straight, in order that the last furrow may be whole and avoid turning back in the middle of the land. I hope none of these boys will ever undertake to strike out a land without a mark; for even our Bible teaches us to look on the mark, and not turn back, but hold our hands on the plough straight to the end. I hope you will have pride enough to plough straight, if nothing else. Show me a ploughman who has no pride, and I will show you one that I don't want to employ to plough for me; for I follow my occupation for pleasure, as much a for profit.

The house-builder and the wheel-right, &c., have their chalk-line and square to use; and it is right they should use them—for without they would waste both time and lumber. Why not plough by rule? Business men have their detectors: farmers ought to know how to detect poor ploughmen; for there are many worthy capitalists who invest in agricultural pursuits, who are not judges themselves; and also widows, having lost their life-mates, and are dependent on others to do their plowing, &c.

First, they can be detected, generally by their voice; but most always, like hog-shearing, more noise than wool-Next they curse, and whip, orstone the, team, sending the plough to a warmer climate, and him that made it, when in fact the fault lies all behind the ploughs

I beg leave to address myself once more to you, boys. Never keep much noise when ploughing, nor allow yourselves to curse or swear.

I have no doubt if the ploughingmatch, once existing under the influ-ence of our County Fair, had been con-tinued, that it would have done much good ere this. I propose that another shall be organized. One sub-district is shall be organized. One sub-district is enough in which to hold a ploughing-match. By so doing, we would raise a spirit of pride and competition, without which we shall never have the pleasure of seeing much reform.

I conclude by expressing my gratitude for your undivided attention. Please excuse me for deviating partly from the subject in these last remarks; hoping that some other time I shall address you on the same subject, and give more in-struction and find less fault.

A GENTLE HINT.-Ata concert which took place lately, a gentleman in the au-dience rose up just as the third piece in the programme had been performed, and said: "Mr. Conductor, will you and said: "Mr. Conductor, will you oblige me, sir, by requesting your vocal-ists either to sing louder, or to sing in whispers, as there is a conversation going on close by where I sit, that is conducted in such a loud tone as to hinder my enjoyment of the music. I prefer certainly to hear the concert; but if I cannot be so privileged, I desire to hear the conversation."
