POSTS-WHICH END DOWN ?- A short time ago there was printed in the Telegraph a communication as to whether fence posts ought to be planted as they grow, or the reverse. The writer took the ground and showed that posts set the small end down would last much longer, and gave his reasons, which were excellent, why it was so. Since then we find in the Prairie Farmer a then yee find in the Prairie Farmer a communication on the same subject from Mr. D. A. Lillie, of King's coun-ty, Illinois, in which he says: "About eighteen years ago, my brother made 100 rods of stilt fence, in Will county, that is, crooked rail fence laid upon posts driven eighteen inches in the cround. These posts were all from the ground. These posts were all from the same burr oak tree, and sharpened with-out regard to top or butt. A few years since I helped him move this fence, and found perhaps half the posts nearly rotted off, and the rest nearly or entirely sound; and what was most singular, sap posts were often sound, and heard ones rotten, which excited our curiosity to ascertain the cause, and we found the sound ones set top down, and the rotten ones butt down."

This additional fact should attract the attention of farmers everywhere, espe cially in regions where timber is scarce and dear. Not only much time and la bor, but a heavy expenditure of money is involved in this question. If any of our agricultural readers have experience in the matter, we shall be glad to hear from them.—Germ'n Tel.

WARTS ON CATTLE.—A subscriber asks how warts can be readily removed with caustic, lunar, or potash. Five cents worth, of either lunar caustic, or caustic of potash, will suffice. Keep the caustic in a vial, take a stick of it, wet the end with water or spittle, and rub it on the warts. Two or three ap-plications will suffice. Be very careful with the caustic of potash for it will cat with the caustic of potash, or it will eat too deep and make a sore.—N. H. Far.

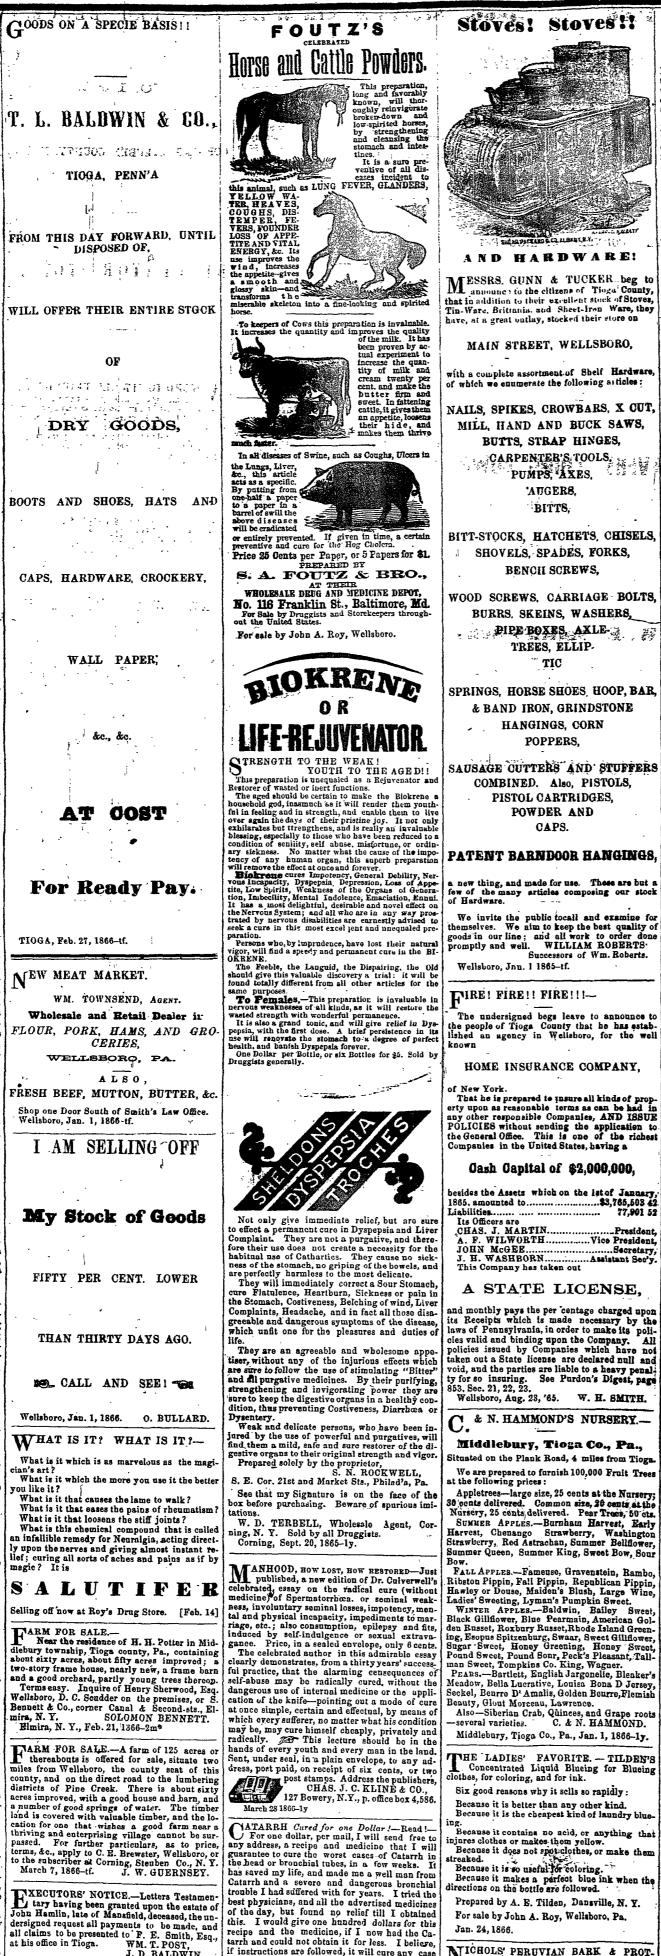

To REMOVE STUMPS .- A correspondent of the Bural Register states that Mr. John Barnes, of Baltimore, removed a troublesome stump from near his house, in the following manner:

"Last fail, with an inch auger, he bored a hole in the center of the stump ten inches deep, and into it put about half a pound of oil of vitriol, and corked the hole up tight. This spring, the whole stump and roots, extending thro! all their ramifications, were so rotten that they were easily eradicated."

If true, the above would be a cheap method of removing stumps. The sulphuric acid can be bought for about five cents per pound.

EAT YOUR BROWN BREAD FIRST.— It is a plain but faithful saying, "Eat your brown bread first;" nor is there a better rule for a young man's outset in the world. While you continue single, you may live within as narrow limits as you please; and it is then you must begin to save, in order to provide for the more enlarged expenses of your future family. Besides, a plain, frugal life is then supported most cheerfully; it is your own choice, and it is to be justified on the best and most honest principles in the world; and you have nobody's pride to struggle with, or appetites to master, but your own. As you advance in life and success, it will be expected you should give yourself greater indul-gence, and you may then be allowed to do it both reasonably and safely.

A MEDICAL SNUB .-- Some twenty years ago a farmer's barn in the vicini ty of Worcester was struck by lightning and burned to the ground. Many of the citizens had gone to the fire, when a fop, well strapped and dickied, with his cap on one side of his head, met a celebrated doctor and accosted him in this wise : "Can you, ah, tell me, doctor, how far they have succeeded in extinguishing the conflagration of the, an unfortunate yeoman's barn?" The doc tor eyed the individual attentively, and dropped his head as usual for a moment, and then slipping his thumb and finger in his vest pocket, took out a couple of pills and handed him, saying, "Take and the second of the second o

pills and handed him, saying, "Take these, sir, and go to bed; and if you do not feel any better in the morning, call at my office."

The latest effusion of the renowned Artemus we have not yet seen in print. It is said that being at one of the New York churches recently, he electrified the audience by his unexpected reply to the preacher's text, which was as follows: "How are the mighty fall-en?" After a short pause Artemus looked up inquiringly and said meekly, "I give it up!" He thought it was a conundrum.

Little Ella is about four years old .-One day she committed an act of diso bedience, and her mother in correcting her spoke in no gentle tone of voice the child threw her arms round her mo ther's neck and exclaimed, "Dear mamma, pray forgive me! If I had known how spunky it would make you, I wouldn't have done so."
